4 killed in Valley weekend crashes

Holiday traffic accidents killed four persons in two separate area accidents Sunday. Fifteen other persons died on state roads during the long Memorial Day holiday weekend.

A fiery crash involving an automobile and a motor home early Sunday morning killed a young Oshkosh woman, a Neenah man and a Chicago woman on State 110 and Winnebago County Trunk AG in the Town of Winchester.

The three victims—all of whom died from intensive burns—are Lyneda A. Kluwin, 18, 705 Jackson St., Oshkosh; Rocco G. Panzenhagen, 21, 852 Hunt Ave., Neenah; and Doris E. Woolfolk, 37, Chicago.

Daniel Roehrig, 22, 212A Jefferson St., Chilton, died Sunday after he was involved in a two-car accident at about 2 a.m. that day five miles west of Chilton at the intersection of U.S. 151 and Calumet County Trunk C.

Mrs. Woolfolk's widower, James, 38, is listed in serious condition at Theda Clark Memorial Hospital, Neenah, with head injuries.

According to Winnebago County Sheriff's reports, Woolfolk was driving his camper north on 110 when the car operated by Panzenhagen, traveling west on AG, veered into his path at about 1:05 a.m. Sunday. Mrs. Woolfolk was sitting next to her husband; Miss Kluwin was Panzenhagen's passenger.

After both vehicles collided and went off the road, the camper hit a tree. The second vehicle burst apart, flipped over and landed upside down on the 1973 model motor home. Both vehicles then burst into flames.

Winnebago County Coroner Duane Moore said Mrs. Woolfolk was thrown free of the camper, but was killed by a burning engine housing that fell on her. According to reports, the bodies of Panzenhagen and Miss Kluwin were burned beyond recognition.

Two persons riding in the rear section of the camper were injured also. They are Harold Woolfolk, 17, a son, and Derek Rucker, 18, Chicago, a cousin. Both were treated for minor injuries at Theda Clark and released.

Sheriff's deputies who arrived on the scene said propane and gasoline tanks were burning intensely for some time after the accident. Firemen from the Town of Winchester were called to extinguish the blaze.

Funeral services for Miss Kluwin were to be at 1:30 a.m. today at the Konrad Funeral Home in Oshkosh. Services for Panzenhagen will be at 2 p.m. Thursday at the Westgor Funeral Home, Neenah.

Roehrig, who was alone in his car, died of massive head injuries at Theda Clark, where he was transferred from Calumet Memorial Hospital, Chilton. His auto and one driven by Lyle J. Fuhrman, 52, route 2, New Holstein, collided at the rural intersection.

Fuhrman was listed early this morning in critical condition, suffering from facial lacerations and internal injuries, at St. Elizabeth Hospital, Appleton. He was transferred there from Calumet Memorial, where his wife, Monica, 53, is listed in stable condition, suffering from fractures of both legs and minor cuts and bruises.

According to the Calumet County traffic report, Fuhrman, who had been headed south on C, turned left onto 151 and collided with the Roehrig car, eastbound on 151.

The force of the collision spun the Fuhrman car back into a ditch and the Roehrig car slid sideways, clipping off a utility pole, and came to rest on its left side in a nearby field. The young man was pinned partially under the auto.

He is survived by his widow, a baby and his parents. His death is the first this year on Calumet County roads.

Visitation will be after 4 p.m. today at the Pfeffer Funeral Home, Chilton. Funeral services will be at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday at St. Elizabeth Catholic Church, Kloten.

Deaths of 15 other persons from traffic accidents during the Memorial Day weekend put Wisconsin's 1974 toll at 271 today, compared with 382 on the same date last year.

The death toll for the comparable 1973 Memorial Day period was 15.

Michael Derra, 18, of Madison died today of injuries sustained Monday night when his car struck a guard rail along Interstate 90 southeast of Madison.

Gary Kuehn, 18, of rural Wisconsin Rapids was killed Monday night when his car left a road five miles southeast of Elkhorn and struck several trees.

Doreen Drost, 24, of Rice Lake died Monday in a two-car collision on U.S. 53 in Rice Lake.

Four teen-agers were killed Sunday when their car struck a freight train halted at a rural Barron County crossing.

Dead are Steven Lloyd, 18, of rural Barron; Bernadette Henk, 15, of Barron; Lisa Kennedy, 14, of rural Cameron and her sister, Laurie Kennedy, 12.

Randy Topper, 22, of rural Colfax was killed Sunday in a two-car collision in Barron County.

Ronald Scammahorn, 18, of Rinard, Ill., died Sunday when his motorcycle collided with a car on a rural road near Watertown.

Other weekend victims were Dolores Loeffel, 39, of Rib Mountain; Keith Kralicek, 20, of Racine; Howard Weiss, 29, of Holmen; Donald Anton, 34, of Chicago; William Rahl, 81, of rural Alton; and Angeline Mann, 76, of Milwaukee.

Iola seeks okay for hospital plan

BY FERN SMITH
Post-Crescent staff writer

IOLA — This community's plea for a favorable recommendation to rebuild its 24-bed community hospital enters its next-to-the-last hurdle tonight when it goes to the Lake Winnebago Area-Wide Comprehensive Health Planning Council's Executive Committee in Oshkosh.

The board of directors of the hospital has been promised that it will have an answer from the council tonight. Final approval will be made by the state Division of Health Policy and Planning in Madison.

Suspense has mounted among the directors and the 4,000 residents the hospital serves, since the need for rebuilding the 24-bed hospital at a cost estimated to be $833,545 was forcefully presented on May 23 in a public hearing. The meeting was attended by 325 residents, the Waupaca County Health Resource Committee, spokesmen from the business community and civic leaders and not one objection was presented during the three-hours.

"We will raise the money for our own hospital, we will manage our own hospital and we will pay for it," D.O. Omholt, local attorney, capsuled the testimony given by a number of residents.

The Iola Hospital, which has been serving the community for 54 years, no longer meets Medicare requirements, and must be replaced if it is to continue service in the area. Fifty per cent of the hospital's gross revenue comes from Medicare and Medicaid patients and, it was cited, without this certification, the hospital could not operate.

"The strongest feasibility factor for replacing the hospital is lost in a maze of numbers," as Wayne Helgeson, spokesman for the hospital board, cited at Thursday's hearing. "Our people want a local hospital, they use the local hospital, they know that if the hospital goes our two doctors will soon follow and our 38-bed skilled nursing care facility will be threatened, if not lost."

Rep. Harold Froehlich, (R-8th) and Rep. Francis Byers, (R-Marion), sent spokesmen to encourage a favorable recommendation from the council executive board. They noted that bigger size did not necessarily mean better medical care, that growth in the area strongly recommended the continuance of the Iola Hospital and asked that nothing be done to create a doctors' shortage in this and other rural areas. The Waupaca County Health Resource Committee unanimously enclosed the project.

Roger Baird, member of the executive committee, Menasha, reviewing the new hospital project today, told the community at the hearing Thursday, "The tremendous interest you have shown by your presence here, —it is by far the largest turnout we have ever seen at a hearing of this kind —well, there is nothing you could have done to impress us more about your need and support."

Weighing the proposed Iola Hospital project tonight will be E. Arthur Rehbein, Oshkosh; Roger Baird, Menasha; Paul N. Gohdes, M.D., Neenah; Mrs. Dolores Ecker, Chilton; Clifford Olsen, Auroraville; Casey Jones, Montello; James F. Kennedy, Fond du Lac and John Kafka, Clintonville, five consumers of health care and three providers of health care.

11 students honored by Laird Foundation

WISCONSIN RAPIDS — Eleven Central Wisconsin high school students, their principals and parents were honored Saturday at the eighth Laird Youth Leadership Foundation held at the Bullseye Country Club.

Melvin R. Laird, former 7th District Congressman and Secretary of Defense, spent an hour with the eight girls and three boys before the luncheon talking about what the future holds for them and our country—but he gently turned aside any political questions and refused to discuss Watergate or possible impeachment.

The scholarships, ranging in value from $1,000 to $2,000, are based on scholastic achievement and demonstrated leadership qualities. The students receive a check, the amount determined on financial need, and they can attend the college of their choice.

Winners in Waupaca and Shawano counties who were at Saturday's luncheon, with the colleges they plan to attend this fall, are:

Greg Aiken, Iola-Scandinavia High School, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daymond J. Aiken, Iola, will attend the UW-Stevens Point. His major still undetermined.

Barbara Ann Hedtke, Marion High School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Hedtke, Iola, will attend the UW

Oshkosh and plans to enter the social work field and eventually study law.

Elizabeth Anne Juers, Shawano High School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald A. Juers, Shawano, will attend the University of Minnesota School of Nursing, Minneapolis.

Larry Nillissen, Bowler High School, son of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Nillissen, Wittenberg, will enter Marquette University, Milwaukee, to study biology and chemistry and plans to study medicine.

Brenda Sue Wentworth, Weyauwega High School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold O. Wentworth, New London, will attend Bryan College, Dayton, Tenn., a Christian liberal arts school.

Laird scholarships

Five of the 11 recipients of this year's Laird Youth Leadership Foundation Scholarships were from Waupaca and Shawano counties. Visiting with Melvin Laird, former 7th District congressman and Secretary of Defense are, from the left, Brenda Sue Wentworth, Weyauwega High School;

Elizabeth Anne Juers, Shawano High School; Laird; Barbara Ann Hedtke, Marion High School; Larry Nillissen; Bowler High School; and Greg Aiken, Iola-Scandinavia High School. The presentations were made Saturday at Wisconsin Rapids. (Post-Crescent photo)

Installation of officers of Job's Daughters' set for Saturday

CLINTONVILLE — Installation of officers of Job's Daughters, Bethel No. 26, will be at 8 p.m. Saturday at the Masonic Temple.

Bonnie Fuchs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Fuchs, Marion, will be installed as honored queen by Linda Bertram, outgoing queen.

Other officers to be installed are Mary Henschel, senior princess; Barbara Wood, junior princess; Carol Neilsen, guide; Claire Williamson, marshal; Sara Newton, chaplain; Nona Sandberg, recorder; Ginny Volstedt, treasurer; Miss Bertram, musician; Debbie Morgan, librarian; and first through fourth messengers, respectively, Nancy Jo Lewis, Sara Oberhauser, Jill Smith and Lisa Mayne.

HORTONVILLE — Supporters of the striking Hortonville teachers from around the state gathered in Hortonville and Greenville on Memorial Day for a rally to show continued support for the fired teachers and their strike effort. Teachers estimated the crowd at 400 to 500, but law enforcement officials said it was more like 60 to 70.

Meanwhile, a Cooperative Educational Services Agency No. 8 teacher who sympathizes with the fired teachers was arrested in a Hortonville tavern for obstructing an officer about 5:15 p.m. Monday.

The Hortonville Education Association paid the $100 bail to get her released from jail early Monday evening. Police said she became abusive after they asked her to leave the tavern for her own safety. They were concerned for persons with anti-teacher sentiment who were in the tavern.

In other developments: Supt. Marvin Oby said the board of education Monday night approved hiring one of the fired teachers who reapplied for a job next fall, and he said that another fired teacher visited his home over the weekend and will be sent a contract as requested.

The board has offered contracts for 1974-75 to over 60 replacement teachers, but apparently has some openings for fired teachers.

Oby also reported that seventh and eighth grade students would attend classes for a half day Saturday, and kindergarten pupils full, instead of half, days on Friday, June 4, June 5 and June 12 to make up for strike-lost time. The kindergarten pupils won't be forced to stay until 4 p.m., he said.

Michael Wisnoski, HEA president, said the Monday rally at Greenville park included speeches by several persons, such as Mort Mondale, president of the Minnesota Education Association and brother of U.S. Sen. Walter Mondale and Ellen Farrelly, president of the Timberline, N.H., Education Association. Timberline has been on strike also.

The speakers promised support for the Hortonville teachers and said their cause was the cause of all teachers in the nation.

The HEA assistance fund received additional money, boosting contributions to about $175,000.

The teachers and their sympathizers held a march on Main Street, causing minor traffic problems, authorities said.

The arrested teacher was Veronica

VanSusteren, Appleton, a speech therapist who spends part of her teaching week at Hortonville. Police said she and another woman entered the bar, and that the one left when she was asked to by authorities.

Wisnoski said VanSusteren was refused a drink and so just sat in the bar with a friend.

Saturday, HEA members gave their downtown Hortonville strike headquarters a spring house-cleaning. A spokesman said the teachers had moved into the abandoned business establishment without thoroughly cleaning it, expecting their walkout to be short-lived.

During the weekend, the spokesman said, "we decided to clean it up because we figure we are going to be here for a long time."

Three men held after firing at car

NEW LONDON — Three New London men are being held in the Waupaca County jail pending filing of charges by the district attorney's office after a shooting incident in Outagamie and Waupaca counties early Monday morning.

Police said the three men were in a car that shined a spotlight on a car behind it about 2:10 a.m. near U.S. 45 and Cross Road in the Town of Hortonville.

The men in the lead car then allegedly fired shots at the other car and followed it to Waupaca County on County Trunk N. At about 2:40 a.m., the three New London men reportedly fired a second shot from a .22 rifle at the second car and the incident was reported to the New London police and the Outagamie and Waupaca county sheriff's departments.

The compact car which contained two persons had one bullet hole in the windshield directly in front of the driver. The bullet had ricocheted off the dashboard and missed the car's occupants. The car also had one bullet hole in the oil pan.

Changes in post office hours set

HILBERT — Changes in service hours at the post office here have been announced by Postmaster Gordon Hauser.

Effective June 8, the lobby will be open on Saturdays from 7 to 10 a.m. and counter service will be provided from 8:30 to 10 a.m. The post office will close at 10 a.m. instead of the present 3 p.m.

A metro pick-up at 4:45 p.m. will continue to be provided for out-of-county preference and other first class mail and airmail. This also applies to Monday holidays, for those who want to mail out. The box is located in front of the post office.

Monday through Friday, effective June 10, the lobby will be open from 7 a.m. to 4:45 p.m., and daily counter service will be from 8:30 to 11 a.m. and noon to 4:30 p.m., a half hour reduction from the present 5 p.m. closing.

Area mail processing has been extended in Green Bay making it necessary to schedule earlier return trips. Patrons are urged to mail before 4:20 p.m. and to separate local and out-of-town mail.

The post office will close daily beginning June 10 at 4:45 p.m. and 10 a.m. on Saturdays beginning June 8.

Amherst story hour

AMHERST — The children's story hour will start at 10:30 a.m. June 8 at the public library. Mrs. Gerald Raddatz will tell and read stories and present film strips to preschool and primary grade youngsters.

What's below bottom in food purchases

How far can the millions of poor in America trade down in food—in an era of galloping “staple inflation”? While you may be spending the national “average” of only 16 per cent of your after-tax income on food, what about the family already spending 30 to 50 per cent of its income on food and facing quantum jumps in the prices of those high-protein basics at the very bottom of the food ladder? What's below the bottom?

In the past year, according to latest official figures, the cost of food at home has risen almost 20 per cent. But in the same period, the average price of a five-pound bag of flour has soared 60 per cent; a three-pound can of shortening has jumped 64 per cent; a 10-pound bag of potatoes, 60 per cent; bread, 34 per cent; a pound of dried beans, 182 per cent; a pound of rice, 103 per cent; a half-gallon of milk, 27 per cent; a dozen large eggs, 29 per cent; a pound of turkey, 35 per cent; 1/2 pound cheese, 30 per cent. And so it goes.

Traded down in 1973

As meat prices skyrocketed in 1973, millions traded down from steaks to stew, hamburger, fish and chicken; from stew and hamburger to milk, cheese, rice and beans.

But by so doing, we intensified an already powerful price rise among these “bottom rung” basics. Bean prices were rising before our demands spurred because of production cutbacks by farmers discouraged by low bean prices in previous years.

The price of rice took off in response to enormous exports by the U.S. last year and a huge gift of rice to South Vietnam to use as currency in exchange for money to support the South Vietnamese army.

Increases in prices of milk, turkey and eggs are tied to increases in the costs of feed grains.

As a result, a pound of dried beans is becoming almost as expensive as a pound of hamburger and, reports one food processor, it's now more costly to produce a can of chili and beans than it is to produce a can of chili and beef!

And that's only part of the staple inflation tale, for prices also have been soaring for other key protein substitutes—dried milk, lentils, split peas, spaghetti and macaroni. (Somewhat surprisingly, though, the Bureau of Labor Statistics does not price these items for its monthly reports.)

What do you turn to now?

Where does the low-income family—which has been leaning more and more heavily on spaghetti, beans, cheese, rice and the like—turn now?

Among the few items left to trade down to is peanut butter. But peanut butter costs an average of more than 75 cents a pound at latest official reporting date, hardly a bargain anymore. Another is tuna fish. But tuna fish is also up 19 per cent from a year ago and is moving rapidly out of the bargain category.

Our Secretary of Agriculture's memorable advice a while back to “eat less” is fine for the overweight, overfed middle-income American—and indeed, in 1973, our national per capita food consumption dropped 2 per cent while our consumption of meat fell sharply for the first time in decades (7 per cent). Welcome as this may be for our overfed, it's hardly practical advice for the family already on a grossly inadequate diet, already buying at the bottom of the food ladder—and facing along with the rest of us inescapable increases in the costs of clothing, shelter, transportation, other absolute necessities.

The diets of most of the one in five Americans who now qualify for food stamps are widely considered nutritionally deficient. Where does this family turn—except to more malnutrition or more help via food stamps?

Pet food sales zooming

Still to come, I suppose, is the money-saving advice: “Eat dog food.” However, pet food sales are zooming, and in low-income areas sales are now far exceeding the amounts which could be consumed by their animal populations. By one recent estimate, one-third of the dog and cat food being bought in ghettos is consumed by people. And, notes a report on food price changes by the Senate Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs, advertising by pet food manufacturers has appeared to be “more and more directed at possible human consumers.”

(P.S. The American Assn. for the Advancement of Science predicts food price increases of 20 to 30 per cent a year for the remainder of the century because of surging energy costs—and an overall price spiral of 600 per cent over the next four decades.)

Princess Anne's cook in hot water for her appointment

LONDON (AP) —Princess Anne has found herself a cook and the stew already threatens to boil over.

The girl with the golden skillet is farmer's daughter Valerie Bugden, 19. Her appointment has set off a sizzling row among her former fellow students at a cookery college in Kent.

They claim that Valerie was unfairly granted a quickie diploma so she could leave college early to take the royal job. Her exam, they say, was held in secret in a college bedroom and the papers included questions from old tests.

Kent County Council, which runs the college, admitted the exam had taken place but said it now had been declared null and void. Valerie, now in residence at the newlywed princess's home, had no comment.

Poet Yevtushenko is apparently 'reinstated'

MOSCOW (AP) —The Literary Gazette has published excerpts from a new poem by Yevgeny Yevtushenko in an evident sign of renewed official approval for the poet. He last fell into disfavor by protesting the expulsion of Alexander Solzhenitsyn earlier this year.

The poem, published Wednesday, was entitled “A Poet Cannot Exist Outside the People.” It attacks Russian nationalism and was seen by some as an indirect criticism of Solzhenitsyn.

Without naming the banished author, Yevtushenko wrote of a man who “sings requiems for the serf-owning past, with deep sadness, just like a deacon.” Solzhenitsyn has been frequently accused by the Soviet media of longing for the times before Communist rule.

Police & fire beat

Lloyd Learman, 838 W. Spencer St., told police someone stole $1,700 worth of tools from a camper bus parked behind his home during the weekend.

The tools, kept in a large box, included several sets of drive sockets, box end wrenches, screwdrivers, a tongue wrench, crescent wrenches, hammers and other tools. Police said the bus had not been locked.

Gains shown in economy of Fox Valley

BY ARLEN BOARDMAN
Post-Crescent staff writer

While the nation's economy was suffering its worst slump in 16 years during the first quarter of 1974, Appleton and the Fox Valley managed to show economic gains, a survey by two University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh economists has indicated.

Nationally, the January-March, 1974, period showed the "real" gross national product declined at a 5.8 per cent seasonally adjusted annual rate.

"In light of this fact, it is encouraging that the Appleton economy continued to grow modestly during this period," the economists reported. "Total employment and manufacturing employment were significantly higher than year-ago levels."

The Fox Valley economy also showed gains from the 1973 first quarter in everything except new residential building units.

The economists conducting the survey are Dr. Daniel W. Raaf and Dr. Keith E. Voelker, editors of the monthly "Area Economic Indicators." A fund shortage and other factors have led them to eliminate publication for April and June.

The economists used 1971 as the base year, giving it the number 100. Only the figures for unemployment rates weren't factored with 1971 as a base year.

The Appleton indicators for March, 1974, increased 1.1 points, or 1 per cent, to 106.7 points from February, 1974, and from March, 1973, to March, 1974, it rose 4.0 points, or 4 per cent, to 106.7.

Manufacturing employment rose 1.5 points, or 1.4 per cent, to 105.8 from February to March, and 6.6 points, or 6.8 per cent, to 105.8 from March to March.

The unemployment rate for March, 1974, was down to 4.9 per cent compared with 5.0 per cent a year earlier, but the February, 1974, rate was 4.9 per cent.

3 killed in fiery accident

Holiday traffic accidents killed four persons in two separate area accidents Sunday. Fifteen other persons died on state roads during the long Memorial Day holiday weekend.

A fiery crash involving an automobile and a motor home early Sunday morning killed a young Oshkosh woman, a Neenah man and a Chicago woman on State 110 and Winnebago County Trunk AG in the Town of Winchester.

The three victims—all of whom died from intensive burns—are Lyneda A. Kluwin, 18, 705 Jackson St., Oshkosh; Rocco G. Panzenhagen, 21, 852 Hunt Ave., Neenah; and Doris E. Woolfolk, 37, Chicago.

Daniel Roehrig, 22, 212A Jefferson St., Chilton, died Sunday after he was involved in a two-car accident at about 2 a.m. that day five miles west of Chilton at the intersection of U.S. 151 and Calumet County Trunk C.

Mrs. Woolfolk's widower, James, 38, is listed in serious condition at Theda Clark Memorial Hospital, Neenah, with head injuries.

According to Winnebago County Sheriff's reports, Woolfolk was driving his camper north on 110 when the car operated by Panzenhagen, traveling west on AG, veered into his path at about 1:05 a.m. Sunday. Mrs. Woolfolk was sitting next to her husband; Miss Kluwin was Panzenhagen's passenger.

After both vehicles collided and went off the road, the camper hit a tree. The second vehicle burst apart, flipped over and landed upside down on the 1973 model motor home. Both vehicles then burst into flames.

Winnebago County Coroner Duane Moore said Mrs. Woolfolk was thrown free of the camper, but was killed by a burning engine housing that fell on her. According to reports, the bodies of Panzenhagen and Miss Kluwin were burned beyond recognition.

Two persons riding in the rear section of the camper were injured also. They are Harold Woolfolk, 17, a son, and Derek Rucker, 18, Chicago, a cousin. Both were treated for minor injuries at Theda Clark and released.

Sheriff's deputies who arrived on the

Roth to seek second state legislative term

State Rep. Tobias Roth, R-Appleton, noting that the two biggest issues among his constituents are inflation and ethics in public office, announced today that he will seek his second legislative term.

Roth, 35, promised a "positive and spirited campaign based on my personal ideals and record of service to the people of this area."

No challengers have yet surfaced for Roth's 42nd assembly district seat, although Appleton Ald. William Errington (15th) is said to be considering running as a Democrat.

Candidates have from June 1 to July 9 to file nomination papers for any of the state offices that will be up for election in November.

Nevertheless, the economists said, the March rate was lower than a year ago and below the statewide unadjusted rate of 5.5 per cent.

The average weekly manufacturing earnings rose 2.7 points, or 2.2 per cent, to 121.6 points from February to March and 5.7 points, or 5 per cent, to 121.6 from March, 1973. The rise was due mainly to an increase in the average number of hours worked per week.

Commercial and industrial power use rose .8 point, or .8 per cent, to 112.4 points from February to March, and .3 point, or .27 per cent, from March to March.

New residential building units rose 8.3 points, or 50 per cent, to 25.0 from March to March and 14.1 points, or 130 per cent, from February to March. The 1971 total units was 516, which would be equal to 100.

Bank debits rose 22.0 points, or 16.1 per cent, to 158.6 points from March to March and 27.3 points, or 20.8 per cent, to 158.6 points from February to March. This sharp increase to March partially reflects increased financial transactions tied to rapidly rising interest rates available on short-term certificates of deposit.

Large store retail sales dropped 2.0 points, or 1.9 per cent, to 105.4 points from March to March, and rose 13.1 points, or 14.2 per cent, to 105.4 from February to March. If the nearly 10 per cent inflation rate in the national economy is taken into account, the "real" basis sales are down.

Postal receipts rose 2.3 points, or 8.7 per cent, to 114.1 points from March to March and 11.9 points, or 11.8 per cent, from February to March. The postal rates were affected by rate increases in March, 1974.

In the Valley, the total employment rose 2.6 points, or 2.5 per cent, to 106.4

Five days after Percy Schwerke, 40, route 2, Shawano, was born, his mother died. Because his father did not think he could handle the responsibility of caring for another child, he gave him up for adoption.

Schwerke's brother, Orrin Gass, 52, 931 W. Spencer St., Appleton, was 11 years old at the time. Another brother, Orville Gass, 42, 205 N. Story St., Appleton, was barely 2 years old. Mrs. Carol Nieland, 44, Medina, a sister who was almost 4 at the time, was given up for adoption with her mother's sister.

Neither of the Gass brothers nor Mrs. Nieland ever ot to know Schwerke. Orrin Gass was the only member of the family to see him. And that was 40 years ago when he was just a few days old.

In the ensuing years, Orrin waged a continuing search to find Percy. His efforts were rewarded when he finally got in contact with him a few weeks ago. The family held a reunion at Appleton's Alicia Park Sunday.

"It's really incredible," commented the elder Gass. "We could have sat alongside each other and not known we were brothers."

"The first thing that hit me when I saw him was that, wow, he certainly resembles Orrin," said Mrs. Nieland.

"To me this was a strange and exciting experience," Mrs. Nieland said. "It was like a myth. I was told I had another brother but I didn't know whether to believe it."

Schwerke was taken from Appleton to Green Bay, then back to Appleton and finally to Shawano, where he had been living for the past few years.

Part of the reason Gass had such difficulty locating his brother was that the couple that adopted Schwerke died two years later and he was raised by his foster mother's sister.

Besides, Gass said he was told that his brother was living under the name of Johnson.

The reunion was made possible through an Appleton resident who was in Shawano recently and was told that Schwerke had a brother by the name of Gass living in Appleton, meaning Orrin.

The lady did not know Gass but upon returning to Appleton, she looked up his name in the telephone book and told him of her discovery. This prompted the two brothers to get in contact with each other.

Eventually Orville and Mrs. Nieland also contacted Schwerke and the entire family, each with their respective children, wives, husband and their only living aunt, culminated their reacquaintance at a grand family reunion Sunday.

"He wanted to surprise us by finding us first," Mrs. Nieland said. "I guess we sort of turned the tables on him."

Schwerke has understandably been flabbergasted by the whole experience. "After living for 40 years without the members of your family, it takes time to accept them. Of course the tie between us is not as strong as if we had known each other for the past 40 years but we'll keep in contact from here on."

Schwerke said he somehow thought his brothers and sister were in the Wittenberg area. He said the urge to find them was becoming stronger in recent years. "I'm sure some day I would have found them if they didn't find me first," he said.

Mrs. Nieland also commented that she was overcome with mixed emotions. "Until I got home, I don't think I felt anything. When we first met, I didn't know what to say for a

City still hopes to reach accord before losing funds

BY FRANK CHURCH
Post-Crescent staff writer

Sue Ringel, whose reluctance to move from her Memorial Drive apartment could cost the city $222,000 in federal aid, has nothing against what city officials are trying to do.

But she does not like state law provisions that say her former roommate must share equally with her in relocation assistance paid by the state.

The 20-year-old tenant has about two weeks to move from her 127 1/2 S. Memorial Drive address if the city is to remain eligible for $222,000 in federal TOPICS money to help reconstruct the Memorial Drive-College Avenue intersection this year. Total estimated cost for the project is $394,000.

If she doesn't move by then, state officials have told the city it will not be eligible for the aids and the allocated funds will have to revert to a general surplus fund, which will be reallocated next fiscal year (after July 1).

Several municipalities could be expected to go after that money—which will be distributed on a first come, first served basis—so the chances of the city's being left with nothing are not remote.

State highway officials from the Green Bay District 3 office are urging federal officials to allow for some delay in hopes of reaching an agreement with Ringel.

Ringel says she is considering the most recent offer of the city—to forego May's rent payment in return for agreement to move out.

"There's a possibility" she will agree to move out, she says. She said today that she did not know when she would make up her mind.

City and state highway officials met to discuss the predicament Friday. Reginald Draheim, one of the state officials, said today that there is nothing the state or city can legally do to force Ringel to move out before Aug. 5, the date the law requires her to be moved out.

"We have to operate within the realm of the law," said Draheim.

Ringel said she has seen a lawyer about the state's intention to pay her former roommate one-half of the $3,120 the state has agreed to pay the two tenants in relocation assistance.

That assistance is designed to allow the tenants to find suitable replacement housing for that which they are being displaced from. The $3,120 would furnish the additional money it would take to rent a $150 per month apartment over four years (the present apartment rents for $85 per month).

Ringel said some people have urged her to stay in her apartment until a satisfactory agreement is reached with her former roommate, who moved out in February. That roommate qualifies for relocation assistance because she was a tenant at the time negotiations began on Jan. 11 between the city and the owner of the property.

Ringel says she is willing to see her former roommate get some of the relocation assistance, but not half of it.

Draheim said the state cannot become involved in the squabble, because that could be viewed by observers as "coercion."

"We can't go to the roommate, for example, and try to talk her out of the portion that she's rightfully entitled to," he said.

City officials are angered at state and federal regulations which they say are forcing the tenant to be out of the apartment before it is really necessary.

City Atty. David Geenen, noting that Ringel could not remain in the apartment past Aug. 5, wondered why the bidding of the construction contracts could not proceed before that in anticipation of the city's eventual acquisition of the property.

Draheim said that can't be done, however. The real problem is "all of the doggone regulations that the state and federal governments have put on real estate acquisitions" by local units of government, Geenen said.

The project has been held up several times due to state delays in approving various stages, he said. Now the federal funds for the project are jeopardized by a minor delay in property acquisition.

"I'm still hopeful" that the project can be carried out in 1974, Geenen added, however.

Public Works Director Robert Miller agreed with Geenen's assessment of project rules and regulations. Some of them "seem on the surface, at least, to be utterly ridiculous" in a local situation.

Miller said he hopes the city can convince the tenant to move in time for the project to qualify for the TOPICS aid in 1974.

"If the project goes down the tube, she won't get anything," he said, noting that if the property is not used for the intersection project, its acquisition by the city will not require the payment of any relocation assistance to the displaced tenants.

The intersection project, which many see as essential in light of the difficult traffic patterns there now, has survived several other delays and squabbles over project cost assessments, budgeting, land acquisition, design, railroad crossings and more.

The latest problem surfaced when the state highway commission said the city's TOPICS' funding for the project would last only until June 30, or the end of the current fiscal year. After that, it would revert to a general fund that would be Fired teachers stage holiday rally

HORTONVILLE — Supporters of the striking Hortonville teachers from around the state gathered in Hortonville and Greenville on Memorial Day for a rally to show continued support for the fired teachers and their strike effort. Teachers estimated the crowd at 400 to 500, but law enforcement officials said it was more like 60 to 70.

Meanwhile, a Cooperative Educational Services Agency No. 8 teacher who sympathizes with the fired teachers was arrested in a Hortonville tavern for obstructing an officer about 5:15 p.m. Monday.

The Hortonville Education Association paid the $100 bail to get her released from jail early Monday evening. Police said she became abusive after they asked her to leave the tavern for her own safety. They were concerned for persons with anti-teacher sentiment who were in the tavern.

In other developments:

• Supt. Marvin Obyr said the board of education Monday night approved hiring one of the fired teachers who reapplied for a job next fall, and he said that another fired teacher visited his home over the weekend and will be sent a contract as requested.

The board has offered contracts for 1974-75 to over 60 replacement teachers, but apparently has some openings for fired teachers.

• Obyr also reported that seventh and eighth grade students would attend classes for a half day Saturday, and kindergarten pupils full, instead of half, days on Friday, June 4, June 5 and June 12 to make up for strike-lost time. The kindergarten pupils won't be forced to stay until 4 p.m., he said.

Michael Wisnoski, HEA president, said the Monday rally at Greenville park included speeches by several persons, such as Mort Mondale, president of the Minnesota Education Association and brother of U.S. Sen. Walter Mondale and Ellen Farrelly, president of the Timberline, N.H., Education Association. Timberline has been on strike also.

The speakers promised support for the Hortonville teachers and said their cause was the cause of all teachers in the nation.

The HEA assistance fund received additional money, boosting contributions to about $175,000.

The teachers and their sympathizers held a march on Main Street, causing minor traffic problems, authorities said.

The arrested teacher was Veronica

VanSusteren, Appleton, a speech therapist who spends part of her teaching week at Hortonville. Police said she and another woman entered the bar, and that the one left when she was asked to by authorities.

Wisnoski said VanSusteren was refused a drink and so just sat in the bar with a friend.

Saturday, HEA members gave their downtown Hortonville strike headquarters a spring house-cleaning. A spokesman said the teachers had moved into the abandoned business establishment without thoroughly cleaning it, expecting their walkout to be short-lived.

During the weekend, the spokesman said, "we decided to clean it up because we figure we are going to be here for a long time."

Another engineer in Neenah?

NEENAH — The burden of a heavy work load in the city public works department was eased with the recent hiring of an additional engineer, but Ald. Robert Troyer, chairman of the street and public works committee, has asked that another engineer be added to the staff by early 1975.

Public Works Director Wayne Bryan agrees something should be done, but he is not yet sure an additional full-time engineer is the answer.

At the street and public works committee meeting last week, Troyer made note of several projects that have been delayed because engineering and other related work could not be completed on schedule. The latest project to fall victim to the shortage of engineering staff is the paving of Oak Street, between Cecil Street and Washington Avenue. At Bryan's recommendation, the committee is recommending to the city council that the project be deferred until 1975. It was budgeted for 1974, but plans and specifications are not completed. Revised garbage regulations also were deferred at last week's meeting because they were not completed.

"I think the need (for another engineer) is present," Troyer said today. He said the trend over the past couple of years has been toward more postponements and deferrals of projects due to a shortage of engineering manpower in the public works department.

Troyer said inflationary costs are considerable when the city delays major construction projects such as the slough interceptor and street construction.

Something should be done about the workload problem, Bryan agrees. But he said he hasn't decided yet whether he will formally recommend hiring of another engineer as Troyer has asked him to do.

"I am not sure that additional engineering staff at this time is completely the answer," Bryan said. He said there is too much work to handle during the construction season months, but in December through March "it gets pretty quiet." Bryan said, "I can't see hiring a full-time person who wouldn't have work all the time."

If Bryan decides against hiring a full-time engineer, he may make an alternative suggestion to hire a person who would work on plans for projects that are many months in the future. He said a major problem his department faces is that the state requires a copy of plans 26 weeks prior to the date a project is scheduled to begin. Someone hired to take care of preparing those plans might take the place of a full-time staffer.

Bryan said one major reason the public works department continues to be behind in engineering is that the state no longer takes care of engineering for state highway and some other street projects within the city as they used to.

With the recent hiring of John Wilke as a city engineer, the public works department now consists of Bryan, two engineers, two technicians, one inspector and a secretary.

The woodlands of three generations

BY KATHY COOPMAN
News-Record staff writer

NEENAH — For a man after whom a natural habitat has been dedicated and who has worked the hard fields of a family farm, Henry Swatscheno appears to be a man resigned to life.

He has learned to accept the cards he's been dealt and to take pleasure in that which interest him: the preservation of a natural woodland on his family's homestead.

Just a week ago, the community dedicated that woodland to the Swatscheno family and vowed to preserve that parcel as well as an adjoining 85 acres as a recreation area.

Henry Swatscheno feels a strong attachment to the land, and keeps a wistful eye on the project, hoping that vandals and careless visitors won't turn it into a manmade sore spot.

The Swatscheno farm was a family plot begun by grandfather Matt, then handed down to son William before grandson Henry. The farm's cattle were shipped to Milwaukee and the milk sent to the Galloway Dairy. Its operation was maintained until 1960 when the land was sold and the barns torn down.

He still practices the farmer's way of life his father taught him. He predicted a cold spring and has now been proven correct. He watches the winter's effects on the berries and the grasses, and ponders what will happen to the park's projected prairie land.

Though pleased with the development and preservation of the property, Swatscheno sometimes dwells on second thoughts of whether he should have sold the land in the first place.

He says now that his brother originally pressured him to sell the land, first purchased in a 140-acre package by their grandfather in 1893. The brother urged the deal in the 1960s, saying Henry should get something for the property then when the buyer offered a good price.

"Well, you know how it is when you figure someone else's advice is better than your own," he comments now. "Father always said 'never cut this wood down,' so I'm going to see that it is preserved."

Perhaps he would have kept the land, he says, had he taken himself a wife and had a family to preserve the farm.

When he finally gave in to his persistent brother, Swatscheno spent many a winter night doing his chores while local real estate man Tony Winters sat beside him — verbally developing the recreational site for the owner.

Today he feels rather compromised on the deal, in that the land sold for somewhat less than original quotes and that city officials felt Memorial Park a better name for the tract, and the Swatscheno name for the woodland preserve.

"I guess it's all right, he concedes. "After we're all dead and gone, no one will remember us anyway."

Swatscheno is entitled to live on the northeast portion of the land as long as he desires, and he says he'll stick it out unless he becomes incapable of living along in the big farmhouse.

Now he is content to putse about the yard and gather kindling in the woods with his nephews and grand-nephews. Once the mainstay of the cattle and grain farm's operation, he maintains a small garden, though he admits that is "even getting too much for a young fellow like me." He is 77 years old.

While he is content to be an enthused bystander in the park's development, he is quick and vocal on the state of the world's affairs.

From a dining room chair he vehemently and assuredly condemns President Nixon to impeachment, although he fears this will never come to pass because "there are those in Congress who will back him up — even though they know he's all wet."

His political allegiances are strong and he readily recognizes that political influences are powerful on the local level as well as on the national. He accepts his limits in both areas, and is content to be tempered by the years.

The program will be explained Wednesday, but those who would like to know which session their child is enrolled in may find out by calling the school secretary at 788-2811. The youngest children will attend in the morning and the older ones in the afternoon.

World economic crisis increases malnutrition

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United Nations Children's Fund announced Friday that because of the world economic crisis up to half a million children in the poorest parts of the world are threatened by increased malnutrition.

Adopting a three-year spending program of $324 million, UNICEF appealed to all governments to step up their support of programs for children.

Labor delegates hear talks by Schreiber and Cornell

Lt. Gov. Martin Schreiber and Democratic 8th district congressional candidate the Rev. Robert Cornell met with local officers and delegates from area labor organizations and their wives Saturday night for the dedication of the new Labor Center at 2828 N. Ballard Road. Partisan politics was the order of the day.

The Republican-dominated state Senate received a slashing from Schreiber because, he said, it makes "decisions on the interests of big business instead of the working man."

Eighth District Congressman Hoard Froehlich, R-Appleton, also was criticized by a number of speakers, particularly state AFL-CIO representative Jack Rehl.

"You'd think Harold would get smart and throw us a few bones," he said. "He hasn't even done that."

Schreiber's talk centered on job creation and inflation.

"We're going to have to provide 219,000 new jobs for the citizens of Wisconsin by 1980," he told the 150 persons present.

He said the Lucey administration's record for creation of jobs in the state is very and that it has reversed the bad impression of Wisconsin as being unfavorable to industry.

The other key issue Schreiber discussed was inflation.

"Our pockets are being picked by the inflation spiral that is lowering our standard of living," he said. He charged inflation is the product of poor legislation and blamed the Republican-controlled state Senate and big business for allowing it to grow.

"Some corporations and businesses are using inflation as an excuse to raise prices," he said. "How long are we going to allow this to continue?"

Cornell spoke briefly in what turned out to be a campaign speech. He emphasized pro-labor politics but said he resents being accused of "selling out to labor."

"If elected...you can check my voting record and see it is one supporting labor," he said.

The Appleton Labor Center serves 11 unions with about 1,800 members.

Rape counts dismissed

OSHKOSH — Rape-related charges against two men affiliated with the D.C. Eagles motorcycle club were dismissed Friday by Circuit Judge Edmund P. Arpin.

Todd "Denice" Stumpner, 26, had been charged with rape, while James P. Bloy, 21, had been accused of aiding and abetting rape. Both are from route 2, Berlin.

A charge of false imprisonment against a 19-year-old woman had previously been dismissed.

The charges stemmed from an incident last Nov. 23 involving a 26-year-old woman at her Oshkosh residence.

The woman apparently declined to offer testimony the district attorney's office had received earlier from her.

The attorney for the defendants had sought dismissal of the charges last month on grounds that the complaint was insufficient, that there was insufficient evidence taken at a preliminary hearing to bind the case over for trial, and that the complaint was unverified and not obtained under oath.

Need for house numbering seen in Stockbridge

STOCKBRIDGE — Because of the numerous requests made to local businessmen by visitors seeking directions to various residences, the Stockbridge Area Chamber of Commerce will investigate the possibility of house numbering in the village.

Emil Kufahl and William Beyer have been appointed to attend the June 3 village board meeting to discuss the situation with officials.

Numbering roads in the Town of Stockbridge also will be studied at the next joint quarterly meeting of the town and village boards. Beyer will attend this meeting.

Having roads numbered has been suggested for some time by the volunteer fire department to assist in locating emergencies.

Clem Schumacher has been appointed to repair and replace the "Stockbridge Surgeon Center of the World" sign at the south edge of the village.

Industrial arts show to be held at Hilbert

Mission work in Brazil recounted

FOREST JUNCTION — The Rev. and Mrs. Lawrence Brown, missionaries to Brazil, have been bringing the story of their work in Curitiba to church members in this area.

Recently they spoke at Zion United Methodist Church, which contributes a portion of the mission support each year. The Browns, who are presently on four-month leave and will return in June, are members of the Conference Council of Administration of Sixth Region of the Methodist Church of Brazil.

Other support for their work comes from churches elsewhere in Wisconsin and in Ohio, Indiana, and Canada.

The Methodist Church in Brazil is not self supporting, they pointed out, since about two-thirds of the people live as subsistence levels, earning about $55 a month. They are thus very dependent on help from elsewhere, Rev. Brown, who is a Wisconsin native, explained.

He told of changes that are taking place in Brazil and how the religious climate is changing, with Bibles, once rare, now found almost everywhere in the country.

He told of how he joined with two Catholic priests a Lutheran minister, and some laymen in a program to bring the Bible to public school children.

Through work in the public schools, numerous teaching aids have been produced including student and teacher manuals, tapes to be broadcast over the radio, dramatizations of Bible stories, and others. In addition, they have been able to meet with most of the teachers in the city.

nearly 80,000 children in the first four grades, along with several thousand teachers and the parents who want to know what their children are learning in this religious education program and who listen to the radio programs at home.

The program will be extended to the older children in the next two years. Rev. Brown explained that they are now looking for a permanent camping place to hold retreats, and are seeking contributions for the establishment of a church in another city where they feel there is a desperate need for the Gospel. Mrs. Brown, who is from Indiana, said they hope to be the first missionaries there.

The Browns have one natural son and two adopted Brazilian sons, all of whom are married and living in Brazil.

67 will graduate in Manawa this week

MANAWA — Sixty-seven Little Wolf High School seniors will receive their diplomas from Lester Miller, board of education treasurer, at commencement exercises at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the high school gymnasium.

Friends get together after 25 years

BY HAZEL THIEL
Post-Crescent Correspondent

HILBERT — She felt "right at home," she knew what to expect and felt "as though I'd always known her."

This is how Mrs. Anne Green feels about Mrs. Pat Buelow. The two, who have been corresponding for 25 years, met for the first time last week.

An ocean had separated the two women, as Mrs. Green lives in England, and never dreamed one day she would meet the pen friend she found while she was a pupil at R. C. Thomas in Bloxwich, England, and Pat was attending St. Mary at Kaukauna. A friend of Anne's said her pen friend in America had a friend who would like an English penfriend, so they have been corresponding ever since.

The exchange of letters has been on a regular basis, since they were about 13 years old. "About every month, the friendly Englishwoman says, adding that sometimes they'd miss a few months in between but they have managed to keep up with what the other was doing through the quarter of a century.

The trip for Anne is a birthday gift from her husband, a world traveler, in addition to being a silver anniversary gift for the two women.

From Walsall, Staffordshire, in the heart of the industrial midlands, Anne flew with her 10-year-old daughter, Dawn, to Toronto, where Mr. and Mrs. Rueben Buelow, route 2, Hilbert, picked them up.

"It was Hans (Rueben) who spotted me first," Anne said. Rueben said he had no trouble picking her out of a crowd.

(For the writer, also a native of the English midlands it was almost like meeting a neighbor, as my father played semi-professional soccer for the Walsall Pheonix team in the 1920's. Anne informed me that the old crackerjack team recently was photographed in the local newspaper.)

The Buelow's home on Lake Winnebago at Faro Springs, was as she had imagined but she hadn't reckoned that Lake Winnebago would be so large. "It's like the sea," Dawn told her mother.

One of the first things Anne did was visit Kaukauna and take a photograph of the Kaukauna Dam, the first post-card Mrs. Buelow mailed to Anne in 1949 was of the Kaukauna Dam.

The photograph album came out and the two pen friends laughed as they went down memory lane together. Anne said she received an invitation to the Buelow's wedding and had really always hoped someday they would meet. The Buelow's have three children, Steve nine, Keith six and Kim four. Anne had a 17-year-old son, Carl, in addition to Dawn.

Getting to know each other in person has posed no difficulty and the children soon became acquainted. For Dawn, the typical well-mannered English child, she has found rough play somewhat different, but according to her mother "she's already worn out a pair of blue jeans."

Anne thinks American life is "just like on the movies," she's impressed with the similarity, she says, and is really "taken up" with the way people speak. (She thinks they all talk like hillbilly's).

She finds it difficult to understand why Americans don't think lamb and braised kidneys are a delicacy or why "they drink so much beer." She just didn't feel right about going into a tavern in the daytime especially when she was allowed to take Dawn inside.

In England children are not allowed in bars, even with their parents, English lawmakers feel it is not right, not because they might be tempted to drink alcohol, but because they may hear crude language.

Anne will stay for about two weeks and during that time she just wants to "live like they do everyday," she has no desire to be "a tourist." One thing however, she has a yen for is to go to an American "jumble" (rummage) sale. Of all things she's looking for a jardarine for a large house plant she has back home. "An old aspidistra pot will do," she says quite seriously. She also wants to visit an American school.

The women's liberation movement, Anne feels, is just as prevalent in England as here, most women work outside the home, and Anne drives a van three mornings a week, delivering stationery supplies. Her husband, Phillip, who assembles cranes for Rubery-Owen at Darleston, travels all over the world.

The cost of almost everything in England has escalated since the country's entry into the common market. Petrol (gasoline) is $1.50 a gallon. In spite of this she says her family still manages to go to their caravan (mobile home) every weekend in Wales.

And about driving here — she's amazed at the wide roads and she thinks Americans are "very careful drivers."

The Buelow's are delighted to be able to entertain their English friends, the two women have looked forward to the meeting since last October, when Anne wrote she was coming. "Pat told me to come in May, because it was so hot in August," Anne said. Now that she's heard about snowmobiling, ice on Lake Winnebago and seen pictures of monstrous sturgeon, she thinks the next time she may come in the winter.

And Mrs. Buelow noted, "now that we've met I would like to go to England."

Kaukauna sets summer recreational programs

KAUKAUNA — Art classes, prop shop, theater, for time, swimming, sports, playground activities, and other programs will be available to Kaukauna residents when the city recreation department's summer program begins.

The municipal pool will open June 10. Passes for free afternoon swimming for persons through age 17 are being issued at the recreation center at 144 E. Wisconsin Ave. They will not be issued at the pool. Regular passes are 20 cents and replacements are 30 cents.

Teenage splash parties will be held from 9 p.m. to 11 p.m. Monday and Thursday nights. Registration for swimming lessons is now being held. Those wishing to pass their swimming test and receive a patch may use the pool from 10 a.m. to noon on June 10, 11, and 12.

Boys sports will feature archery and softball for grades two and three. Boys in grades four through nine can choose from archery, baseball, basketball, softball, tennis and track. Those in grades ten, 11, and 12 can participate in archery, basketball and tennis if enough interest is shown.

Girls in grades five and up can pick either softball or basketball while those in third grade and up can pick archery or tennis.

Both boys and girls may register for these activities at Park and Nicolet school playgrounds on June 12 and 13. Nonresidents will be accepted with fees set at $5 for boys and $3 for girls, and may register at the recreation center.

Supervised playground activities begin June 17 at Glenview, Hennes, LaFollette, Nicolet, Park, Haen, Strassburg, White City and Riverside parks with hours and schedules set at each playground to suit the users and to make best use of the facilities. A special event each week will highlight activities in crafts, tournaments, games, contests, picnics and interpark competition.

Summer art classes will focus on a new choice of projects each week. Painting, drawing, clay modeling, wax and wire sculpture, plaster sandcasting, wood collage and assemblage, macrame and leather are offered to all ages. Classes meet Mondays, starting June 17, with a $3 fee and $5 for nonresidents. Classes, which will have mixed age levels, will be offered at 9:30 a.m., 10:45 a.m., 12:30 p.m., 1:45 p.m., and 3 p.m.

Backdrops, stage and hand props, costume accessories and posters will be created by persons enrolled in the prop shop for the summer theater production. Sessions meet Fridays, starting June 21, for students in the intermediate and upper grades and high school. There is no fee for residents. Nonresidents will be charged $2. The sessions will meet at 10:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. Summer theater members will be able to act in skits, direct or design costumes, sing in groups, play leads, solo, dance, or write skits. The opening week of the program will introduce the summer '74 theme on June 18. Activity choices will be completed and skits will be prepared. On June 19, all those who want acting parts will hold a class, and on June 20, dance assignments will be given. June 21 will focus on solo and small group singing. Theater classes will continue to meet each Tuesday and Wednesday until the stage show Aug. 7 and 8. Nonresidents will have to pay $2 while the program is free for city residents. Persons 4 years old through high school are eligible. Those in grades three through five will meet at 9:30 a.m. and at 12:30 p.m. Those in grades six through 12 will meet at 10:45 a.m. and at 12:30 p.m. Those age 4 through grade two will meet at 1:45 p.m. The central cast, grades three through 12 will meet again at 2:45 p.m.

Tot time will offer a new schedule of twice-weekly classes Mondays and Fridays beginning June 14 and ending July 12. Preschoolers from 3 to 5 years old will participate in group play, games, story-telling, singing and other programs at sessions scheduled for 9 a.m., 10 a.m., 11 a.m., 1 p.m., and 2 p.m. Nonresidents will be charged $2.

Safety school for kindergarten children in fall will be conducted by the tot time staff beginning July 15. Parents may register their children at the recreation office. Further information about the activities can be received from Mrs. Mary Carol Belling.

Fall term registrations for the Leco-Lite Majorette and Drum Corps; for tap, ballet and acrobatic lessons and for art classes and the prop shop during the school year may be made at the recreation offices. Students will be notified when the fall term begins.

minute."

Mrs. Nieland, who lived in Appleton before moving to Medina, is a housewife. Schwerke works as a data compiler for the Wisconsin Public Service Corp. in Green Bay. Orrin Gass is a fireman at the Wisconsin Tissue Mills in Menasha. And Orville Gass is a mill worker at Kimberly-Clark Corp.'s Lakeview mill, Neenah.

Neither had any way of recognizing the other after all these years but they all commented on the strong family resemblance.

The sister of Schwerke's adopted mother, whom he grew up with, died about four weeks ago.

Orrin Gass said he still hopes to find another sister who is living somewhere in Los Angeles and whom he hasn't seen since 1934. She too was given up for adoption at an early age.

allocated on a first come, first served basis.

The reason the tenant must be out of the apartment within two weeks, Geenen said, was in order to allow the state to put the project out for bids before June 30. That must be done in order for the funding to be continued.

The latest project estimate of $394,000 came out about a half year ago. Inflation might have added to that, officials point out.

The project estimate back when it was first expected to begin was about $300,000, so delays have already forced a costly inflation figure to be added onto the cost.

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican court has found three men guilty in the theft of papal valuables and sentenced them to suspended jail terms totaling almost five years. It was the first criminal case in the Vatican in more than a decade.

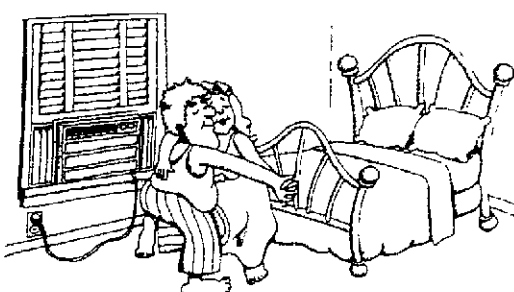

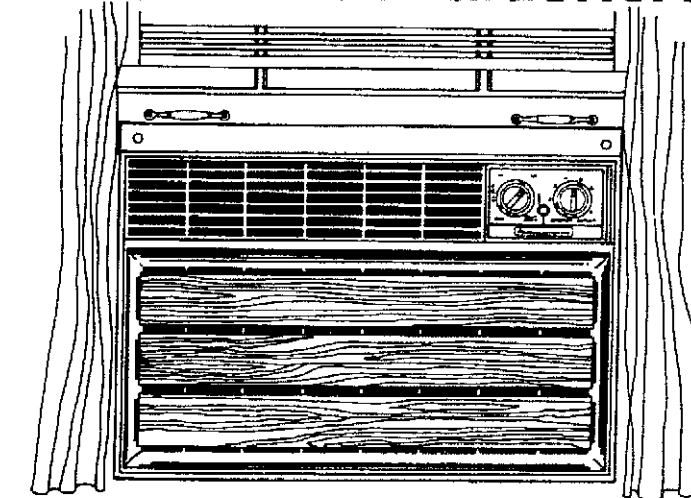

Charges against the men included stealing gold medals, valuable stamps and other property from the apartments of Pope Paul VI and his private secretary, Pasquale Macchi.

The men were employed by the Vatican telephone company and had access to the apartments. The thefts occurred in 1968 and 1969, when the Pope and his close aides were away at the summer palace at Castel Gandolfo.

Kuehnl to retire as fire chief

BY BERNIE PETERSON
Post-Crescent staff writer

When Roland Kuehnl joined the Appleton Fire Department, each officer had to pay for all his duty clothing. His first year's salary was $1,296, and the force of 30 firemen serviced a city of 20,000 residents.

Kuehnl, who has held every position on the force except equipment mechanic, including the chief's position for the past 12 years, retires next Friday. On that date, he will have completed 38 years with the department.

The changes in the department and the city have been numerous during that period.

The city has grown to over 57,000 people, while the force has more than tripled in size, to 108. The pay has gotten better, too. Today's starting fireman begins at just under $10,000 per year, based on a 56-hour work week. Kuehnl started with an 84-hour work week.

The city has taken over payment of the firemen's clothing, including dress uniforms.

After joining the force on June 1, 1936, Kuehnl was assigned as a hydrant man on a 1918 model truck. After 18 months he was promoted to assistant driver, but then waited until 1947 for his next move up, to driver.

In 1952, Kuehnl was promoted to lieutenant, and two years later he became a captain. He was named second assistant chief in 1957, first assistant chief in 1961 and acting chief on Jan. 15, 1962. On May 1 of that year he was appointed chief.

Kuehnl reflected recently on the changes in the department during his tenure.

"In those early years we had no definite drill area or tower like the tower and training ground we now have at Station No. 1. We used the roofs of schools, theaters, City Hall, or whatever space was offered," he said.

"We used open areas that someday were to become streets. We now have a training department to go along with the training grounds and tower, and a fully manned maintenance department to keep the vehicles in good running condition."

He pointed out that the inspection division has grown from one to four men, while the entire department has developed from one station into four and from five vehicles to 15.

Five stations were constructed during his career. The old main station, at Oneida and Washington streets, was razed when the new No. 1 station was built at Atlantic and Drew streets in 1964.

The No. 2 station, a temporary wood structure, was built in 1941 on Lawe Street next to the WBBY radio station. "This station was a necessity for fire protection of industries in the flats, when both the Lawe Street and Oneida Street bridges were out of serving and being reconstructed during a two-year period," he said.

In 1956, the permanent No. 2 station was located at Lawe and Lincoln streets, while in 1951 the No. 3 station was built at the intersection of College Avenue, Story Street and Badger Avenue. The No. 4 station was constructed at 724 E. Greenfield St. in 1961.

Naturally, the firefighting equipment was less sophisticated in the earlier days.

The trucks didn't have windshields and most were chain driven. The firemen didn't have the extensive medical training they now receive.

Kuehnl said he was at all the city's major fires in his 38 years, but never was seriously injured, although he recalled at least one close call.

"I was in the coal bin in the basement as a nozzle man when the front of the Peterson Press building on College Avenue blew out. My helmet was blown off and I was a bit shaken, but I received no injuries," he said, adding that several other firemen were injured and some hospitalized for several weeks.

He also remembers stopping a man, troubled by family problems, from jumping off the railroad bridge behind the old No. 2 station, and diving off the same bridge on another occasion to save a radio operator in danger of drowning.

Kuehnl stressed the need for specialized skills among today's firefighters. They require sound in such areas as chemistry and physics, hydraulics, mechanical engineering, law enforcement, and for some, business management and administration.

Kuehnl said he never regretted joining the fire service, and noted that some aspects of it will never change.

"In 1936, fire was hot and smoky, just as it is today," he said.

Boy's dream takes on solid air of reality

LONDON (AP) — Thirteen-year-old Nicholas Smith couldn't think about anything but parachutes after watching a free-fall parachuting demonstration.

The excitement stayed with him as he went to bed that night at his home in Whittlesey.

He soon was asleep, dreaming that he was making a parachute jump himself. Then — still in a dream — he got out of bed and jumped out of his bedroom window, 15 feet above the ground.

His father heard a thump, rushed outside and found his son on the ground mumbling something about parachuting.

Nicholas is recovering in a hospital from a broken ankle and wrist.

Grecho visiting Algeria

ALGIERS (AP) — Soviet Defense Minister Andrei Grecho has arrived here for a state visit, his second to Algeria in four years.

Grecho arrived Monday, and officials said his visit will include tours of industrial plants and a conference with President Houari Boumedienne. His visit to the North African nation will be followed next month by a visit from Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

Solzhenitsyn cites danger of suppression

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Improved trade relations will not stem the chances for war brought on by the suppression of dissenters in Eastern Europe, exiled Russian author Alexander Solzhenitsyn says in a letter to an Oslo newspaper.

The unchecked suppression is "a deadly threat to peace and increases the danger of a new world war," said the letter to Aftenposten Monday.

Meanwhile, Solzhenitsyn, who now lives in Switzerland, may soon produce his first movie, a friend said. He said it would be about Soviet prison camps and would be entitled, "The Tanks Know The Truth."

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Blood types of both folks determine child's

Dear Dr. Thosteson: L My marriage seems to have fallen apart. My husband accuses me of having relations with another man, which is not true. I've never done anything like that, but his imagination has him beside himself.

He says the children aren't his because his blood is type O. Mine I do not know. Our daughter is A and son is B. He says this is not possible because his is O type.

I know they are his but he says he has to have proof and then will beg forgiveness. Please answer with definite statements, no buts or ands, please — D H

If you don't want any buts or ands then why don't you have your blood typed?

A child's blood type is not determined by that of one parent; it depends on the types of both parents.

Your husband is entirely wrong when he says type A or B in the children is impossible because he is type O.

A type O parent can have children of either type A or type B if the other parent is type AB.

So don't think you'd better have your own blood typed if it turns out type AB, then it will be time for your husband to start begging forgiveness. He just doesn't understand how ABO blood types behave.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 51 and haven't had a menstrual period for a year. Would hormone pills start the menstrual periods again? Basically what are they for? What are the chances of getting pregnant after that length of time? Would I be safe in using foam and is it effective? — M R.S.

After a year without periods, you can forget about pregnancy.

Hormone medication may cause some breakthrough bleeding but they will not be true menstrual periods. Such medication is given to combat such menapausal symptoms as hot flashes — your ovaries have ceased producing female hormones and that leads to the hot flashes in some (not all) women. So you are given hormones to make up for the hormones no longer being secreted by the ovaries.

I see no need whatever for you to use foam contraceptive.

Your questions, incidentally, are answered in my booklet, "Make Menopause Easier," along with some 50 or so other commonly asked questions on that subject. It might be a good idea for you to send for the booklet. Send 35 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of The Post-Crescent for a copy.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there anything one can do to prevent swelling of the eyelids after a bout of crying? After watching a very sad show last night, I cried quite a bit.

I was shocked to see what my eyes looked like. Why does this happen? — Mrs. G.M.K.

The tissues around the eyes are thin. Put your finger to the area and you can feel the difference. This is the reason for the congestion associated with crying. The resultant fluid accumulation causes a puffiness and a discoloration.

It is variable with different people and there is really little that can be done. Often, though, cold compresses will help.

The only other thing I can suggest is that you watch happier shows.

Acne is one of the most terrible problems of growing up. If you are afflicted with this aggravation, of if you have children who are, write to Thosteson in care of The Post-Crescent for a copy of his booklet, "Controlling Acne, Blackheads and Pimples."

Please enclose a long, self-addressed (use Zip code), stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling. Allow four to six weeks for delivery.

Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters.

Freedom fetes retiring teacher

FREEDOM — Forty-five years in the teaching profession were capped with a retirement dinner recently for John Byrne.

Byrne, a fifth grade teacher taught in the district for the length of his career, interrupted only by his time in the service during World War II.

Speakers at the dinner were Daniel O'Connell, superintendent of schools, William VanLaanen and Henry Patch, both former superintendents; Gerald Hedtke, principal and Dennis Stockwell, a teacher.

Byrne was presented a plaque citing him for his dedication, a watch, a certificate from the state and recognition for his interest in extracurricular school activities. The event was sponsored by the Freedom Education Association.

Melody Top gets ready

MILWAUKEE — "Look to the rainbow" says a song from "Finian's Rainbow."

But even the rainbow pales in comparison to the excitement, music and color that seem sure to prevail during the Melody Top Theatre's 1974 season.

Starting June 4, the tent at 7201 W. Good Hope Road will provide a 14-week passage to such happy theatrical landmarks as Siam, Paris, Damon Runyon's fabled New York City, the legendary Rainbow Valley... all to the accompaniment of some of Broadway's greatest music and the assured applause of the largest advance sale crowds in the big top's 12 year history.

Additionally, producer Martin Vivott is providing a happy combination of "Milwaukee favorite" performers and famous new faces to lead the bright Melody Top company through their seven shows. It all adds up to an unmistakably unbeatable summer of the best in theatrical entertainment.

There could be no better way to start off such a musically joyous season than with "I Want to Be Happy" — "Tea for Two" — or "I've Confessed to the Breeze" — or any of a dozen memorable songs of Broadway's biggest hit of the 1970s: "No, No, Nanette." This revival of the 1925 sensation gave Ruby Keeler a smash comeback three years ago and, at the same time, revitalized the lavish production number style of famed Hollywood director Busby Berkeley. All that glory comes to Milwaukee from June 16, starring two other great movie names, Penny Singleton and Arthur Lake — reunited here for the first time since their days ad the "Blondie and Dagwood" of the screen.

Melody Top then moves to the magical, mystical valley of "Finian's Rainbow" from June 18-30... two weeks of leprechaun gold, lavish production numbers, and the amazing comedy talents of Arte Johnson. His brilliant performance in the tent's "Little Me" in 1972 won standing ovations at every performance and is coupled this summer with one of Broadway's greatest scores: "How Are Things in Glocca Morra?" "Old Devil Moon," "When I'm Not Near the Girl I Love," "Look to the Rainbow," "Something Sort of Grandish" — enough hits for two shows.

Another incredible musical package hits the tent July 2-14 when "Gigi" combines the voices of Earl Wrightson and Lois Hunt with last year's greatest New York song treat and a Hollywood film that won eight Academy Awards. Lerner and Loewe adapted their famous 1958 movie for the stage in 1973, adding new songs to the already standard "Thank Heaven for Little Girls," "I Remember It Well," "The Night they Invented Champagne," and "Gigi," and won this spring's Tony Award as the best score of the year. As Milwaukee's premier entertainment couple, Wrightson and Hunt will doubtless provide turn-of-the-century Paris with the best vocal showcase it's ever had.

A revival of the show that opened Melody Top 12 years ago gives a nostalgic thrill to the middle of the 1974 season. The great "Guys and Dolls" will introduce George Chakiris and Rita Moreno to the tent audiences, in company with the crazy Damon Runyon characters of New York City's Times Square of the 1930s. Miss Moreno and Chakiris won Academy Awards for their work in the film version of "West Side Story," and their dynamic reunion here comes in the midst of an almost embarrassing abundance of comedy and romantic Broadway song hits: "(I Love You) A Bushel and a Peck," "If I Were a Bell," "Luck Be a Lady," "Sit Down You're Rockin' the Boat," "Adelaide's Lament," and "The Oldest Established Permanent Floating Crap Game in New York." "Guys and Dolls" plays from July 16-28.

The slightly hysterical, brassy musical talents of TV's Laugh-In comedienne Jo Anne Worley brighten up the wild and wacky "Once Upon a Mattress" from July 30-Aug. 11. This "inside story" version of "The Princess and the Pea" legend originally brought Broadway stardom to Carol Burnett and includes a lively score by Mary Rodgers, daughter of the famous Richard. Song hits include "I'm Shy," "Very Soft Shoes" and the flamboyant dance specialty, "The Spanish Panic." "Once Upon a Mattress" will be one of the happiest family shows of the summer as the crazy Miss Worley informs all, "I'm Princess Winnifred the Woebegone, but you can call me by my nickname — Fred."

Orson Bean heads another Broadway/Hollywood combination and provides the sixth special event of the Melody Top 1974 season: the Milwaukee premiere of "Sugar," the new musical version of the film classic "Some Like It Hot" Aug. 13-25. Bean, who turned last summer's "Promises, Promises" into the laugh hit of the season, returns to tackle the dual role of Jerry/Daphne, the musician who witnesses the St. Valentine's Day Massacre and then joins an all-girl band to escape the Chicago gangland. The original film, which starred Jack Lemmon, Marilyn Monroe and Tony Curtis, has been embellished with a dozen "Roaring twenties" numbers by Jule Styne and Bob Merrill, who, together or separately, were responsible for the great music in "Funny Girl," "Gypsy," "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," "Carnival," and "Bells Are Ringing."

For a finale, Melody Top presents the most beautiful of all the Rodgers and Hammerstein musicals, "The King and I." This is the second revival of the 1974 season and the story of an English governess at the Court of Siam also offers Leonard Nimoy is his second tent appearance (the first in "Oliver!") broke all box office records. Costarring with Nimoy is the lovely Anne Jeffreys, another "popular demand" returnee whose earlier showcasings include "The Desert Song" and "Song of Norway." She and the cast of "The King and I" bring the summer to a close August 27-Sept. 8 with the wonderful sounds of "Getting to Know You," "I Whistle a Happy Tune," "Shall We Dance," "Hello, Young Lovers" and "Something Wonderful."

It's a Melody Top season with something for everyone, and the theater has probably topped itself with the greatest collection of star performers, hit music and magical entertainment in its history.

Bluffs and awards

7-8 — Channel 5 — "The Bluffers" is a generally very amusing pilot for a fast-paced comedy series with lots of guests ambling through. Bob Hope, who executive produced this, is "Master Bluffer" and David Niven, saying he is Laurence Olivier is host. Highlights: English comic Michael Bentine and his amazing flea circus (a great bit of lunacy), Carl Reiner in a Shakespearean parody, Edward Asner as a businessman trying to juggle telephone calls from his wife and two of his girlfriends, Merv Griffin singing while we see what is happening inside his head and Pat Harrington in a pointed bit with a computer. Other guests: Earnest Borgnine, Glenn Ford, Johnny Carson, Jack Benny, Sandy Duncan, Angie Dickinson, Bobby Riggs and a stock company of actors: Arlene Golonka, Ronnie Graham, Jennifer Darling, Chuck McCann, Barbara Rhoades, and Bob Ridgely.

8-10 — Channel 5 — In "The 26th Annual Emmy Awards Show," Johnny Carson hosts the presentation of awards honoring outstanding television programs and performers. Presenters include Dick Van Dyke, Nanette Fabray, Andy Williams, Shelly Winters, Richard Chamberlain, Ginger Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Spitz, Rod Steiger, Eva Marie Saint, Craig Stevens and Alexis Smith. Baseball great Willie Mays will be a presenter in the area of sports awards. A brief film depicting the highlights of his career will be shown.

7:30-8:30 — Channels 2-7 — "Hawaii Five-O" is concerned with the rackets, notably variations of the old con game. Ed Flanders is the chief con man in a mediocre script. (R)

7:30-9 — Channels 9-11 — "Tuesday Movie Of The Week" — "Beg, Borrow...or Steal," a drama tells of three handicapped men who test their courage and abilities by plotting and executing and daring heist after they lose their jobs. Michael Connors, Michael Cole and Kent McCord star.

8:30-10 — Channels 2-7 — "Hawkins," starring James Stewart as a shrewd country-boy lawyer specializing in murder cases. Strother Martin is his legman cousin and the pair have great rapport. Cameron Mitchell is Hawkins' client, a man who admits he killed the man who assaulted his daughter. Viewers see the killing to start the show but it's shadowy and the killer can't be identified. (R)

9-10 — Channels 9-11 — "Marcus Welby, M.D." has Kiley (James Brolin) proposing marriage to a photographer (Stefanie Powers), but, of course, the girl has a disease, a serious one. Kiley doesn't think she should be told the whole truth and Welby (Robert Young) does. (R)

Texas starts looking to coal deposits

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) —In its half-century-long energy romance with oil and gas, Texas industries have virtually ignored coal, including the 110 billion tons of lignite in their own back yard.

But with the vast pools of petroleum beginning to play out, industries in the state that oil built are beginning to invest heavily in coal research, production and use.

There are about a million acres of coal-bearing lands in Texas, representing vastly more energy than all the state's oil and gas reserves.

As long as oil and gas were plentiful and cheap, there was little interest in using the coal deposits. Now utility companies are opening up massive strip mines, mineral explorers are scrambling to control Texas coal lands and oil companies are sinking millions into coal research.

The character of whole counties is being changed as utility companies establish power plants in rural areas where the coal is available. Farm and ranch acreage overlying thick layers of lignite has doubled and tripled in price. Quiet meadows and lush forests are being ripped away by clawing machines to uncover the fuel.

From the dry South Texas plains to the rolling, pine-covered hills of East Texas, core tests are being drilled to assess the quantity and character of lignite deposits.

In a state that still produces 40 per cent of the nation's oil and gas, Texas-based oil companies are conducting research and making heavy long-term investments in coal.

Exxon, the world's largest oil company, is spending $200 million on experimental plants to develop a commercial process for converting coal to gas and gasoline. The plants will be at Exxon's Baytown, Tex., refinery.

Houston-based Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Co. plans a $400 million coal gasification plant in Wyoming. It plans to convert low-sulphur Western coal into gas to supply customers in the Midwest which have for years burned Texas-produced natural gas.

University of Texas geologists estimate there are about 10 billion tons of lignite within 200 feet of the surface in Texas. This can be economically recovered by strip mining and produce enough energy to supply the state's electrical needs for an estimated 150 years. Other estimates put the total strippable lignite at 3 billion to 4 billion tons.

University geologists estimate that another 100 billion tons of lignite occur at depths of 200 to 5,000 feet. The energy equivalent is about 20 times the state's oil reserves and 16 times the Texas gas reserves.

Lignite is often called "brown" coal because it contains higher quantities of dirt than other coals. It takes twice as much lignite as the best Appalachian bituminous coal to produce the same amount of energy. This is because lignite has not been compressed as much as bituminous coal and contains more water and other noncombustible matter.

Most of the near-surface coal in Texas has been controlled by Texas Utilities, a combine of three electric companies serving north and West Texas. The company has already opened one strip mine and coal-fired plant, has three others under construction and is planning another.

The company, which supplies power to a third of the state population, plans to eventually use lignite to supply energy for half of its generating system.

Texas Utilities began leasing coal reserves 20 years ago, long before there was any obvious need for the fuel in Texas. Now other utility companies in the state are scrambling to find fuel for their generating plants. At least two companies are planning plants that will be fired by coal imported from Wyoming.

There are no laws controlling strip mining in Texas, but several lawmakers are studying possible legislation to force strip mine operators to restore the land.

Land reclamation should be relatively easy in east Texas, where most of the state's richest coal deposits are, according to William R. Frasier, University of Texas geologist.

He said the terrain is only moderately hilly and the rainfall is ample. This means the stripped land can be quickly reforested with little erosion, he said.

Frasier said that reclamation may be more troublesome in south Texas coal deposit areas because of a lack of rainfall. He said a 50-year-old mine dump near Laredo is still devoid of vegetation because there's too little rain for plants to take hold.

Frasier and a group of engineers and scientists at the University of Texas are working on a plan they hope will tap the real Texas coal bonanza: the 100 billion tons of lignite that are too deep underground to be strip mined.

The university group is studying a plan to burn the deep coal in place, producing a low-grade boiler gas. The plan calls for holes to be drilled into the coal. The fuel would be ignited through one hole and kept burning by pumping down steam or oxygen. A gas similar to natural gas would be forced out of the other holes.

"It's technically feasible to do this," says Frasier. "The Russians have been doing it on a commercial basis for years."

Imagination runs wild

The kids in the six-week nursery school at Fox Valley Technical Institute spend some of their time playing outdoors when the weather is nice with their student teachers keeping a close eye on them. This grouping of equipment certainly would help the imagination run wild.

What is that?

Little Tabby Center points to something off in the distance, asking Pam Krisch, "What is that?" during the outdoor play period.

Students learn to work with children

It's such fun when you're little as Trina

Anderson is, to have a bigger person swing you and laugh with you.

For the first time since the course in child care and development was begun at Fox Valley Technical Institute, the young women enrolled are being given the opportunity to work with youngsters during their first year of study.

During a six-week period which ends this Friday, the students have been working in a nursery school right on campus. Their instructor in the program activities I class, Monica Jacob, planned this segment of the course to give them teaching experience before they enter the second year and begin working 12 hours each week in four different areas — nursery school, day care center, primary and intermediate classrooms and special education classrooms.

So successful has the venture been that Mrs. Jacobs hopes to run a similar session at the end of each school year.

The children this year were mostly those of faculty members at FVTI, but others will be considered as enrollees in the future.

Mrs. Jacob also would like the girls to have at least 15 children with which to work since a larger class offers more challenges and requires different techniques than does a class of 10 such as they had this year.

The well-equipped room is bright and cheerful and must be fun for the children as they play with each other for three hours, three days each week over the six weeks.

Certainly the students themselves get a taste of what their future holds if they continue in the field.

Among the second-year students each year are always a few who wish to continue their education, working toward a degree in child care and development. The program at FVTI sends them well along this road.

Others teaching in the department where emphasis is placed on children's physical development and coordination, mental growth, ability to get along with others and to accept discipline are Gail Schwab, Gretchen Flood and Dee Peck.

Drama time

As instructor, Monica Jacobs, third from

Circle names Mrs. Sanderson

Mrs. Ted Sanderson was elected president of Charity Circle of The King's Daughters during Tuesday's meeting at the home of Mrs. Ray Wuergler.

Serving with Mrs. Sanderson will be Mrs. Charles Spaulding, vice president; Mrs. Don Curtis, secretary; Mrs. John Madden, treasurer; Mrs. Howard Grupe, publicity; Mrs. James Wendt, projects, and Mrs. Allen Roberts and Mrs. John Lundquist, directors.

Presiding over her last meeting as president was Mrs. Robert Knapp. Mrs. Pearl Schuetter installed new members. A report on the success of the second annual golf jamboree was given by Mrs. Don Jabas.

Annual donations of funds were discussed and approved by the membership. This year's recipients will be:

American Field Service, Christ Child Society, YMCA camperships, Camp Outlook, Girl Scout Campership Fund, Children's Theater, Meals-on-Wheels, Casa Clare, Community Alcoholism Services, Americanos Drum and Bugle Corps and the Charity Circle Foundation.

June 3 was the date chosen for the 6:30 p.m. spring picnic at Whiting Boat House. The fall rummage sale is planned for Sept. 11, 12 and 13.

Effort will mean Christmas for children

Ruth Mitchler, president of Gamma Gamma Beta of Beta Sigma Phi of Outagamie County, and Dorothy Redfield, Oshkosh, volunteer worker for the Department of Social Services for Winnebago County, took a last look at items made by the local sorority. The project, now in its third year, found sorority members meeting monthly to work on body shirts, tops, stuffed animals and slipper socks to be distributed to needy children by the agency later this year. According to Virginia K. Rice, Winnebago County volunteer coordinator, the sorority's effort will mean Christmas for 150 families with 363 children. "And the beauty of it is, they're all sizes." Twenty members of the local sorority contributed their time and talent. (Post-Crescent photo)

Orangutans ape over TV

The Phoenix Zoo recently confirmed a suspicion of mine. Take two orangutans, install a television set outside their cage, and they'll tune in "Let's Make A Deal" over Alistair Cooke everytime. The TV set wasn't installed to do a survey in taste. It was wheeled in because Ben and Dutchess had been tearing their cage apart from boredom and it was thought watching television might give them something to do. At first, the animals watched everything that moved. Then they became more selective. They were restless during Sesame Street, irritable to Jack LaLanne and played with their feet during the mid-morning news.

Then came the card games, the pyramids, the lights and buzzers, half-hidden puzzles, stuttering celebrities and secret doors and the orangutans went bananas. I didn't feel I could fairly assess the emotions of the orangutans until I had watched a full day of game shows myself. So, one morning last week, I began with Password right after breakfast and didn't stir from in front of the set until To Tell The Truth went off at 7 p.m. By this time, I had undergone a complete personality change. Everyone looked like Soupy Sales . . . I wanted a five-piece dinette set for remembering my own name . . . I pushed imaginary buzzers and shouted out for no apparent reason, "A Stitch In Time Saves Nine" . . . dinner was a challenge and I couldn't remember if it was in door No. 1 (the oven), door No. 2, (the freezer) or door No. 3 (the cupboard). Also, I didn't seem to be able to concentrate on what anyone was saying. I'd just smile and mumble, "I want to come back tomorrow and try for the car."

But the one game I seemed to be hung up on was the Newlywed Game. It is basically a game where a wife tries to answer the questions the way she thinks her husband will answer and vice versa. It's a shortcut to World War III. Turning to my husband I asked suspiciously, "What would you say would be the most embarrassing moment at our wedding?" "When our kids showed up." "Isn't that like you to be cute when there are two motorbikes riding on an answer?" "Okay, if you want a straight answer, when your Mother arrived in a black veil and a hearse." "Maybe we'd better get it all out in the open." "Yeah, well, maybe I should give you more room." The door slammed. I don't like to overreact, but I think it is only a matter of time before Ben and Dutchess (a) go back to playing with their feet; (b) start ripping up the cage again; or (c) are contestants on the Newlywed Game. UW sponsors program

Girls encouraged to be engineers

MADISON — The College of Engineering will sponsor introductory programs for high school girls June 9 through 15 and June 23 through 29 on the University of Wisconsin -Madison campus. The one-week sessions are intended to give high school junior girls a general picture of engineering opportunities and to encourage them to enter non-traditional fields. They will spend time in each of the nine undergraduate departments within the College of Engineering: agricultural, chemical, civil and environmental, electrical and computer, mechanical, metallurgical and mineral, nuclear, and engineering mechanics.

Chairpersons Prof. Lois Greenfield, engineering administration, and Prof. George Maxwell, metallurgical and mineral engineering, are scheduling such presentations as introduction to logic boards and digital computer programming. They also are arranging meetings between girls and state women engineers, including Nancy Fitzroy, president of the Society of Women Engineers. Prof. Greenfield said similar programs on other campuses have increased the enrollment of women engineers. Nationally, less than one per cent of engineering students are women at UW. The figure is two to three per cent. About 150 girls applied for admission to the sessions, but only 25 per session could be accommodated. Greenfield said she is considering setting up a similar but shorter program in the fall for those students not accepted this time. The project is partially funded by the University of Wisconsin Foundation. Much of staff time, equipment and materials will be donated by various university instructional departments.

Clearly the diamonds are going to break 4-0 since with any other break you could put your cards down on the table and claim your slam. The idea is to provide against four diamonds in either opponent's hand — without getting so involved that you lose the hand if the diamonds break normally.

The correct play begins with the queen of spades from dummy at the first trick. Then lead a low diamond from dummy.

If East shows out, take the ace of diamonds and lead a low diamond back. West must play low, since you would have the rest of the diamonds if he put up the king. This permits you to win a second diamond trick with dummy's queen.

Founder's motive renewed at convention

PASADENA, Calif. — Twenty-one chapters of Christ Child Society gathered in Pasadena, Calif., recently for the 22nd Biennial Convention of the National Christ Child Society.

The convention, under the theme "A Gift of Service Is a Gift of Self," was aimed at renewing the motive established by the society founder Mary Virginia Merrick — "love of Christ expressing itself in personal service for children and youth, to honor His childhood."

The society seeks to improve and extend its service through cooperation with other people-serving agencies.

Delegates from the local chapter attending the convention were Mrs. Norbert Gaerthofner and Mrs. Robert Wuerch.

AMHERST — High school students here have been recognized for their scholastic achievement, athletic prowess, accomplishments in speech, art and music and service during the past year.

Jeff Schmatz and Gary Tetzloff received Wisconsin Honor scholarships. These awards are given to students in the top 10 per cent of the class. The recipients are selected by administrators and faculty members on the basis of grades, service to school and community, test scores and difficulty of curriculum.

Library assistant awards were presented to Joan Dombrowski, Diane Iwanski, Chris Iwanski and Marcie Woyak. Forensics awards were given to Kathy Zblewski, Barbara Patoka, Stuart Pask and Pat Trzinski, who received B ratings in the district contest; and to Bob Hansen and Bob Last, who received A ratings in the same meet. In the regional contest, Last received a B, Hansen an A. Hansen received a B in the state meet.

In the music department, Douglas Kenowski received the band director's award; Jane Shatters, the John Philip Sousa award; Michelle Abbott, band pin; and Robert Hanson, band trophy.

Art awards were given to Cheryl Dombrowski, Eileen Jankowski, Anita Penney, Gloria Piotrowski, Jayne Trzebiatowski and Kitti Srisakulyaporn. These students showed a willingness to try new methods and have steadily improved their skills and done more than the required work.

Prizes for paintings, selected by the Amherst Woman's Club, were given Jeff Schmatz, Anita Penney, Eileen Jankowski and Don Romundson.

Wrestling squad cheerleaders Jane Tetzloff, Ann Pionkowski, Maxeen Jankowski and Debbie Konkol also received awards.

Teen Senate elected at St. Martin Church

CLINTONVILLE — Twelve young people have been elected to the Teen Senate for 1974-75 at the St. Martin Lutheran Church. An initial organizational meeting will be at 7 p.m. June 5 in the Youth Room.

Elected were Peter Luebke, Bill Schroeder, Cindy Smith, Barb Kluth, Diane Roloff, Tom Schroeder, Melanie Frost, Bill Kluth, John Malotky, Sandy Anker, Laurie Caskey and Mary Krueger.

Weyauwega clubs receive state awards

WEYAUWEGA — The Jaycees and Jaycettes received several high awards at the annual state convention in Milwaukee last weekend.

The Jaycees were awarded the Most Outstanding Chapter award in their division, which includes cities with populations of 3,000 or less.

They also received first place awards in the areas of membership recruitment; membership, activation, retention, and orientation; and welfare; and for their concern for senior citizens and cystic fibrosis victims.

Second place awards for environmental control and publications were also given to the Jaycees.

Russell Larsen, local president, presented $1,584 to the state organization for the Jaycee Cistic Fibrosis Fund. The money was raised at the CF bike ride in April.

Larsen was also installed as state vice president for region seven.

Jack Jansen was given a wristwatch for recruiting 12 new Jaycees members.

The local Jaycettes received first place awards for their work in the areas of mental health, mental retardation and physical handicaps. They also earned the Golden Key award for membership growth, and a third place award for publicity.

Courts

WAUPACA — A forgery charge against Catherine White, 18, formerly of Northgate Trailer Court, was dismissed Friday by Judge Nathan Wiese in County Court Branch 2 after restitution and extradition charges were paid in the amount of $527.99.

On Jan. 11 the defendant issued a check in the amount of $245 to Roger Skaise, endorsed it with her employers name and cashed it. She was employed at the time by Mid-America Steel Erectors, route 2, Weyauwega. She was extradited from Indiana and returned to Waupaca County by the sheriff's department.

WAUPACA — James M. Herring Jr., 37, Merion City, Pa., was found guilty of driving while under the influence of an intoxicant and was fined $177 and surrendered his driver's license for 90 days when he appeared Friday before Judge Nathan Wiese in County Court Branch 2.

He was arrested by Waupaca police on May 22 at Chruchill and Evans streets.

WAUPACA — Tom Yingling, 18, 315 Center St., New London, was placed on two years probation and ordered to spend the first five months in the county jail, pay attorney fees and costs after being found guilty Friday in County Court Branch 2 of operating a vehicle without the owners consent.

Yingling is presently serving a six month sentence in the county jail on a car theft charge. The two jail sentences will run concurrently with no time off for good behavior. He will have working privileges.

On March 26 Yingling reportedly took a car from the high school parking lot about noon drove around for a while and then left it in an alley off Main Street.

Ruth Janssen to seek clerk of courts post

Ruth Janssen, deputy clerk of courts for Outagamie County, has announced her candidacy for the Republican nomination for the clerk of courts position now held by Elizabeth L. Davis.

Miss Janssen, 27, 525 E. Carol St., Appleton, has been employed in the clerk of courts office since 1968 and was appointed chief deputy by Mrs. Davis a year ago. She is a native of Little Chute and graduated from St. John School in 1964.

Mrs. Davis was appointed clerk of courts last year to fill the unexpired term of Gloria Johnson. She has worked in the clerk of courts office for 25 years and will retire at the completion of her term.

Candidates for countywide offices can start circulating nomination papers Saturday. Deadline for filing papers for the September primary and November general election is July 9.

Family . . .

"He wanted to surprise us by finding us first," Mrs. Nieland said. "I guess we sort of turned the tables on him."

Schwerke has understandably been flabbergasted by the whole experience. "After living for 40 years without the members of your family, it takes time to accept them. Of course the tie between us is not as strong as if we had known each other for the past 40 years but we'll keep in contact from here on."

Schwerke said he somehow thought his brothers and sister were in the Wittenberg area. He said the urge to find them was becoming stronger in recent years. "I'm sure some day I would have found them if they didn't find me first," he said.

Mrs. Nieland also commented that she was overcome with mixed emotions. "Until I got home, I don't think I felt anything. When we first met, I didn't know what to say for a minute."

Mrs. Nieland, who lived in Appleton before moving to Medina, is a housewife. Schwerke works as a data compiler for the Wisconsin Public Service Corp. in Green Bay. Orrin Gass is a fireman at the Wisconsin Tissue Mills in Menasha. And Orville Gass is a mill worker at Kimberly-Clark Corp.'s Lakeview mill, Neenah.

Neither had any way of recognizing the other after all these years but they all commented on the strong family resemblance.

The sister of Schwerke's adopted mother, whom he grew up with, died about four weeks ago.

Orrin Gass said he still hopes to find another sister who is living somewhere in Los Angeles and whom he hasn't seen since 1934. She too was given up for adoption at an early age.

Police & fire

CLINTONVILLE — Two persons were taken by police car to the Community Medical Center for treatment of injuries received when their car was struck in an accident Tuesday on N. Clinton Avenue at 14th Street.

Irene Breitrick, 52, route 1, Tigerton, driver of the car, had injuries to the head and back; and her passenger, Myrtle Kleman, Tigerton, had pains in the head and back, according to the accident report.

The Breitrick car was struck by a car driven by Henry Roloff, 79, route 2, Shawano, who failed to stop for the stop sign. Damage was estimated at more than $200 to the vehicles.

Closings for Manawa schools

MANAWA —The Manawa Elementary school, Middle School, and Little Wolf High School will close early Thursday to allow faculty to prepare grades.

The elementary school will close at 12:30 p.m. the middle school at 12:45 p.m. and the high school at 1 p.m. The Symco Kindergarten Center will operate as usual Thursday, but will be closed Friday.

All other schools will close for the year Friday following the issuance of report cards. The elementary school will close at 9 a.m., the middle school at 9:15 a.m. and the high school at 9:30 a.m.

Campus couples get little comment

BY ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Almost every night a student named Jeff stuffs a toothbrush in his shirt pocket and walks across the courtyard of his Harvard dormitory to spend the night with his Radcliffe girlfriend.

At Beloit College in Wisconsin, 19-year-old Charlie and his girlfriend, Sue, have pushed their single beds together. They've lived in her dorm room for almost a year.

A 21-year-old athlete and his sophomore girlfriend at the University of Louisville in Kentucky have lived in her dorm room since last summer. They rely on their friends not to snitch on them and on a resident adviser who agrees to look the other way.

The college couples are among hundreds of students from Boston to Berkeley — and a lot more conservative places in between — who are living together on campus.

Most of them insist it's no big deal and that seems to sum up the general attitude. The couples, however, requested anonymity, citing possible sanctions or embarrassment for parents.

Interviews with scores of students and administrators at more than a dozen colleges and universities across the country indicate that although living together is rarely discussed in the college catalogue, it's become a popular way of life for some on campus.

It isn't as wide-spread as the "going steady" craze of the 1950s and early '60s, but almost all students interviewed could name at least two or three couples living together on campus. They saw nothing wrong with it.

The trend raised many eyebrows among parents, alumni and school officials when it appeared in the mid-60s and there was public outcry about campuses becoming dens of dope and sex. But most of that has disappeared.

"Most couples living together in the Harvard dorm have a very serious relationship," said a graduate student assigned as resident adviser to one dormitory, or "house" as it's called at Harvard. "It's a very acceptable thing."

"It's ordinary," said a Harvard housing official. "I don't know how the university could intrude. You couldn't possibly do a thing like bed checks."

When today's seniors were freshmen, living together — regularly spending the night on campus with someone of the opposite sex — was taboo at most schools, including Harvard. If caught, they could have been expelled. These days, it's not so risky.

None of the couples living together on campus had been assigned to the same room by the college. In fact, most use both rooms for the sake of appearance, mail, more storage space — and privacy when they want it.

A study of 482 member institutions of the Association of College and University Housing Officers shows that 70 per cent of the nation's colleges offer some type of co-ed housing to students. Only 15 per cent of the schools offer men and women rooms on the same floor or in the same suite. The study was produced by David A. DeCoster, an assistant dean of students in charge of residence life at Indiana. He said there is no evidence that co-ed housing or visitation has increased sexual activity among students.

"Literature shows that attitudes have changed dramatically in a liberal direction," said DeCoster, who is recognized by many college and university officials as an expert on campus housing. "They are more accepting of peer behavior. But there is no documentation that there are differences in their own behavior. And there is a false interpretation that liberal attitudes mean liberal behavior."

Don, a 22-year-old senior at Tufts College in Medford, Mass., agreed.

"This idea that everyone has lost his virginity at the age of 10 isn't true," he said. "A lot of people here haven't had intercourse by the time they're seniors. Everybody puts on a big show."

"But for those who do choose to start a relationship, it isn't scandalous. It isn't talked about. It's accepted." Don said he had lived with a girl in his dormitory for several months, but they had broken up.

"It's hard when everyone knew you were together, then everyone knows you've split," he said.

Dr. Elizabeth Aub Reid, a psychiatrist who works at the Harvard University Health Services, made a study of two groups of Radcliffe women. One group lived in all-female dorms; the other lived in dorms where men and women share the same floor.

She writes in the Radcliffe Quarterly. "...it seemed to me that overall, being less isolated from men, the young women in co-residential dorms had more opportunity to grow as women vis-a-vis men, and used this to gain more security, not only in relation to men, but also in terms of feeling good about their lives and themselves as women ..."

"Full sexual relationships are somewhat more frequent in the integrated group ... and there were more sexual affairs with men with whom they had serious emotional involvement. Casual encounters, however, were about the same for both groups, and all but one woman in each group felt these had been a mistake. Contrary to some people's predictions, sexual promiscuity in attitude and behavior was not different between the two groups."

"Sure, there's more opportunity for sex," said Karen, a psychology major at a large midwestern university. "But if you want sex, you'll have it anyway. Bob and I are together most of the time. He doesn't look at me as a sex object. I don't expect him to be a Don Juan. We know a whole lot about each other. You know what I worry about most? Divorce. Maybe there wouldn't be so much if people knew more about each other, if they didn't look at marriage as a way to legalize sex."

All the administration officials interviewed agreed they would reprimand students for living together if there was a complaint from a parent or from a student whose privacy was being invaded.

"We'll deal with those we know about, but usually with a counselling approach," said Harold Grutzmachor at Beloit College. His title was changed recently from dean of students to director of student services to eliminate an authoritarian stigma. "We feel we are not parental. On the other hand, we continue to be supportive. And the line between parental and supportive is a thin one."

Some administrators said that finances have played a major role in convincing schools to ease dormitory restrictions. When students started demanding more freedom several years ago, many moved off campus to apartments, leaving many dorm rooms empty.

"If schools will ease up and allow more of an apartment-life atmosphere, the students will move back in the dorm because they are handy," said Harold Adams, associate dean of students at the University of Louisville. "And schools won't have to pay off bond-indebtedness on an empty building."

Ironically, Adams said, the alumni worry more about students' sexual activity on campus than the parents.

"Alumni are more critical than the parents," he said. "Alumni feel like they're missing something. They had to adhere to rules, and they think, so by God should the students today."

SPECIAL PAINT VALUES

Here's the scrub-bable one.

When paint people talk about "the scrubability factor," they are talking about a paint's ability to bear up under repeated washings on walls and ceilings. Esser Poly-Lux interior latex flat paint is not just washable — it's scrubbable. Because it's formulated with better quality latex. That's an important point to bear in mind next time you decorate, because with Esser Poly-Lux the next time should last for a longer time.

Reg. $9.10 gal.
Special $7⁹⁹ gal.
White & pre-mixed colors.

It lasts & lasts & lasts.

The times you really appreciate Esser exterior latex paint are the times you don't have to use it. And that can be for years. And years. Because once on, Esser Nu-Cling lasts and lasts — even through the temperature extremes of this climate! The Esser use of finest quality latex puts you a step ahead when you begin to paint. And then you can step down — and stay down — from that ladder longer. When you think of painting your house, think of the years ahead. Then think of Esser Nu-Cling. It lasts and lasts.

Wedding

Mrs. Roger Wulterkens

Mrs. Roger Roth

Dickson-Wulterkens

St. Joseph Catholic Church was the scene Friday as Vicki Ann Dickson and Roger Wulterkens spoke vows. Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dickson, 1611 Freedom Road, Little Chute, and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Wulterkens, route 4.

Matron of honor Sherry McCormick, Neenah, was accompanied by Shari Dickson, Peggy Reader and Mary Radatz, bridesmaids.

Dennis Bougie, De Pere, was best man. Completing the bridal party were Gary Wright, Jim Reader and Jack Radatz.

The bridegroom is an apprentice painter in Kaukauna. They will reside in Little Chute.

Schaefer-Roth

St. Bernard Catholic Church was the setting of Sunday's wedding uniting Karen Schaefer and Roger J. Roth. Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Schaefer, 53 Wiemar Court, and Mr. and Mrs. Kasper Roth Sr., 1421 Lakeshore Drive, Menasha.

Maid of honor Pat Schaefer was assisted by Judy Schaefer, Mrs. Robert McCann, Pat Helms, and Nancy Schaefer, bridesmaids. Junior attendants were Vicky and Steven Roth.

Robert Giesen was best man. Completing the bridal party were Dwayne Roth, Joseph Roth, Dave Schaefer, Kasper Roth Jr., Donald Schaefer and James LeRoux.

The former Miss Schaefer is employed at Northwestern Color Graphics in Menasha. Her husband, a University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh graduate, is in real estate.

Wired weight loss

Shirley Turner, 36, shows a dress she wore six months ago when she weighed 247 pounds. She achieved her present 146 pounds by having her jaws wired in November 1973 to stop her eating solid food. The Nottingham, England family is due to go on holiday shortly, by which time she hopes to reduce her weight even further. Her target weight is 136 pounds. (AP wirephoto)

Ann Landers Her problem considered first

Dear Ann Landers: I'm tired of reading letters from people who refuse to see a psychiatrist because they know too many nutty ones socially. You advised against using that as an excuse and said, "Find one who is sane. Many are, you know."

Sorry, Ann, but you are talking through your sombrero. Even a shrink who can't handle his own problems might do a darned good job for someone else.

I was helped tremendously by a psychiatrist who is a boozier. I wouldn't have gone to him if I were alcoholic, but he was marvelously effective when it came to helping me cope with feelings of inadequacy and depression.

If a dentist does a good job on my teeth, I couldn't care less about the condition of his mouth. If a manicurist can make my nails beautiful, I don't give a hang what her nails look like.

I'd hate to go back to where I was before that sot took me over. For the first time in my life I feel like a member of the human race, and the person I can thank is a shrink who couldn't hold his liquor.—E.H. in Canada

Dear E.H.: A beautiful testimonial to your doctor. I hope he sees it.

Dear Ann Landers: After reading the letter from the couple who was worried about conflicting blood types, I was compelled to write.

It is amazing how many people are unaware of their blood type. They never give it a thought until they (or a loved one) need a blood transfusion in a hurry.

Many hospitals have excellent programs that operate through churches, companies and other organizations. The American Red Cross, which supplies one half of the volunteer blood used in the United States, has an excellent blood program now operating in most communities. Coverage varies with different plans, but many plans make it possible for the person who donates blood once a year to get complete, unlimited coverage for himself and all members of his family (and his other dependents) in case of an emergency. Group plans have even greater flexibility.

If every family had this coverage in advance, a great deal of worry and expense could be avoided. Please do your readers a favor and tell them about it.—Informed

Dear In: I urge all adult readers to hedge against the vagaries of the future by gambling the gift of one pint of blood now for heaven knows what you might need later. The American Red Cross plan is very good.

Dear Ann Landers: A friend of mine accepted an invitation to our daughter's wedding. The ceremony was at 5 p.m., followed by a reception and dinner.

Unfortunately, her nephew was married that same day at 2 p.m. She showed up for our ceremony bombed out of her mind and had the gall to bring along another couple we didn't even know. They were drunker than she was. The three of them laughed all through the ceremony and caused a good deal of disturbance.

We had a sitdown supper during which some toasts were offered. My friend's guest, a stranger to us, took over the microphone and gave the groom some "honeymoon advice" that made me want to crawl under the table.

Our daughter's in-laws are New Englanders and they were visibly shaken. Finally my brother took the microphone away from the clod and asked him to leave.

I knew my friend had a booze problem, but I never dreamed she'd do such a thing to me. How should I deal with her from now on?—Still Boiling

Dear Still: Drunks are unpredictable. Don't involve yourself with them in situations that may embarrass you.

Mr. and Mrs. Reno Doerfler

Doerflers wed for 50 years

Mr. and Mrs. Reno Doerfler, 518 E. Summer St., celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary recently with a reception in the fellowship hall of Mount Olive Lutheran School and a dinner for family, relatives and attendants at Chef Bill's.

The couple was married May 20, 1924 at St. Paul Lutheran Church.

Before retirement in 1967, Mr. Doerfler operated The United Oil Co.

The Doerflers have two children: Dr. Warren Doerfler, Lancaster, Calif., and Mrs. Marilyn Oddo, Chicago, Ill. They also have five grandchildren.

Today in history

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Tuesday, May 28, the 148th day of 1974. There are 217 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1940, in World War II, British and French troops began evacuating thousands of troops from Dunkerque, France.

On this date:

In 1863, the first black regiment from the North in the Civil War left Boston for the front under Col. Robert Gould Shaw.

In 1864, Archduke Ferdinand Maximilian of Austria-Hungary landed in Vera Cruz, Mexico, to become emperor.

In 1934, Oliva Dionne gave birth to quintuplets in a farmhouse near Calender, Ont.

In 1937, British Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin resigned and was succeeded by Neville Chamberlain.

In 1940, King Leopold III of Belgium surrendered his army to Germany invaders in World War II.

In 1942, Adolf Hitler ordered a blood bath in which some 2,000 citizens of Czechoslovakia were executed in retaliation for the murder of a Nazi official, Reinhard Heydrich.

Ten years ago: President Lyndon B. Johnson called a meeting of top U.S. diplomatic and military officials in Honolulu to review the increasing Communist drives in Laos and South Vietnam.

Five years ago: Argentina imposed a limited state of siege amid student unrest and the threat of a general strike.

One year ago: President Hector Campora of Argentina announced restoration of diplomatic relations with Cuba.

Today's Birthdays: Retired President Warren Giles of the National League is 78 years old. Biologist Barry Commoner is 57.

Thought for today: If at first you don't succeed, try reading the directions. Anonymous.

Firm guilty of unfair labor practices

Advance Industries Division-Overhead Door Corporation, 2002 French Road, Appleton, manufacturers of radio control devices, was recently declared to have engaged in unfair labor practices by the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB). The decision, handed down by Judge

Alvin Lieberman of the NLRB, stated that the company was found to be in violation of the National Labor Relations Act for illegally refusing to reinstate three employees who last fall went on strike and for depriving another striking employee overtime work.

The ruling further stated that the company did not violate the act when it discharged four other employees who "illegally seized the plant" in a sit down strike.

The suit was brought against the company by the Fox River Valley District Council of Carpenters, Local Union 2497, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, AFL-CIO.

Advance Industries, whose parent firm is headquartered in Indiana, had refused to rehire three employees; after they went on strike and allegedly engaged in acts of vandalism against the plant.

Another employee was deprived of five hours of overtime per week which he regularly obtained prior to going on strike.

The judge ruled that there was no evidence to substantiate the companies claims.

He ordered the company to "cease and desist" from discouraging membership in the union and from "interfering with, restraining, or coercing employees in the exercise of their right to self-organization, to form, join, or assist labor organizations."

Full reinstatement was ordered for Darlene Romenesko, Betty Koester and Vicki Marheine to their former jobs "without prejudice to their seniority or other rights or privileges."

It was further ordered that David Lee, defendant in the overtime issue, be compensated "for any loss of earnings he may have suffered by reason of the discrimination practiced against him."

The decision stated that the dismissal of the three women was not caused by "misconduct...of such serious character as to render them unfit for further service."

Police & fire beat

Five persons were injured and two remained hospitalized after a three-car accident at Richmond Street and Northland Avenue about 2:30 p.m. Monday.

Still confined to St. Elizabeth Hospital today were Viola A. Hurbon, 60, 1721 Lawrence St., New London, with internal injuries, and Mark A. Dawes, 9, 1001 Wyman St., New London, with head injuries.

Released after treatment were Thomas J. Dawes, 15, leg injuries, Joanne E. Dawes, 35, head and leg injuries, and Carlene Sprague, 22, 3000 W. Spencer St., Appleton, head injuries.

Those injured, except Sprague, were riding in a car driven by John G. Hurbon, 62, also of 1721 Lawrence St., New London.

Police said Hurbon had been traveling north on Richmond and attempted a left turn, entering the path of Sprague, heading west on Northland.

After the impact, the Hurbon auto crashed into the third car, stopped for a red light in the southbound lane of Richmond and driven by Leroy H. Gavigan, 25, Monroe.

Two persons were treated for arm and leg injuries and released from St. Elizabeth Hospital after a van truck-motorcycle accident at Memorial Drive and Front Street about 3:15 p.m. Monday.

Ronald and Elizabeth Kindschy, 24 and 23, 2030 Regency Court, were injured after their motorcycle veered over the center line while turning from Front onto Memorial and entered the path of the van, heading north on Memorial and driven by Kees C. Benkers, 28, 1132 Linwood St., Menasha.

Joseph P. Wegand, 20, 130 Willow St., Little Chute, received head and leg injuries when his car left a curve on State 96 and struck a power pole about 4:45 a.m. Sunday. The crash took place near Potato Point Road east of Appleton.

Make necklace of flour-and-salt beads

BY CAPPY DICK
To make a small batch of flour-and-salt beads for a necklace, put four tablespoons of salt and four tablespoons of flour into a bowl (Figure 1) and mix them.

Gradually pour in a little water until the mixture is a very thick dough. Avoid using too much water, or it will not be possible to mold the beads with your fingers.

When you have stirred the dough thoroughly, add a little coloring, if you wish. A few drops of water-color paint will do.

If the mixture is too wet to roll into beads, let it stand until some of the water has evaporated. When you can roll the dough easily into balls, proceed to do so.

As you finish molding a ball, slip it onto a long pin as in Figure 2. This is to make a hole in the bead so it can be strung; as part of a necklace after it has hardened.

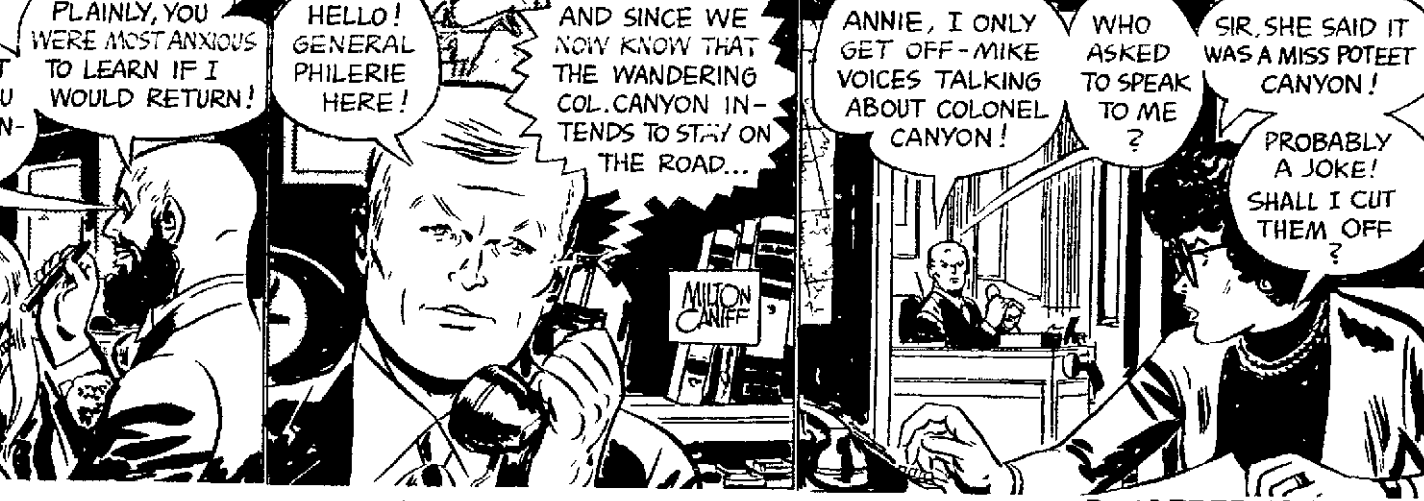

When you have the pin full of beads, prop one end up so the beads will not rest on the table. Let them dry. From time to time, turn the pin so the beads will not become lopsided.

Mold enough beads to make the necklace. Remove the dried beads from the pins and string them.

Impeachment possible over tapes, Cox says

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Former Watergate special prosecutor Archibald Cox says President Nixon's refusal to surrender White House tapes could lead to impeachment.

Cox told newsmen Monday that if the Supreme Court should order surrender of the material and should Nixon continue to refuse to give the materials up, it "would, in my judgment, be the most serious of impeachable offenses."

Cox, here to speak at the University of Virginia Law School commencement, said if Nixon should refuse a Supreme Court order he would "defy the essential constitutional guarantee that the executive be under the law," and "would assert an arbitrary, executive power to block full and impartial inquiry into executive wrongdoing."

Cox, ordered fired by Nixon last October, also said that based on his reading of the transcripts of White House conversation there is "certainly a permissible inference" that Nixon was involved in the Watergate cover-up.

He told the commencement audience there are three potential grounds for impeaching Nixon, including a continued claim of executive privilege in the face of any Supreme Court ruling.

He said under normal circumstances the right of executive privilege ought to be respected, but that it must give way when there is "a prima facie showing that it cloaks evidence of a crime."

And Cox said that in this case "there is a showing that criminality corrupted the same high levels of the executive branch."

He said another ground would be withholding from the House Judiciary Committee evidence the committee believes essential to its Watergate inquiry.

That would be "a defiance of the only process the Constitution provides for dealing with substantial charges against a president and reasserting our demands for integrity and morality in government," Cox said.

He also said Nixon's failure to restrain and direct the activities of both the Committee to Re-elect the President and his White House aides could be grounds for impeachment.

He said he does not agree with some interpretations that the only grounds for impeachment must be those that show criminal wrongdoing.

Speedy hearings favored

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford says he hopes the House Judiciary Committee won't expand its hearings on the impeachment of President Nixon, declaring, "If they drag it out, it could very well interfere with the necessary work of the Congress."

Ford was asked in an interview about reports that committee members feel additional hearings are needed to clarify ambiguities in Watergate tapes and transcripts.

"I certainly hope not," he replied. "I think they could — I would hope they would get it, whatever they do, to the floor of the House by late June or early July."

Ford was interviewed in the wake of his strong public disapproval of President Nixon's refusal to provide any additional Watergate evidence to the Judiciary Committee. However, at the vice president's request, that subject was not raised in the interview.

Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler on Sunday put down reports of differences between Ford and Nixon.

Ziegler said relations between the President and Ford were "very good." He said, "The vice president has no difficulties with the President at all."

Meanwhile, three Republicans on the Judiciary Committee said Nixon's "hush money" conversation of March 21, 1973, is the only evidence they have heard that could tend to implicate the chief executive in the Watergate cover-up.

Reps. Charles E. Wiggins of California, David W. Dennis of Indiana and Henry P. Smith of New York all had insisted before listening to the tape last week that the inquiry had yet to hear any evidence implicating Nixon.

However, the three said in interviews over the Memorial Day recess that the March 21 talk could be a turn-around point if it is clarified with further investigation.

And former Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox said Nixon's refusal to comply with the committee's evidence demands is one of three possible grounds for removing him from office.

Potentially even more serious, said Cox, would be Nixon's disobedience of a Supreme Court order to turn over tapes and documents.

Cox named as the third and broadest ground for impeachment the failure of Nixon to restrain his White House aides and campaigners who were involved in the scandal.

In the interview, Ford said he has not decided whether he will take an active part if the impeachment issue goes before the House.

"I certainly will reiterate, as I have in the past, to any members my feelings, and I don't foresee that they're going to change, that the President is innocent of any impeachable offense," Ford said.

Drinan would cut off pay to Nixon aides

BOSTON (AP) — Congress should cut off salaries to the White House staff to force President Nixon to turn over Watergate tapes to impeachment investigators, Rep. Robert F. Drinan, D-Mass., says.

Drinan, a Jesuit priest, said in an interview with the Boston Globe that he is investigating whether to file a bill to deny the pay to White House workers as long as Nixon holds back evidence the House Judiciary Committee has subpoenaed.

"Why should we just be immobilized?" asked Drinan, a member of the committee. He said Nixon's refusal to supply the tapes "is denying us our basic right."

Court asks response on Jaworski tape request

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today invited President Nixon's lawyer to respond to Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski's request for prompt review by the high court of Nixon's refusal to surrender 64 subpoenaed Watergate tapes.

The court said White House lawyer James D. St. Clair promised to respond by Thursday.

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica ruled May 20 that Nixon must surrender the tapes, but St. Clair asked the U.S. Court of Appeals here last Friday to overturn that ruling.

Jaworski then asked the Supreme Court to take jurisdiction in the case.

If the Supreme Court accepts the case, it will bypass the appeals court.

Jaworski's appeal marked the first time that the Supreme Court has been asked to intervene in the long-running legal battles over the White House Watergate tapes.

Jaworski suggested that, if the Supreme Court accepts the case, briefs be submitted by June 14, after which the court would hear oral argument.

Sirica's ruling followed a precedent which he set last August in a battle over a similar subpoena issued by the then Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox.

That ruling was upheld by the appeals court. Rather than appeal it to the Supreme Court, Nixon set in motion steps which led to the firing of Cox.

However, he later surrendered the tapes which Cox had sought.

Last month, Nixon released a 1,300-page edited transcripts of a number of White House conversations dealing with Watergate and said afterward he would release no more Watergate-related material, either to Jaworski or to the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment inquiry.

In both cases the President claimed that the subpoenas constituted an unwarranted intrusion into presidential confidentiality.

In his order, Sirica said the materials must be turned over to him by May 31.

Plaintiffs must be told of class action suits

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled today that plaintiffs in so-called "class action" suits, used increasingly in recent years by environmental and consumer groups, must individually notify at their own expense each member of the class on whose behalf they are suing.

The court agreed in substance with the findings of the U.S. Circuit Court in New York, which specialists in class action suits have said would put almost insurmountable obstacles in their path.

Justice William O. Douglas, dissenting in part from the court's decision, said the class action suit "is one of the few legal remedies the small claimant has against those who command the status quo."

"I would strengthen his hand with the view of creating a system of law that dispenses justice to the lowly as well as those liberally endowed with power and wealth," Douglas wrote.

Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr., speaking for the court in the class action case, said controversial federal court rules adopted in 1966, under which class actions suits have proliferated, clearly require individual notice "to all class members whose names and addresses may be ascertained by reasonable effort."

A class action suit is a device by which many persons whose claim for damages are too small to justify a lawsuit may combine them for one big claim.

In the case on which the court ruled, Morton Eisen, owner of a New York shoe business, sued on behalf of himself and other persons who bought shares on the New York Stock Exchange in less than 100-share lots. He claimed that broker fees for such purchases were excessive.

Eisen said his own overcharge was only $70 but that the total overcharge to roughly six million odd-lot purchasers was about $120 million.

documents relating to 64 White House conversations between June 20, 1972 and June 4, 1973. The prosecutors are seeking the material for preparation for the Watergate cover-up trial scheduled to begin Sept. 9.

Dip predicted in inflation

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon sent Congress today a special economic report predicting that the surge in inflation should subside to about seven per cent in the last quarter of this year.

In the past three months the cost of living increase has been at an annual rate of 12.1 per cent, the highest level since 1951.

The President, following up on a weekend radio address, told Congress he sees "signs of improvement" in the economic outlook and added:

"Although the recent events are not conclusive they tend to strengthen the expectation that in the remainder of this year, output will be rising more rapidly, prices will be rising much less rapidly and the unemployment rate, while it will probably rise further, will not reach a very high point before it recedes."

Holiday traffic toll way down

More than 100 fewer persons died on the nation's highways during this year's 78-hour Memorial Day weekend than in 1973. Unofficial totals show 374 traffic deaths this year, compared to 486 during the 1973 holiday weekend.

The National Safety Council had estimated before the three-day weekend that between 450 and 550 persons would die in traffic accidents. That estimate was 100 below the 1973 estimate put out prior to last year's holiday by the safety council. The highest toll for a three-day Memorial Day weekend was 597 in 1969.

The council anticipated a holiday weekend than normal this year because of the 55 m.p.h. speed limit and fears of a gasoline shortage. There were no reports of gasoline shortages, however.

Henry Kissinger reflects on the state of Mideast negotiations.

End near for talks

JERUSALEM (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger postponed his return to Washington again today and headed back to Damascus instead, making a final effort to win a disengagement agreement between Israel and Syria.

Kissinger set out on the surprise flight — his 13th trip to the Syrian capital in 31 days — after the Israeli government held a five-hour marathon session but failed to reach a decision on the latest truce bargaining.

The secretary said earlier that he would not return to Damascus. He changed his mind after another meeting with Premier Golda Meir and Israeli negotiators.

Kissinger had planned to send his top aide, Joseph Sisco, for a last trip to the Syrian capital and then return to the United States.

Giving no reason for the sudden switch in plans, Kissinger drove from Jerusalem to Ben-Gurion Airport shortly after the Israeli government announced it needed further "clarifications" from Syria. The unexplained "clarifications" appeared essential to any agreement.

Israeli Information Minister Shimon Peres said the Israeli cabinet had gone over the "sum total and general balance of the whole negotiations" in today's first session without concentrating on any particular sticking points.

Earlier Kissinger met for two hours with the Israeli negotiating team, where he reported on Monday's marathon talks with Assad.

"We had a very detailed meeting, the result of which is that the cabinet will meet to make a decision," added Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban. Kissinger did not speak to newsmen.

Kobel records shutout as Brewers top Angels

ANAHEIM (AP) — The California Angels tried to rock the cradle and couldn't.

Milwaukee's precocious Cradle Corps, featuring 20-year-old left-hander Kevin Koble and 18-year-old shortstop Robin Yount, struck a blow for youth and also struck the California Angels dumb, playing vital roles in a 2-0 Milwaukee victory Monday night.

Kobel choked off California on six hits and produced the first shutout of his brief but effective major league career. Yount had a single in his only official at-bat, scored one of Milwaukee's runs and made several key defensive contributions as the Brewers remained hot on the heels of the Boston Red Sox in the American League East.

The Brewer triumph kept them within one-half game of the Sox. Meanwhile, the Angels tumbled into fifth place in the American League West, 3½ games behind the Oakland A's.

"I'm flaky...I do silly things," Koble said excitedly after his blank job. "It helps me relax and you have to relax in this game."

Kobel, hardly the shy, retiring or self-effacing type, is known in the corners of the Milwaukee clubhouse as "Spaceman," "Captain Krypton" and plain old "Goofy."

"I just wanted to go nine innings tonight," the rookie said after earning his third victory in five decisions. "I've gone into the seventh inning with a shutout three times before and each time I've given up a home run. I didn't want that to happen tonight."

It didn't.

The only home run was served up by Koble's mound rival, strikeout king Nolan Ryan.

After Yount kept the Brewers alive in the fifth inning with a two-out single, Don Money gave Koble all the offense.

he needed by depositing a line drive home run into the left field seats. It was his sixth of the year.

Kobel wound up with five strikeouts and walked only one batter.

Ryan pitched decently, too, yielding seven hits while striking out eight and walking six. His record fell to 6-5.

"We had one shot at him and didn't get him," said Angel Manager Bobby Winkles of Koble. "He didn't give us another one."

Winkles was referring to an Angel threat in the third when Paul Schaal led off with a double and Ellie Rodriguez bunted for a hit as Schaal took third.

But Koble escaped unscathed by striking out Dave Chalk and Mickey Rivers and getting Denny Doyle on a fly to center.

Rodriguez, the former Brewer, was a bright spot for California. He established an Angel club record by throwing out four Milwaukee runners as they attempted to steal second.

He also had two of the six hits off Koble.

Pirates' Brett and butter

Pittsburgh's Ken Brett, former Milwaukee Brewer, did it just about all Monday in a doubleheader against San Diego. He is shown here pitching the first game, in which he worked eight perfect innings before giving up two hits in the ninth in a 6-1 victory. Brett came back in the second game to pinch-hit a 2-run triple that keyed a Pirates comeback win, 8-7. (AP wirephoto).

Wilson, Foxes' hurler, hits homer in 12th, wins, 4-3

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN

Post-Crescent sports editor

Appleton Foxes pitcher Barney Wilson is a patient man. . . But enough is enough. After watching his teammates strand 17 base runners in 11 innings and seeing the Midwest League game against Waterloo drag on for 3 hours, 29 minutes, 25 seconds, Wilson took matters in his own hands in the bottom of the 12th frame.

Batting in the leadoff spot, the 6-foot-5, 220-pound Wilson, leaned into a fat, 2-0 pitch from Chris Bosza and rocketed it over the left field wall to terminate the matinee. Wilson's line shot of some 350 feet gave the Foxes a 4-3 win over the Northern Division leaders, emptied the dugout of celebrating Foxes and sent 584 customers home happy.

Wilson was the sixth Foxes pitcher of a 10-hurler game. He pitched well in an inning and 2/3 to pick up his second win in as many decisions. The Foxes also got excellent mound work from starter Barry Smith and first reliever Tom King, each of whom yielded one hit in three scoreless frames. Neither went any longer than three innings because of the new Foxes policy — established by the parent White Sox — that at least three pitchers will be used each game to give more people a chance to show what they can do.

The Foxes' other muscle man, besides Wilson, was Ed Wheeler who blasted a 370-foot homer over the left center field barrier in the second inning to launch the scoring.

The Foxes made it 2-0 in the fourth as King singled home a run.

Waterloo got to reliever "Butch" Stinson for single runs in the seventh, eighth and 10th to go ahead, 3-2. An RBI single by Rod Scott ended Appleton's shutout in the seventh. Ruppert Jones' leadoff home run in the eighth evened the score. Jones swung a hefty bat against the Foxes, with six hits in the 2-game series.

In the 10th, an Ed Wheeler throwing error, on a ball hit by Steve Blomberg (former Lawrence University athlete), enabled the Royals to go ahead for the first time.

The Foxes, however, re-tied the game in the bottom of the 10th. Pinch-batter George Enright drilled a single to left to

Terrors tip Jays as Femal stars

MENASHA — Sophomore southpaw Doug Femal authored a four-hit shutout and drove in his team's only runs as Appleton West blanked Menasha High School 2-0, for the WIAA regional baseball tournament championship here Monday afternoon.

The win hikes Appleton West's record to 14-2. The 1974 Fox Valley Association champions were beaten in the regional final last year, 1-0, by Menasha. The Bluejays finish the current campaign with a 10-7 record.

With the victory, the Terrors move into the sectional level of competition at a site and against an opponent yet to be determined. Sectional play is to be conducted Thursday and Friday.

Femal cracked a bases-empty home run over the right field fence in the second inning and doubled home the second run in the fourth. Tom Bauman led off the fourth with a single.

The Bluejays had several scoring opportunities but twice had runners picked off first base.

Femal struck out nine hitters and didn't walk anyone, although one batter was hit by a pitched ball.

Tim Rasmussen started for the Jays but was lifted in favor of Bill Gierke in the fifth. Gierke put out the four hitters he faced.

West collected five hits off the Menasha duo, including Femal's two. Rod Frederickson had a pair of singles for Menasha.

In other regional playoff finals in Sectional Area IV Denmark and Pulaski scored victories Monday. West De Pere and (Gibraltar) Fish Creek are to play today for the fourth berth.

APPLETON WEST 2, MENASHA 0. Doug Femal (5) and Bob Burroughs; Femal and Andy Kangas strikeouts, walks, Rasmussen 2-1, Gierke 0-0, Femal 9-0, HR, Femal 2nd, none on, 2B; Femal, Burroughs LH; Femal 2x3, Rod Frederickson M 2x3.

Rutherford gets record payoff

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A record purse for the 1974 Indianapolis 500-mile race was awarded Monday with Johnny Rutherford taking a check for $245,031.52 as the winner's share.

Under the normal split between drivers and car owners, Rutherford's split will amount to approximately $98,012.60.

The checks were presented at the annual awards banquet from a total purse of $1,015,686. The over-all prize money was $4,000 more than the 1971 race—the first million-dollar payoff in the history of auto racing.

"This is a dream come true," the 37-year-old Fort Worth, Tex., winner told the banquet audience at the Indianapolis Convention-Exposition Center.

"I've got a lot of people to thank," he added. "Naturally, I have to give my biggest thanks to Team McLaren and all the people involved. It's just hard to describe my feelings for these people."

Mark Donohue, 1972 Indy winner, presented the 500 championship ring to Rutherford.

"I think it means a lot in tradition," Donohue told the new champion. "It will mean a lot for you to look back on

It looks as if the Pittsburgh Pirates may have another Babe Ruth on their hands.

For you young fans, Babe Ruth was the leading home run hitter of all time before Henry Aaron came along.

But Ruth was also a pretty fair hurler before he went into the hitting business full time in 1922. He showed a 94-46 pitching record and a 2.28 ERA.

Ken Brett, the left-handed pitching and hitting sensation, seems to pose a similarly wonderful "problem" for the Pirates.

San Diego Padres Monday, lefty Brett pitched perfect baseball for eight innings and ended up with a two-hit, 6-0 shutout.

But the work of a pitcher who hits like Ken Brett is never done and his bat was called on to pinch hit in the second game. Brett boomed a two-run triple to spark a five-run seventh inning uprising and the Pirates went to beat the Padres in the nightcap 8-7.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Chicago Cubs pounded the San Francisco Giants 12-4; the St. Louis Cardinals overpowered the Los Angeles Dodgers 7-2; the Atlanta Braves crushed the Philadelphia Phillies 9-1; the Cincinnati Reds beat the New York Mets 4-2, and the Houston Astros at Montreal Expos game was rained out.

"Brett's something else. He had a heckuva day," said Richie Hebner, who blasted a dramatic two-out, two-run homer in the ninth inning of the second game to rally the Pirates over the Padres.

Reds 4, Mets 2
Cincinnati jumped on struggling Tom Seaver for six hits and four runs in the first two innings and Fred Norman checked the Mets on four hits.

Braves 9, Phillies 1
Phil Niekro, 6-3, tossed a five-hitter in pitching the Braves to their 10th victory in 12 games. He struck out seven, including five in a row, and walked one.

Cubs 12, Giants 4
Pitcher Ken Frailing drove in three runs with a pair of singles to lead Chicago past San Francisco.

Frailing, 3-4, who bested Giant ace Mike Caldwell, 7-2, pitched in and out of trouble all game, yielding 15 hits.

Johnson fined by Aspromonte

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) —Cleveland Indians Manager Ken Aspromonte said a stiff fine has been levied against pitcher Bob Johnson for his actions on an airplane flight from Detroit to Dallas Sunday night.

Aspromonte wouldn't say how much the fine was, but it was reported to be $500.

The manager said Monday night he fined Johnson for profanity and for insubordination to traveling secretary Bob Gill.

Johnson was upset over a delay in the departure from Detroit and a mixup in seat assignments aboard the plane.

He complained to several stewards in Indianapolis and finally stalked off the plane at the Indianapolis stop.

He later flew to Dallas at his own expense to join the team.

Pearson ends '600' drought

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) — The World 600 stock car race Sunday developed into a three-way battle of veterans and at the end, pole sitter David Pearson won by six-tenths of a second over Richard Petty.

Tornadoes win third straight

The Neenah Tornadoes, behind Chris Carter's hat-trick, rolled to their third straight soccer victory, 5-1 over the Sheboygan Wombats Saturday.

Other Tornadoes goals were scored by Tony Ansems and Paul Perry. Jim Bendall got the only Wombat goal.

The Tornadoes are now 4-1 in ECW soccer play, the Wombats are 0-4.

DALLAS (AP) — Race car driver Johnny Cash, 21, of Denison, Tex., died at a hospital here Monday of injuries suffered in a crash at the Colbert, Okla., Raceway.

He was pinned underneath his car last Friday when it overturned in a speedway accident.

Fox Cities netters win titles

ELM GROVE — Don Vought of Neenah won the Men's 45 Singles and Bob Luedtke, Appleton, along with Jerry Sullivan, Wauwatosa, took the Men's 45 Doubles title in the Elm-Brook Veterans Tennis Tournament held over the weekend at Elm Grove.

Vought took the singles crown by defeating Bob Curtiss of Janesville in the finals, 6-4, 7-6.

Luedtke and Sullivan defeated Wally Rice and Joe Drutowski, Milwaukee, 6-7, 7-6, 6-2 for the doubles crown.

In the Men's 55 Doubles, Chuck Schuman of Appleton and Art Remley, Neenah, reached the finals only to lose to Tom Phillips and Roy Bellin, of Elm Grove, 6-3, 7-5.

In the quarter-finals of the 55 Singles, Chuck Schuman lost to Jack Smith, 6-1, 1-6, 6-3, and in the semi-finals, Smith defeated Art Remley, 7-5, 3-6, 6-1.

The Men's 35 Singles division saw Del Hoeffner, Appleton, eliminated in the second round as was Tony Koehn, Neenah. Appleton's Al West lost in the third round while John Wylie, also of Appleton, lost in the second. In the Men's 45 division, George Nickles, Appleton, lost in the third round to runnerup Bob Curtiss.

Flyers acquire Seals' Leach

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Stanley Cup champion Philadelphia Flyers have acquired winger Reggie Leach from the California Golden Seals in exchange for two minor league players and a future draft pick.

"The Flyers have been trying to get him (Leach) for years," a Flyers spokesman said Friday.

The Flyers sent Larry Wright and Al Macadam, both from the Richmond Robins, to the Seals. The Flyers also gave California the first Philadelphia pick in this year's National Hockey League draft.

Gary Player has attained peak plateau

MEMPHIS (AP) — "I am playing absolutely the best golf of my career," declared South African Gary Player, winner of the Danny Thomas-Memphis Golf Classic.

"Since the Sammy Davis3Hartford tournament 10 months ago, I have been on a plateau I have never before achieved."

Player, winner of the Masters earlier in the year, wrapped up his second victory of the season Sunday with a six-under-par 67 for a 72-hole total of 273.

Player came from five strokes off the pace in the final round, keying his remarkable comeback by holing a 40-foot chip shot from a sand trap on the 12th hole.

It was his second victory in seven starts this year and he hasn't finished lower than 18th. He picked up $35,000 in Memphis to increase his season's bankroll to $175,000.

The 38-year-old Player's career was thought to be in jeopardy in January of 1973 when he was hospitalized for a bladder operation and removal of a cyst on his left leg. But Player says the surgery has turned out to be a blessing in disguise.

"For 20 years I played golf fearing a hook," he said. "After my operation last year I changed to a more upright stance which prohibits me from coming over the ball. I have much more confidence in my swing now than I ever did."

Guidolin quits as Bruins' coach

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Bruins go into today's National Hockey League amateur draft without a coach in the wake of Bep Guidolin's decision to quit his job rather than settle for a short-term contract.

Because the Bruins won the Prince of Wales trophy with a first-place finish in the Eastern Division, they have last pick in every round of the junior draft, taking their first three choices in the 18th, 25th, and 30th rounds.

But Bruins managing director Harry Sinden already has given the word that the team will continue picking its share into the late rounds today.

Guidolin, according to his wife, spent Monday fishing while Sinden broke the news that the coach would not be returning.

Sinden said he regretted Guidolin's decision, but added the Bruins could not meet his demand for a long-term pact.

Guidolin's decision came eight days after the Bruins lost the Stanley Cup championships to the Philadelphia Flyers.

"Bep did a good job for us," Sinden said, "and I wish him the best of luck in his future endeavors."

Before leaving Boston last week to make up his mind in the quiet of his Barrie, Ont., home, Guidolin said, "I have to think about some security. It's got to be a long-time deal, and if it isn't you can say that I won't be back."

Sinden said the Bruins usually offer contracts for one or two years.

The Bruins management said Monday that no decision had been made on Guidolin's replacement, but two names keep coming up as strong possibilities: John Ferguson, a former hard-nosed hockey player for the Montreal Canadians, and Don Cherry, American Hockey League Coach of the Year for the past two years.

Guidolin reportedly is a leading contender for a coaching spot with the new Washington Capitals.

Before leaving for home last week Guidolin said, "If I can't come together with the Bruins, I'll probably go back to Canada and coach kids next year in junior hockey."

George Thompson interests Bucks

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Bucks, running poorly in the National Basketball Association college draft today, admitted having an eye instead on 6-foot-2 pro George Thompson.

Wayne Embry, Bucks general manager, said he has been conversing with Boston Celtics general manager Red Auerbach about Thompson, a former star at Marquette University in Milwaukee.

Thompson has played out his option with Memphis of the American Basketball Association. The Celtics hold his NBA rights.

"We have not acquired Thompson's rights from Boston, and I don't know if we ever will," Embry said. "But we do have an interest in him."

The Bucks have been keeping an eye out for a guard, especially with Oscar Robertson talking of retiring.

TWIN CITY BOWL
981 Plank Rd., Menasha • 725-3036

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Wisconsin, which last year swept all three eight-oared events, has been pegged the team to beat at the 72nd annual Intercollegiate Rowing Association Regatta here this weekend.

A total of 79 shells from 22 schools will vie for championships in eight events beginning with qualifying heats Thursday, repechage (second chance) heats Friday and finals in all events Saturday on Onondaga Lake. All races will be at 2,000 meters.

Two new events have been added this year—the varsity fours without coxswain and the pairs with coxswain. Those events and the junior varsity eight-oared competition all are championship events scheduled for Saturday due to a limited number of entries.

Other events include varsity and freshman eights, varsity and freshman fours with coxswain and apirs without coxswain.

Coach Randy Jablonic's Badgers are a veteran crew which finished second to Harvard (not entered here) in this year's Eastern Sprints at Worcester, Mass.

But several teams are expected to challenge Wisconsin's bid to repeat in the varsity eight-oared event, including California, MIT, Northeastern and Cornell.

MIT was fourth at the Eastern Sprints, behind Harvard, Wisconsin and Northeastern, but defeated the Huskies earlier in the season.

Cornell has won 19 IRA crowns, including seven since the national championship of college rowing was moved to Syracuse in 1952.

Local favorite Syracuse, which last won an IRA title in 1920, looms as a darkhorse contender. Coach Bill Sanford says the Orangemen should have their best showing since 1959 when they placed second to Wisconsin.

Syracuse opened the season by defeating Marist and Columbia and followed with a three-second win over Rutgers. The Orangemen have placed second to Cornell twice—once at the Goes Cup Championship at Ithaca and in the consolation race at the Eastern Sprints.

But Syracuse has drawn Wisconsin and Northeastern in Thursday's qualifying heat, which Sanford concedes might mean a repechage round on Friday if the Orangemen are to make the six-team finals.

"It appears we would have to get a lot faster to beat Wisconsin, but I think we're more competitive than ever before," Sanford said.

"With the team we have this year, I'm pretty sure we can get into the finals. If we had the depth like Wisconsin, we'd be a certain contender," Sanford said.

Military Golfland cops 'Jitter's'

MENASHA — Military Golfland of Green Bay tallied single runs in four different innings to beat Hide-A-Way of Appleton, 4-1, for the championship of the Jitter's Memorial Day Softball Classic Sunday night.

Veteran Fred Fels stopped Hide-A-Way, which was in the finals for the second straight year, on five hits.

Golfland notched eight off Lee Dallman but they were rationed at two per inning in four separate frames and were worth a single run a segment.

Ron Dart, Tom Handlen, Jerry Denney and Fels all drove in single runs.

Hide-A-Way scored five runs in the first inning enroute to an 11-1 win over All Car Automotive of Schofield in the semifinals.

Merle Pecha crashed a 3-run homer in the first inning. He did the same thing in Saturday's quarter-final test. Glen Nau allowed three hits.

Military Golfland came from behind with six runs in the sixth to nip Dickinson Moto Ski of Green Bay, 6-4, in the other semifinal encounter.

Dickinson's won over All Car Automotive, 5-2, for third place.

Pecha and Handlen received most valuable player awards.

Royals' Gressick stops Foxes

BY DAN VANDERPAS
Post-Crescent staff writer

Lefthander Jeff Gressick upped his record to 7-0 and Rupert Jones had three runs batted in, including a two-run homer, to spark the Waterloo Royals to a 6-3 Midwest League victory over Appleton's Foxes at Goodland Field Sunday afternoon.

The Foxes out-hit Waterloo, 11-8, but left 11 men stranded. They collected three singles, but left the bases loaded without scoring a run in the sixth.

Losing pitcher Ed Holly was tagged for four earned runs during his two and two thirds innings of work.

Waterloo scored two runs in the first and added three in the third. The winners played an insurance run in the fifth. Appleton dented the scoreboard in the pounded a changeup pitch to left enabling Walters to score.

Walters and Clyde Jeter both contributed three hits to the Appleton cause.

White bass anglers out

The Wolf River in the Fremont area was practically shore-to-shore with boats over the Memorial Day weekend as anglers by the hundreds turned out to fish for white bass which are presently on their annual spawning run up the river. The fish cooperated with the anglers and catches of up to 100 bass per boat were rated as "common" all along the river. (AP Wirephoto)

Fishing pressure heavy on the Wolf River

FREMONT, Wis. (AP) — The Wolf River was clustered with fishing boats during the Memorial Day weekend for what game wardens called a better-than-normal pursuit of white bass.

Rex Oatman, warden for the Natural Resources Department, said 3,000 fishermen were counted in a single day along approximately 15 miles of Wolf upstream from Lake Poygan.

The white bass fancier attempts to time his hunt with the fish's spawning season. Oatman said Friday seems to have been the high point of the current season, showing signs of tapering off by Sunday and Monday.

Another warden said favorable high-water conditions a year ago fattened the white bass population in Lake Poygan and nearby Lake Winnebago, making the 1974 outing especially profitable.

Even so, Oatman said, the role of fishermen's luck was not to be denied.

Some boaters who happened on nesting sites "were hauling in 40, maybe 50 fish" while envious anglers in other boats a few yards away had to content themselves with two or three, he reported.

Praise new chief steward

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Of all the changes made this year for the Indianapolis 500, drivers were unanimous after the race about which one was their favorite—Tom Binford.

"They ought to put that man on a pedestal," said driver Salt Walther of the man who replaced controversial Harlan Fenger as chief steward. "With my experiences here last year, I had some things on my mind and Tom took time to meet privately with me to get things straightened out."

"I know he did the same thing with other drivers and it was very much appreciated," added Walther, who has recovered from a near-fatal accident at Indy in 1973.

Many others shared Walther's feelings.

Even race winner Johnny Rutherford, who had a disagreement earlier in the month with Binford, was complimentary. "It was just super, especially the changes he made to make sure of a safe start," Rutherford said. "That was as good a start as you'll have here."

Binford made an unpopular decision that Rutherford could not run for the pole position because his car was being repaired when it should have been ready for qualifying. Rutherford ultimately started the race 25th, despite the second-fastest qualifying time.

"That," Rutherford said of the dispute, "is forgotten."

"For a change, I felt like the speed way officials were really on our side," said one driver. "Usually they bend over backwards to make it tougher on us."

With some of the disputes during the month before the race, including the legal challenge to ending qualifications before some had a first try, Binford at times hardly seemed a popular figure.

But when the checkered flag fell Sunday on one of the safest Indy 500s ever, Binford was accorded the tributes.

U.S. force nearly all out of Laos

BY DAVID JENKINS
Associated Press Writer
VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) —The United States, which financed and helped direct so-called "secret war" in Laos for nearly a decade, is busily dismantling remaining military presence and bringing back its war-battered bureaucracy. Laos switches over to a peacetime economy.

Fifteen months after the Laotian cease-fire in February, 1973, the United States presence in Vientiane is only a diluted remnant of its former self. Years that once catered exclusively to duty American pilots and Army mechanics are now either deserted or deserted.

Signs saying "house for rent" are now hanging on gateposts in many of the city's better neighborhoods. Weeds are sprouting up in driveways where American children used to ride their back bicycles.

By the end of this month, the embassy says, the number will be down to around 100.

At the time of the cease-fire, there were 216 American military men serving as Army and Air Force attaches. Early next month, there will be only 10, according to U.S. plans.

One reason for the U.S. cutback is that the United States government and the Communist Pathet Lao formed a coalition government here on April 15, when they started the clock ticking on a cease-fire provision which said that foreign troops had to be out of the country "within 60 days" —that is, June 15.

U.S. officials say there is more to the American pullback than a mere clause in a peace accord.

The headline obviously has quite a lot to do with the present situation, "one," "but it isn't everything. After less than 20 per cent of our people are affected by the military withdrawal clause." Other factors have influenced the situation.

A year ago," says the deputy USAID director in Laos, Gordon Ramsey, "we had a lot of pilots to carry out our rice crops to refugees in the mountains. They have a road into the main rice area."

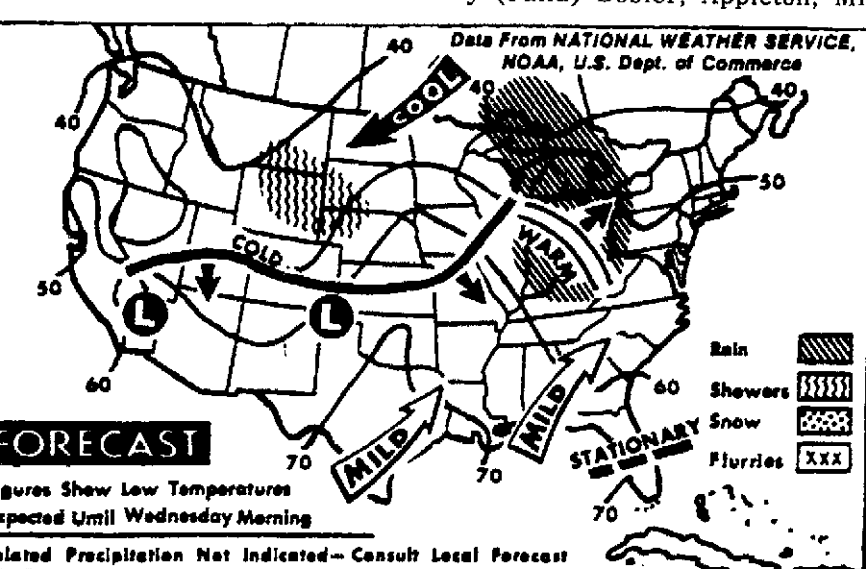

Ray says the continuing U.S. cutback in Laos is reflected in USAID annual charts.

Last July we had 280 Americans in Laos," he said. "By 1975 the figure will be half that — 140."

Along with the manpower cutback is a major cutback.

Two years ago, the U.S. Congress authorized a maximum annual expenditure in Laos of $375 million — the so-called "Symington Ceiling" — with $100 million going for economic and humanitarian work, but the lion's share going into the war machine.

This year, the United States is still expected to contribute the usual $500 million for things like schools, roads and health care. Pathet Lao ministers in the government have privately admitted that they will be happy for the money. In President Nixon is seeking $85 million for military spending in Laos, U.S. sources say, and most of this goes for salaries and training.

Weather forecast

Milder weather is forecast today for southern states but continuing cool weather is expected for northern states. Showers are forecast for the northern Plains and rain is forecast for the Great Lakes and Midwest. (AP wirephoto map)

Rainy and cool week ahead

Disconsolates returned to work today for the long Memorial Holiday weekend with cloudy skies and scattered showers fitting for the Tuesday morning blues that come with three-day weekends.

Those nursing blisters and aches on holiday sunbathing, picnicking, and gardening will have a few to recuperate as intermittent rain cover Wisconsin the rest of the week.

The U.S. Weather Service in Green Bay predicts it to be cloudy and mild with a chance of showers and thundershowers and a low in the mid 40s. Wednesday will be mostly cloudy turning cooler with a chance of showers and a high in the mid 60s. Thursday will see occasional periods of showers and thundershowers with a low in the upper 40s.

Precipitation probabilities are 50 per cent tonight and 30 per cent Wednesday.

High temperatures today were predicted for the 60s north and 70s south with showers continuing everywhere except in the extreme northwestern states tonight as lows dip into the 40s and mid 50s.

A chance of showers would continue to WASHINGTON (AP) — Most 1975-model cars will have a special air pollution device, but there may not be enough of a new fuel needed for such cars, an internal report by the American Automobile Association says.

Unleaded gas will be needed for the 1975 cars, which should begin rolling off assembly lines in less than four months, because of the introduction of the new device, called a catalytic converter.

If the problem arises, the AAA report says, "then some of the nation's approximately 10 million new car owners will not find unleaded gas when they need it and must have it. If they turn to leaded fuel, it will slowly destroy their converters and they will be forced to replace them at costs of up to $150."

The report was written by William Berman, AAA's staff expert on environmental affairs legislation. A copy was obtained by The Associated Press.

Officials of the Federal Energy

Administration and the Environmental Protection Agency, which share responsibility for pollution and fuel regulations, said they did not expect any unleaded gas supply problems. However, they conceded there could be some problems with distribution, another danger area pointed to in Berman's report.

"There is going to be enough gas, we're reasonably sure," said John Harper, a deputy assistant administrator of FEO. "The only question is whether there will be enough stations ready when the unleaded gasoline is needed."

"We've designated enough stations for the gas," said Charles Freed, chief of the fuels and imports branch of EPA. "Supply and distribution are FEO's area and there are a few problems there, but I'm told it's nothing egregious."

However, Berman said, "We are going to stand by the report."

The report said AAA representatives, in extensive contacts with automobile, oil and government officials, found:

—While 10 per cent of the driving public would have to use the unleaded gas, at least 62 per cent of the cars on the road could use it, raising the prospect of extra demand on small supplies.

—Major gasoline marketers were guaranteeing some unleaded gas only to their company-operated stations, leaving independent service station owners without supplies.

—EPA formulas designating which stations must carry the unleaded gas do not give wide enough distribution for the product, particularly in rural areas.

—In the end, the gasoline manufacturers may be taking the wrong chemical out of the gasoline. A Chrysler scientist's study shows that it is not lead but ethylene dibromide that poisons the catalytic converters. Further research is under way but, for now, the ethylene dibromide stays and the lead goes.

Mrs. Gandhi replies to India's critics

NEW YORK (AP) — India's Prime Minister Indira Gandhi has asserted that "our neighbors need have no fear" despite her country's explosion of a nuclear device last week.

"There is a difference between a nuclear country and a nuclear-weapon country," Mrs. Gandhi said in an interview published in the current issue of Newsweek magazine.

"We are not a nuclear-weapon country. We don't have any bombs. We don't intend to use this knowledge or this power for any other than peaceful purposes."

Mrs. Gandhi made the comments three days after the blast had unleashed a wave of criticism and outrage in Western capitals. Many critics charged India was spending money on nuclear tests while accepting millions in aid for its starving poor.

But the prime minister insisted that "there was no foreign-exchange expenditure. ... There was no dependence on any other country" in developing the device.

The comment appeared particularly aimed at Canada, which has protested that India used Canadian technology and expertise, provided to help develop peaceful uses of nuclear energy, to develop a bomb.

Mrs. Gandhi also complained that her country's image is often maligned. India, she said, "is a favorite and convenient whipping boy."

"At one moment, we are described as a soft state and a flabby democracy. But simultaneously we are accused of being ruthless and tough, cynical and

Family free after months as captives

NEW YORK (AP) — Police say four young children were tortured and imprisoned with their mother for months by a man who in one instance put one of the youngsters in a lighted oven.

Sotero Vasquez, 33, was arrested Monday and charged with keeping his girlfriend and her four children, ages three to eight years, near starvation in their Bronx apartment.

Among the tortures he allegedly inflicted on the children were coating their knees with syrup and forcing them to scurry across a floor sprinkled with rice; pouring hot candlewax on their buttocks; locking them in a cabinet and forcing a child to stand on a chair with his neck in a noose while the chair was rocked.

Police quoted the mother, 27-year-old Olga Ramos, as saying her 7-year-old boy made a noise Monday morning that awoke Vasquez who then put the boy into the lighted oven. She said she came running into the room and pulled the boy out.

Vasquez kept the apartment padlocked and the windows nailed shut, but he forgot to fasten the padlock after leaving Monday and Mrs. Ramos escaped and summoned police, authorities said.

The children were taken to Lincoln Hospital for treatment of cigarette and candlewax burns, then taken to the home of Mrs. Ramos' mother.

power-hungry. Both images can't be true.

"Our real achievements usually go unnoticed," Mrs. Gandhi said. "Hardly anybody drew attention to the effort we had to make last year in order to feed 90 million people. In spite of a very critical situation, we were able to avoid starvation deaths."

India draws a distinction between deaths from starvation and deaths from malnutrition, of which there are tens of thousands every year.

Mrs. Gandhi made these other comments:

On relations with the United States: "There unfortunately have been some misunderstandings on the part of the U.S. administration, but I am very glad that these have been cleared up now. Consequently, our relations are improving. We do attach a special importance to friendship with the U.S."

On the Middle East: "The increase in oil prices has affected our country as it has others. ... But we have supported and continue to support the Arab cause because we consider it to be just, and we also very strongly believe that the countries that produce the raw materials must get better prices."

On India's 20-day railroad strike, in which hundreds of union leaders were jailed: "We regard strikes as a legitimate weapon for organized labor. But one has to view the interest of any one section in the light of the larger interest of the country."

Accused 'mass murderer' seeks stay

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In the tranquil Pacific beach town of Surfside, Andrija Artukovic lives in quiet seclusion. In Yugoslavia, he is charged as a World War II mass murderer.

Artukovic, 75, has been fighting deportation to face war crimes charges for more than 20 years. He says the charges are untrue.

He claims he would be a dead man if he were returned to Yugoslavia, where, as minister of interior of Croatia, he is alleged to have been responsible for the deaths of as many as 200,000 Serbs, Jews and Gypsies.

Only recently, Artukovic won another round in his long fight to stay in the United States. The U.S. Immigration Service decided to continue a stay of deportation. Presumably, he will be able to live out his life here.

Artukovic, who was a follower of Hitler and Mussolini, has been denounced by some as a mass murderer and defended by others as the victim of a political and religious vendetta.

Militant Jewish groups have demanded his deportation, and have demonstrated against him.

When Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y., charged last week that "haphazard ... sloppy" investigation by the Immigration Service has made the United States a haven for at least 70 persons accused of being Nazi war criminals, Artukovic was one she mentioned.

Artukovic, whom photographs show as a straight-backed official in a Nazi-type uniform, became minister of the interior of Croatia after the state was established by Croatian fascists shortly before Germany invaded Yugoslavia in 1941. Croatia now is again a part of Yugoslavia.

Artukovic entered the United States under an assumed name in 1947. In 1952, the Immigration Service ordered him deported for overstaying his leave as an alien. But in 1959, after a bitter legal battle, the deportation order was suspended on grounds that he might be persecuted for political reasons if he were returned to Yugoslavia.

The hearing stirred up old passions between Serbs and Croats and between Roman Catholics and members of the Eastern Orthodox wing of the church.

Artukovic was Croatian, Roman Catholic and anti-Communist. His cause attracted many Catholics, Croats and anti-Communists in the United States. They felt that he was being hounded for his political and religious beliefs.

A spokesman for the militant Jewish Defense League has called the latest decision against Artukovic's extradition "a travesty of justice and a cop-out."

But Charles Posner, executive director of the community relations committee of the Jewish Federation Council, the parent body of 535 Jewish health and welfare groups, said "We have no grief for Artukovic. But the man is 75, and maybe it's time to forget."

Navy's war games now even more realistic

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — In an attempt to make war games more realistic, the U.S. Naval War College is replacing its traditional tabletop method of fighting battles with computers and movie projectors. And sometimes even politicians.

War games are regarded as the cheapest possible way to discover and demonstrate faulty combat decisions, and the new methods being tried here make the center a trailblazer in that area, says Capt. Don Henderson, director of the college's war gaming center.

Since politicians often are looking over the shoulders of military men, politics was injected into a recent exercise.

Henderson said top-level State Department employees acted as umpires in the game and controlled the escalation of involvement, "to the complete frustration of the military commanders."

"It was so realistic; the end result was it helped reach the objectives of gaming completely," he said.

In a dark room at the war gaming center, combat situations are plotted on a large movie screen using 48 projectors along with hand drawings and paste-on cutouts.

A computer tallies the damages and determines the weapons strengths, courses and speeds of ships and aircraft involved.

The huge movie screen also is used for re-enactments of famous naval battles of history. Actual films are spliced into the presentation on a small side screen. Sound effects and flashing lights depict volleys and direct hits.

The games include combat situations ranging from a single aircraft against a submarine to a major conflict between nations involving decisions by fleet commands and the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

NOW picks new head at Houston

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The new president of the National Organization for Women says men have nothing to fear and everything to gain from the women's rights movement.

"Men don't have to be success objects anymore," Karen De Crow said, Monday in her acceptance speech as the head of the feminist group which claims 40,000 members.

Delegates to NOW's seventh conference ended a three-day meeting Monday by approving several resolutions, including one calling for the impeachment of President Nixon.

Ms. De Crow, a Syracuse, N.Y., lawyer, author and speaker who was elected on the third ballot late Sunday night, said "women are entering the mainstream. My philosophy is to do it more rapidly."

"Gender should make absolutely no difference in life," she said. "The movement has gone beyond women's rights to human liberation."

She said the proposed Equal Rights Amendment to the Constitution is a means to an end. Its main effect, she said, would be to make "thousands of anti-women laws unconstitutional," saving women the necessity of testing them individually in court.

On the issue of participation in NOW by anti-abortionists, Ms. De Crow, who prefers that designation, said she did not believe there should be a purity test for joining an organization.

"But I don't think you can be a feminist and be against a woman's right to abortion," she said.

The impeachment resolution said there is "substantial public evidence to President Nixon's participation in high crimes and misdemeanors." It also said there is "substantial evidence that he has obstructed the administration of justice and has repeatedly refused to comply with the requests of the House Judiciary Committee."

The resolution, which NOW spokeswomen said was approved by a unanimous show of hands and was met by applause, said Nixon "has constitutionally impounded funds appropriated by Congress for programs in education, child care, health and research which are vital to the needs of women and children."

Another adopted resolution called for a revision of present rape laws. It said the current legal procedures "often contribute to the victim's humiliation, stress and powerlessness."

The resolution would involve NOW in community and legislative planning "to revise the rules of evidence which place the victim in the position of being on trial, instead of the accused."

About 1,600 delegates attended the conference.

No decision yet on remodeling

BY DON CASTONIA
Post-Crescent staff writer

The long-running Outagamie County Courthouse remodeling project was renewed for at least another two weeks Tuesday night when the County Board sent the remodeling plans back to committee.

Supporters of forces favoring having the county do the remodeling work itself could not muster the necessary three-fourth's vote and those who favored letting the work out on bids could not come up with a majority vote.

Supv. Nick Karras, chairman of the property, building and maintenance committee, which is saddled with the issue, said he did not know what the committee would do with the project now.

At issue is a "domino" remodeling plan involving mostly offices in the courthouse basement. Offices involved are the former sheriff quarters, university extension offices, soil conservation, veterans' service office, service center, nurses' office and employee canteen.

The remodeling was first discussed in committee in March, 1971, and was approved, in principle, by the county board last September. Some work was actually started in the old offices of the sheriff, but a court injunction halted the work because it had not been bid. A circuit court judge agreed that the only way to get around the bidding process was to get approval on a three-fourth's vote of the county board.

The property committee submitted two resolutions Tuesday night, one calling for the county to do the work itself at a cost not to exceed $40,000, and the second authorizing the hiring of an architect at a cost not to exceed $10,000 to prepare specifications for bidding.

Karras said the committee was not endorsing either of the resolutions. But most of the committee, including Karras, spoke in support of the county doing the work itself. Karras produced a letter from Ben Seaborne, of the architectural firm of Sauter, Seaborne, Paynter, Duszak, saying that for a project of that type and size it would be cheaper for the county to do the work itself.

A number of supervisors challenged the request for $10,000 for architectural fees when the entire project estimate was only $40,000.

Supv. John Hennessy charged that the large figure for an architect was inserted to persuade the board to have the county do the work. He also said it seemed odd that the county maintenance staff "can do a $40,000 project without the maintenance work suffering." He added that he questioned the motives of not having gone to bids in the first place.

Supv. Ted LaPin, a member of the property committee, answered that the work probably would be done by outside workers, under the county's direction. "If we bid, the cost will be an awful amount," he contended. He noted that the work could not be done at one time, but would have to be done in a sequence. Karras also questioned whether the entire project could be bid at one time or if separate bids would be needed for each office.

Supv. John Schreiter, who brought the court action to force the present situation, claimed that an attorney general's opinion required that bidding be done first and then, if satisfactory bids were not received, the county could proceed to

BY ARLEN BOARDMAN
Post-Crescent staff writer

While the nation's economy was suffering its worst slump in 16 years during the first quarter of 1974, Appleton and the Fox Valley managed to show economic gains, a survey by two University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh economists has indicated.

Nationally, the January-March, 1974, period showed the "real" gross national product declined at a 5.8 per cent seasonally adjusted annual rate.

"In light of this fact, it is encouraging that the Appleton economy continued to grow modestly during this period," the economists reported. "Total employment and manufacturing employment were significantly higher than year-ago levels."

The Fox Valley economy also showed gains from the 1973 first quarter in everything except new residential building units.

The economists conducting the survey are Dr. Daniel W. Raaf and Dr. Keith E. Voelker, editors of the monthly "Area Economic Indicators." A fund shortage and other factors have led them to eliminate publication for April and June.

The economists used 1971 as the base year, giving it the number 100. Only the figures for unemployment rates weren't factored with 1971 as a base year.

The Appleton indicators for March, 1974, increased 1.1 points, or 1 per cent, to 106.7 points from February, 1974, and from March, 1973, to March, 1974, it rose 4.0 points, or 4 per cent, to 106.7.

Manufacturing employment rose 1.5 points, or 1.4 per cent, to 105.8 from February to March, and 6.6 points, or 6.8 per cent, to 105.8 from March to March.

The unemployment rate for March, 1974, was down to 4.9 per cent compared with 5.0 per cent a year earlier, but the February, 1974, rate was 4.9 per cent. Nevertheless, the economists said, the March rate was lower than a year ago and below the statewide unadjusted rate of 5.5 per cent.

The average weekly manufacturing earnings rose 2.7 points, or 2.2 per cent, to 121.6 points from February to March and 5.7 points, or 5 per cent, to 121.6 from March, 1973. The rise was due mainly to an increase in the average number of hours worked per week.

Commercial and industrial power use rose .5 point, or .8 per cent, to 112.4 points from February to March, and .3 point, or .27 per cent, from March to March.

New residential building units rose 8.3 points, or 50 per cent, to 25.0 from March to March and 14.1 points, or 130 per cent, from February to March. The 1971 total units was 516, which would be equal to 100.

Bank debits rose 22.0 points, or 16.1 per cent, to 158.6 points from March to March and 27.3 points, or 20.8 per cent, to 158.6 points from February to March. This sharp increase to March partially reflects increased financial transactions tied to rapidly rising interest rates available on short-term certificates of deposit.

Large store retail sales dropped 2.0 points, or 1.9 per cent, to 105.4 points from March to March, and rose 13.1 points, or 14.2 per cent, to 105.4 from February to March. If the nearly 10 per cent inflation rate in the national economy is taken into account, the "real" basis sales are down.

Postal receipts rose 2.3 points, or 8.7 per cent, to 114.1 points from March to March and 11.9 points, or 11.6 per cent, from February to March. The postal rates were affected by rate increases in March, 1974.

In the Valley, the total employment rose 2.6 points, or 2.5 per cent, to 106.4 points from March to March, and .8 point, or .75 per cent, to 106.4 from February to March.

The manufacturing employment rose 3.7 points, or 3.5 per cent, to 108.8 points from March to March, and 2 point, or .2 per cent, to 108.8 from February to March.

The unemployment rate for the Valley was 4.4 per cent in March, 1973; 4.7 per cent in March, 1974; and 4.6 per cent in February, 1974.

New water facilities to be open

WEYAUWEGA — New wastewater treatment and water supply facilities here will be opened for public inspection from 1 to 4 p.m. Sunday, and tours will be conducted by city officials and representatives of the consulting engineering firm.

Mayor Fred Maass stated that the new well and pump house will increase the city's water capacity by 62 per cent from 1,022,000 to 1,656,000 gallons per day. Maass said that the greater amount of water and reliability of a third well source will provide assurance to industrial users concerned about water supply, especially for fire protection. The cost of the water project was $71,000.

Weyauwega has been under orders from the Department of Natural Resources to improve its treatment plant and to provide for phosphorus removal. The new facilities include a clarifier, a complete solids oxygen demand reduction. State requirements were set at 90 per cent.

A showdown is one step closer over the determination of what type of data processing system Outagamie County will use for the next several years.

The county board Tuesday night authorized the finance committee to advertise for bids for farming out the county's data processing work to a service company. The vote was 37-2.

County Executive Alvin Woehler has argued for having the county lease the equipment and locating it in the courthouse. Woehler will have until June 11 to approve or veto Tuesday night's action.

Supv. John Hennessy, a member of the finance committee, argued that taking the bids "was not a vote on the system" the county will use. The bids will come back to the county board in July, he said, and the board then will have the executive's proposal and the finance committee's before it for a decision.

Supv. Nick Karras, one of the two to vote against the resolution, argued that Woehler had gone to the coordinating committee two years ago with the data processing request because he wanted to expand beyond what programs the county now had. But, Karras added, the finance committee, proposal only called for bidding the existing programs. "The finance committee should provide us information on what new programs are planned," he said. "It seems they are using nothing new; there is nothing about expanding."

In other action, the board approved a measure to take over the prisoner meal responsibility from the sheriff, effective Jan. 1. Effective at the same time will be a salary increase for the sheriff to $15,000.

A proposed contract for the sale of recovered ferrous metal from the county's solid waste shredding operation was referred back to the zoning committee for additional information. The contract proposal contained a provision for installation of an air classifier on the shredder.

Supv. Eugene Kloes said the resolution should contain the cost information on the classifier, along with the comparative revenue figures for the recovered metal with and without the classifier. Supv. Joseph Kasperek, zoning committee chairman, agreed. The classifier would be used to remove paper and other debris from the metal.

The position of county surveyor no longer will be on the ballot in Outagamie County. Under a state option, the board agreed to abolish the elective position and make the job appointive.

The position of program coordinator for alcohol and drug abuse under the unified health services board was increased from grade 18 to grade 22, the same as other coordinator positions. Supv. Ted LaPin said the alcohol and drug abuse coordinator's position will be greatly expanded as a result of a new state law which eliminates drunkenness as a crime.

A county commission on aging was approved unanimously by the board. The nine-member commission will be appointed by the county executive with board confirmation. At least five of the nine members must be 60 years or older, one must be under 30 and no more than two may be county officials.

Weymont golf club dedicated

WEYAUWEGA — Weymont Run Country Club, toured by more than 200 persons during an open house Monday, was officially dedicated on Memorial Day.

State Rep. Francis Byers, R-Marion, presented the state flag to the club and U.S. Rep. Harold V. Froehlich, R-Wis., presented a United States flag which had flown over the nation's capitol.

Byers was instrumental in obtaining a loan for the clubhouse and the surrounding 84 acres of land.

Club President Walter Koplien Jr. and Mrs. Olin Mead, women's association president, told of plans for future development at the club. Eventually, they said, other types of recreation will be offered and it will be open throughout the year.

Golf leagues for men and women have been formed. Play begins Tuesday. Tuesday will be ladies' day and Thursday will be men's day.

New London may tighten snomo code

NEW LONDON — A stricter snowmobile ordinance, amending the city's three-year-old code, may be introduced to the City Council next week.

Ald. Al Weeden, (3rd), said the only change in the ordinance would be to prohibit snowmobiling on street right of ways. He said snowmobilers would be able to travel to county trails across private property if permission is given by the property owner. Weeden, the chairman of the council's judicial committee, said a local snowmobile club president said he would have no objections to the amendment.

He denied that the ordinance change was brought about by the complaints of one property owner who appeared before the council in January. "This isn't because of the one complaint," he said.

"We don't want to cut out access by snowmobilers — we want to be fair to them," Weeden said. "But on the other hand, property owners should be able to keep them off their land if they want to."

He said snowmobilers will still be allowed to cross streets at 90 degree angles, so one property owner could not stop a trail.

"It doesn't limit the snowmobiler's access, but it does protect the property owners' right," he said. "I think it will create less traffic hazards since they (trails) won't be as close to the road."

Roth to seek second state legislative term

State Rep. Tobias Roth, R-Appleton, noting that the two biggest issues among his constituents are inflation and ethics in public office, announced Tuesday that he will seek his second legislative term.

Roth, 35, promised a "positive and spirited campaign based on my personal ideals and record of service to the people of this area."

No challengers have yet surfaced for Roth's 42nd assembly district seat, although Appleton Ald. William Errington (15th) is said to be considering running as a Democrat.

Candidates have from June 1 to July 9 to file nomination papers for any of the state offices that will be up for election in November.

Roth, who won election to his first term in 1972 after former state Rep. Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton, stepped down to run for Congress, said in a statement today that constituents were talking most about inflation and ethics.

"Our shrinking purchasing power will bankrupt all of us if we do not energetically pursue means to halt inflation which now robs us at a rate in excess of 10 per cent per year," he said.

And he said there can be "no dissent from the principles that all officials must act with unwavering integrity, absolute impartiality and complete devotion to the public interest. A public office must continue to be a public trust."

3 arraigned in shooting at Waupaca

WAUPACA — Two New London men and one juvenile involved in early morning shooting incident Monday in Outagamie and Waupaca counties were arraigned in Waupaca County Court Branch 2 before acting Judge A. Don Zwickey Tuesday.

Neil Roman, 18, 501 Beacon St., New London, and Lee Allan Phillips, 29, 300 1/2 N. Water St., New London, were charged with reckless use of a weapon, damage to property and disorderly conduct.

Their bond was set at $3,000 each, 20 per cent in cash, and requiring two property owners' signatures. They are being held in county jail until their bond is furnished.

Preliminary hearing is set for Thursday.

The juvenile is still being held, pending his hearing.

The three were allegedly in a car from which at least two shots were fired at another car with a .22 rifle.

Waupaca County picks 8 for 4-H Congress

WAUPACA — Eight delegates from Waupaca County will join an estimated 900 other youths in Madison June 11 - 14 at the State 4-H Congress.

Representing Waupaca County will be Jean Hines and Terri Myhra, Iola; Nathan Lick, Waupaca; Joyce Miller, Gregory Suehs and Barbara Bailey, Manawa; James Tomsovic, Marion and Diane Tietz, New London.

Jane Spiegelberg, Manawa, is the State 4-H junior leader representative. Helen Anderson, Ogdensburg, and Patti Steinberg, New London are State 4-H Chorus delegates. Mrs. Mayford Schultz, Manawa, will chaperone the group.

Delegates will participate in one or more of the 45 seminars to be offered. Topics will include communication arts, clientele development, natural sciences, cultural arts, plant and soil sciences, home and family development, mechanical sciences, animal sciences, political and social sciences and health sciences, according to Dieter Harle, Waupaca County UW-Extension 4-H and Youth Agent.

Theme for the congress is "We Can Make a Difference," and during the four-day session, delegates will have an opportunity to question a panel of lawyers and judges and a panel of legislators on contemporary issues affecting youth.

Field trips are planned to give delegates a greater understanding of community problems and resources, educational information and career possibilities.

Delegates will visit the Capitol and the Governor's office; Madison's waste recycling facilities; the Forest Products Laboratory; the Poultry Research Laboratory; Vilas Communication Hall; the Elvehjem Art Center; the UW Cancer Research Laboratory and the State Laboratory of Hygiene.

Bonduel will begin summer events June 10

BONDUEL — The summer recreation program here will begin June 10 and will last for seven weeks, according to John Reinke, recreation director.

The Little League baseball program will include younger boys, ages 8 to 9, at 1 p. m. at Cedar Park field; 10 and 11 year-olds at the village baseball park at 9 a. m. and older boys, ages 12 to 14, at 1 p. m. June 11 at the village park.

A 16-member team will be picked from the two latter groups to participate in the Central Wisconsin Boys' Baseball League, which includes Bonduel, Shiocton, Iola, Marion, Manawa, Weyauwega and Cecil. Four teams will be chosen from the 8 to 12 group to play in the Mid-Get League Wednesday nights at Cedar Park.

Swimming lessons at the Shawano pool will be offered again this summer to second graders from Bonduel, with two five-week sessions scheduled.

Courts

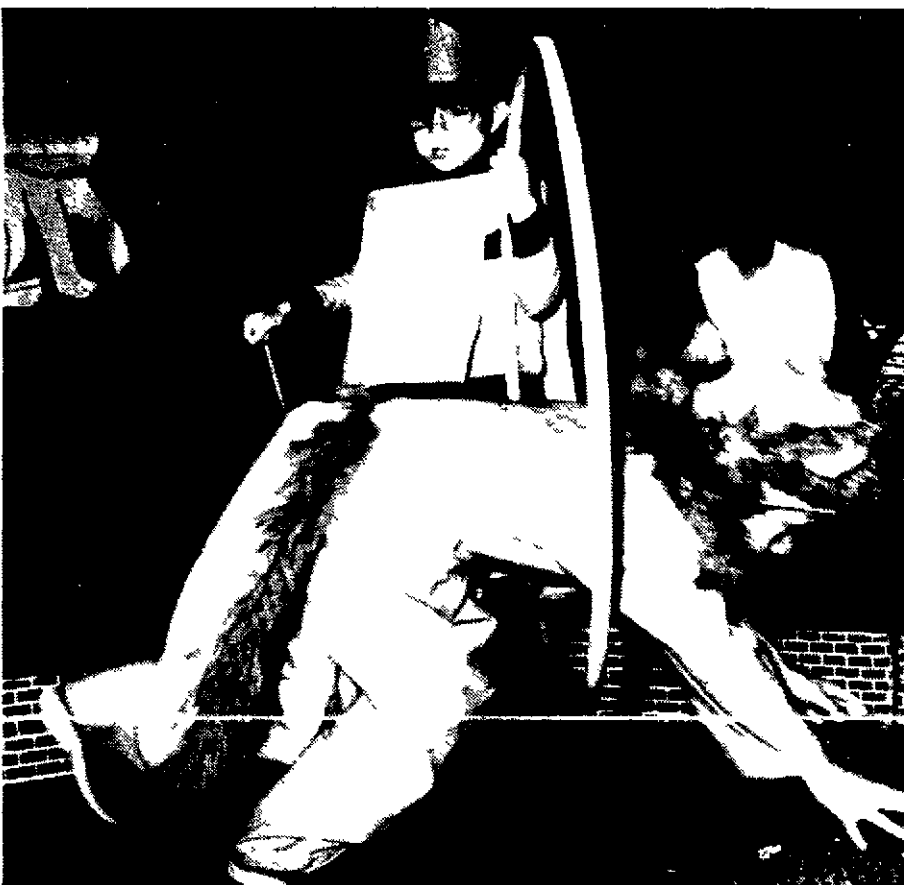

WAUPACA — Trial has been set for 1:30 p.m., June 7 for four Oshkosh men, charged with possession of marijuana, contributing to the delinquency of a minor and furnishing beer to a minor.

Scheduled to appear in County Court Branch 2 are Steven D. Hamp, 20, 5533 Glane Court; John P. McHugh, 18, 838 Eastman St.; Jeffrey M. Andres, 19, 3134 Fond du Lac Road; and Rodney L. Hamp, 19, 5533 Glane Court.

The four men are being held in the county jail, pending their providing $300 property bond each, with one signer.

The 17 year old boy involved is being held in juvenile detention.

The four were arrested late Monday at U.S. 10 and State 45 in the Town of Waupaca, after they had been stopped on a speeding violation by a Waupaca County patrolman and open cans of beer were found in the car, together with a substance that field tested to be marijuana.

Clintonville students earn essay honors

CLINTONVILLE — Eighth and ninth grade students from Clintonville Junior High School have earned prizes in the Waupaca Historical Society's essay contest.

The essay contest which was divided into sixth, seventh and eighth graders, ninth and tenth graders and 11th and 12th graders, had cash prizes of $10, $5 and $3 for first, second and third places, respectively.

Eighth grade winners were Pam Patrikus, first; Amy Behnke, second, and Linda Drefahl, third. Ninth grade winners were Jeff Janke, first; Gary Kautz, second, and Kathy Malliet, third. Honorable mentions were given to Julie Niemuth and Jerelyn Sell, eighth grade, and Jean Boyer. Tina Johnson and Barb Kluth, ninth grade.

Entry in the contest is a part of a continuing program to develop a writing laboratory which will meet the individual needs of all students in the junior high school.

Shiocton students win awards, scholarships

SHIOCTON — High school students were honored recently for their accomplishments in the classroom and in the athletic arena and in other extracurricular areas.

Scholarships for $100 were presented to Lynn Carter and Candy Luethge by the Shiocton Business League and the Shiocton Education Association, respectively.

Ted Sykes, Charles Pluger, Becky Stip and Ellen Krabbe received Wisconsin Honor scholarships. Trophies were presented to 51 students who have been on the honor roll two out of three times this past year. They included 17 freshmen, five sophomores, 15 juniors and 14 seniors.

Certificates of membership in the National Honor Society were given to Douglas Allen, Ron Welch, Laura Calkins, Shelly Conradt, Ray Burton, Dorothy Kirchner, Paula Merson, Sharon Theisen, Gail Tratz, Gary Warmbier and Julie Wittlin.

Charles Pluger, top math student in the school for the past three years, received special recognition. Certificates also were presented to Becky Stip, Ray Burton, Cindy Enderson and Ellen Krabbe.

Medals marking their competition in vocal music events at the state level were given to Bob Schmoll, Don Immel, Suzie Lammers and Cindy McCoy. District medal winners, including the four students who went on to state, were Rose Kelly, Karl Peters, Janice Stip, Sharon Conradt and Lynda Ritchie.

Awards for most valuable player and most improved player in baseball were presented to Bruce Fredricks and Brian Van Straten, respectively. Six youths earned junior varsity letters in baseball and 13 were major letter winners. Honorary captains are Jim Jens and Bruce Fredricks.

Four freshmen received their numerals, eight youths received minor letters and eight received major letters in track.

The senior athlete award went to Mike Bracco. He has earned three letters each in football and basketball and one each in track and baseball.

Wendy Oberstadt was the recipient of the John Philip Sousa award and the distinguished musician certificate.

Seniors Lynn Dey and Jean Hooyman were recognized for maintaining perfect attendance records throughout their high school careers. Seventeen other students received attendance awards for the year.

Awards for participation in subdistrict, district and state forensics competition were presented. Carol Hosack received a medal for her A rating at state and Joan Marcks received a certificate for her participation at the state level.

Outstanding sophomore and junior awards were presented to Bill Schmidt and Ken Carlson, respectively. They each received $25 savings bonds from the Appleton State Bank.

Other award winners include Candy Luethge, Betty Crocker; Jeanne Hooyman, Crisco; and Barb Bunnell, outstanding junior, $25 savings bond from the Appleton State Bank.

As a class gift, the seniors presented pennants from all schools in the Central Wisconsin Conference to their alma mater. The pennants will hang in the gymnasium.

Benefit hike set in Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — The student council at the junior high school will sponsor a project for the benefit of the Waupaca County Mental Retardation Association Saturday when students hold a biking and walking marathon.

The student are seeking sponsors who will pay them a certain amount for each mile traveled. When students get their official records on the trip, they will return to their sponsors and collect the donations previously agreed upon.

The event will begin with a dance at the junior high gymnasium from 7 to 10 p.m. Friday. All proceeds from the dance also will go to the WCMRA.

Faculty cochairmen for the project are Richard Michalski and Alan Wichmann.

Circus time

Activities for all offered at Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — Looking for something to do this summer? This is what Bud Carlson, recreation director, is asking.

The city park and recreation department has a variety of activities to offer for people of all ages for the summer, he explained.

Adult activities include arts and crafts, badminton, basketball, bicycling, horseshoes, jogging, open scuba gym, lessons, tennis, volleyball, water sports (basketball, polo or volleyball), weight reducing, and women's softball.

Activities being planned for the young people include arts and crafts, basketball, miniature golf, mini-olympics, mobile rec unit, open gym, Pee Wee T-ball, softball, tennis, tours (for children), and weight lifting. There will Exhibit to feature art

NEW LONDON — An art exhibit, featuring the work of high school students, will be held in the main hall at the senior high school from 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday.

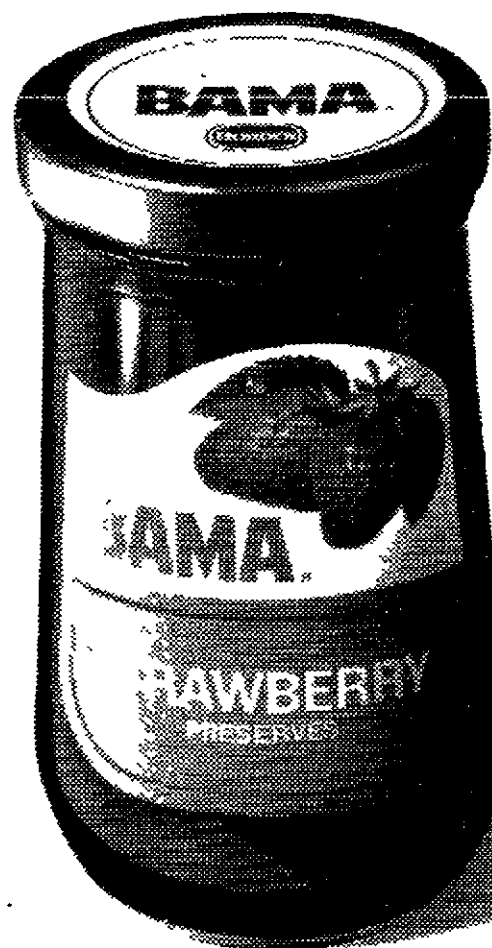

Some of the work will be priced for sale.

Exhibits will include oil, tempera and watercolor paintings, drawings, ceramic ware, jewelry, macrame, stitchery, punch and hooked rugs.

Ellington buried with jazz pomp

NEW YORK (AP) — After a eulogy of word and music echoed by thousands of mourners, jazz giant Duke Ellington has been buried in the city where he first rose to fame half a century ago.

"Duke, we thank you. You loved us madly," the Rev. Norman J. O'Connor said Monday in eulogizing Ellington before 10,000 persons jammed into the huge Episcopal Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine for the Duke's funeral. Another 2,000 stood outside.

"We will love you madly today, tomorrow and forever," added Rev. O'Connor, Roman Catholic priest to the New York jazz community, in paraphrasing Ellington's own traditional signoff.

Born Edward Kennedy Ellington in Washington, D.C., Ellington became a pioneering pianist, band leader and composer here, until many critics described him as the world's greatest jazz composer. He died Friday at age 75 of pneumonia brought on by lung cancer.

Before he was buried next to the graves of his parents in a brief, quiet ceremony at Woodlawn Cemetery in the Bronx, some of the reigning royalty of the music world gathered at St. John the Divine, the city's largest church, for Ellington's funeral.

William "Count" Basie, a friendly rival bandleader and friend of Ellington's for 40 years, rode in a half-mile funeral cortege that wound through Harlem to the church. Joe Williams and Michele LeGrande also rode in the procession.

During the service, Ella Fitzgerald sang Ellington's "Solitude" and pianist Earl "Fatha" Hines performed "Mood Indigo." Besides Williams, others who delivered musical eulogies were pianists Billy Taylor and Mary Lou Williams, jazz violinist Ray Nance and singer Lou Rawls.

Among the overflow crowd attending the services were Benny Goodman, Cootie Williams, Jack Dempsey, Marian McPartland, Milt Jackson and blind singer Al Hibbler.

Representing President Nixon were White House aide Stanley Scott and singer Pearl Bailey. Also present was Miss Bailey's husband, Louis Bellson, who played drums in Ellington's band two decades ago.

"He was a genius of the rarest kind," eulogized jazz historian Stanley Dance, a longtime friend of Ellington's.

"He was a master of all he turned his hand to ... He was a natural aristocrat who never lost the common touch and the greatest innovator in his field. He knew what some called genius was the exercise of gifts which stemmed from God."

"There was some sort of magnetism in him that you couldn't understand," said Sonny Greer, who played drums with Ellington for 25 years before Bellson.

At the end of the nearly two-hour service, the cover of Ellington's silver-colored casket was blessed with a full-length blanket of red roses by the Rt. Rev. Harold Louis Wright, the suffragan bishop of the Episcopal diocese of New York.

The coffin was borne from the church to the cemetery accompanied by the recorded music of Ellington's "Second Sacred Concert," which was taped during the premiere of the work at St. John the Divine in 1968.

Grave for Jeremiah Johnson

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jeremiah Johnson, a rugged frontiersman popularized by a recent film, died in 1900 but he hasn't yet reached his final resting place.

At present, his body is buried in a veteran's cemetery here. But on June 8, because of the efforts of 25 seventh-grade students and their teacher, the grave will be moved to Cody, Wyo., where Johnson roamed a century ago.

Believing that Johnson's grave was not meant to be sandwiched between freeway pillars and skyscrapers in a big California city, the students waged a six-month campaign to have the federal government declare them his unofficial next-of-kin.

Then they made arrangements to have the burial site moved to Cody, where a non-commercial establishment called Trail Town is located. The government gave its approval after the students wrote letters to legislators,

Born John Johnston in 1824 in New Jersey, the frontiersman served in the Union army during the Civil War and later was a logger, trapper, scout and sheriff. He waged a 15-year personal war against the Crow Indians after some of them killed his wife.

He died in a veterans' home in Santa Monica, Calif., on Jan. 21, 1900, penniless and without any known relatives.

Tri Robinson, whose students at Park View Junior High School in Lancaster, Calif. took up Johnson's cause, says some of them will attend the new burial services in Cody on June 8.

"It's funny, though," Robinson said. "Out of all the people we wrote, we got great responses from everyone except Robert Redford. Maybe he never got our letter."

Redford plays the role of Jeremiah Johnson in the recent film of the same name.

Food prices across the country last the Northeast and 18.4 per cent in the West.

The government's transportation in-

"In accordance with Article 14 of the interim constitution of 1971, I therefore proclaim Sanya Thammasak as the prime minister of Thailand."

Assembly Speaker M.R. Kukrit Pramoj delivered the Bhumipol's appointment address to Sanya, a close personal friend of the king.

Sanya, a former member of the king's privy council and chief justice of the Supreme Court, has been acting premier since Wednesday.

He had an audience with the king for more than two hours Sunday at the monarch's summer palace, 150 miles

the two discussed final plans for the confronting the nation.

switched in 1932 from an absolute monarchy to its present form of constitutional monarchy.

State included in SBA probe

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A congressional subcommittee is reported to have included Wisconsin on a hearings agenda concerning the Small Business Administration.

The House Small Business subcommittee, looking into SBA affairs since November, is to hold hearings June 14 in Chicago, and June 15 in Milwaukee and Madison.

A spokesman was quoted as saying the Chicago hearing is to include an interview with Robert A. Dwyer, an SBA regional director who oversees Wisconsin.

SBA sources were quoted by the Milwaukee Sentinel in today's editions as saying the agency's lending activities have been stalled because reports of mismanagement have made banks reluctant to work with the agency.

Wisconsin has been without an SBA director since June.

Symco keeps clean slate in BABA play

Symco remains the only undefeated team and Waupaca lost its first game following weekend action in the south-central division of the Badger Amateur Baseball Association.

Symco beat Lanark, 7-1; and Weyauwega edged Waupaca, 6-5; Buena Vista downed Manawa, 10-6, and Scandinavia nipped New London, 3-2. In a makeup game on Monday Waupaca beat New London, 8-5.

Symco collected 12 hits in defeating Lanark led by Jim Hass with 4-for-5 including a double. Randy Brown homered. Larry Lucht was the winning pitcher.

Waupaca outthit Weyauwega 13-5 in a losing effort. Gary Van Sciele was the winning pitcher and aided his own cause with a home run. Dennis Riddle was the loser for Waupaca. Dave Peterson had two hits including a homer while four others had two hits each.

Bob Barden was the winning pitcher for Buena Vista as he allowed seven hits, struck out eight and walked three. Jerry Brotz, first of three Manawa pitchers, was the loser. Mike Galien had three of Buena Vista's nine hits. Mickey Olson had two hits for the losers.

Bob Moe was the winning pitcher for Scandinavia, allowing seven hits; Terry Wing, the loser also allowed seven hits. Paul Nelson led Scandinavia hitting with 3-for-4. Roger Steingraber and Bob McGraith had two hits each for New London.

In Monday's makeup game New London outthit Waupaca 11-9 in a losing cause. Dan Peterson was the winning pitcher and Greg Baehman the loser. Dan Peterson, Doug Peterson and Bob Solberg homered for Waupaca, and Terry Martin had three hits. Brad Breyer and John Kappernich had three hits each for New London.

Games this Sunday will have Symco at Manawa, Scandinavia at Lanark, Buena Vista at Waupaca and Weyauwega at New London.

do the work itself if a three-fourth's vote were obtained.

Karras noted, however, that the court decision in Schreiter's suit was that the work had to be either approved by a three-fourth's vote or bid.

Supv. Russell DeLaHunt suggested that if plans existed for the county to do the remodeling itself those same plans could be used for bidding, eliminating the need for an architect. Karras replied that an architect or engineer is required by law to draw plans that will be bid.

In a series of votes that finally led to the issue's going back to committee, a motion by Hennessy to table the "do-it-yourself" resolution failed, 14-25; a motion by Supv. John Marzion to refer both resolutions back to committee failed, 23-15, and an attempt by Supv. Eugene Kloes to amend the do-it-yourself resolution to hire an architect on a flat rate basis to coordinate the work lost, 28-9.

The motion to approve having the county do the remodeling itself carried 26-12, but this fell short of the 32 votes needed under the three-fourths requirement. Three-fourths of 42 was needed.

Then, the board rejected, on a 28-10 vote, the resolution authorizing spending $10,000 to hire an architect.

removal. Pilot tests conducted at the plant in 1972 provided the basis on which to design the phosphorus removal process. Ferric chloride with a compatible polymer was selected as the best chemical and most economical to use in the final design for the type of waste discharged to the plant, officials said.

The sludge resulting from the added chemicals presented special problems for dewatering. A vacuum filter process was installed to remove excess water before discharge of the sludge to the drying beds.

Figures supplied by Cal Cheek, city clerk and administrator, show the total cost of the wastewater treatment project was almost $500,000, with 80 per cent of this cost paid through a federal grant of 55 per cent and a state grant of 25 per cent. The total cost to the city was about $100,000.

Design engineers for both projects were Foth & Van Dyke and Associates, Inc., Green Bay.

THE Post-Crescent

Rainmaking in Vietnam

Two years ago, then Defense Secretary Melvin Laird denied with the usual "categorically" adverb that the United States military was dabbling in rainmaking in Vietnam. Now Laird concedes that he didn't know it was going on.

The rainmaking operation was not conceived as a boon to the Vietnamese or some sort of god-appeasing activity. Its purpose was to slow the movement of the North Vietnamese down the Ho Chi Minh trail. Toward this result the Air Force flew more than 2,000 cloud seeding missions from Thailand and dropped almost 50,000 canisters of silver or lead iodide over North and South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia. The attempts started in March, 1967, during Lyndon Johnson's time in the White House and then stopped during the bombing halt. It was resumed after Richard Nixon came to office and reached a peak in 1971. It was stopped for good — apparently — in July, 1972, two days after the New York Times published a long article about it.

Rainmaking cannot be compared with dropping napalm upon undefended villages of course. A deputy assistant Secretary of Defense, Dennis Doolin, said that "if an adversary wanted to stop me from getting from point A to point B, I would rather he stopped me with a rainstorm than stopped me with a bunch of bombs. Frankly, I view this in that context as really quite humane, if it works."

The long range effects may be more serious but there is little agreement among the experts about them. Doolin says he investigated to find out, for instance, whether less needed rain would fall in Thai rice paddies because it fell in greater quantities in Laos. He received a negative answer. An article in Science magazine by Harvard biology professor Matthew Meselson, however, warns that "weather modification used as a weapon of war has the potential for causing large scale and quite possible uncontrollable and unpredictable destruction."

But the angle that boggles the mind is how this sort of operation could get started, be halted and then resumed without the Secretary of Defense even knowing about it? Reportedly it was Henry Kissinger's baby and the present Secretary of State, for all his negotiating ability, hardly should have determined the matter in his position as the President's advisor to the national security council.

The Pentagon apparently knew where to go, whom to see, and what strings to pull, to get what it wanted. But it is unsettling, to say the least, for the American people.

Tighter restrictions on drugs

The Food and Drug Administration is considering tighter restrictions on the refilling of prescriptions for Valium, a multipurpose drug that has become the No. 1 prescribed drug in the United States and perhaps the world.

Valium is prescribed in general for specific pains that somehow are eased by its effect upon the brain. Professional athletes, those who have slipped spinal discs or who must undergo uncomfortable medical procedures not severe enough for anaesthesia are among the customers. So, too, are a lot of Americans seeking to combat anxiety or simply feeling themselves in tense conditions of stress.

The extensive use of Valium has been criticized as treating the symptom rather than the cause of many people's ailments. About one American adult in ten has taken Valium. In Western Europe the percentage runs as high as 17. More women than men take the drug and the use increases with age when presumably both tensions and pains get more frequent. There has been some psychological addiction and large doses can cause mental confusion, sleepiness and even coma particularly if the user also takes alcohol. But Valium is far safer than most tranquilizers. It certainly isn't in the mind-blowing category.

Some doctors have argued that it's better to prescribe Valium than to have unhappy patients turn to something with more deleterious effects. Dr. Edward Tocus, a FDA official, asks "if we restrict one drug, what's going to happen to the people who want it? What will they turn to? If the chances are that they will turn to something more harmful, then we must decide if we will do better by letting them have a certain drug that is less harmful or take a risk of pushing them into something that may be worse and cause more deaths, like alcohol."

In a new book about Valium and its relative, Librium, Drs. David Greenblatt and Richard Shader write that "what the thousands of anxious patients need is the busy doctor's least available commodity — time." Valium may be only a crutch but at this juncture at least it seems to have few permanent crippling effects.

Yet the very fact that Americans and Western Europeans in particular turn to tranquilizers in various forms, from alcohol and barbiturates to addictive narcotics, demonstrates that we still are a long way from finding that happiness we are so free to pursue.

Debutante queen exiled

When American debutante Hope Cooke married the heir to the throne of the Asian mountain kingdom of Sikkim more than ten years ago, it sounded like a fairytale romance. But once again, never the twain shall meet. The Queen of Sikkim and the couple's two young children are living in New York. The King was forced from power last year but has remained at home.

Tremendous differences in background are always a threat to a stable marriage or any sort of living arrangement. There's a major change from life in an American suburb to a palace in the Himalayas. Attitudes toward religion, women, life itself are bound to conflict.

But the big trouble for the King and Queen of Sikkim apparently was politics. It was not so much what the rulers thought as what their subjects did. Sikkim has several ethnic groups but the largest is Nepalese. They wanted to continue Sikkim's reliance upon India and they feared that the King's American wife was encouraging him in other directions. Whether it was true or not really doesn't matter.

Opposition to his policies was just something a monarch should expect, the King explained. But such noblesse oblige is not something that is taught to young women in American schools. For the time being anyway, international politics has triumphed over romance.

John Wyngaard

Campaign reform 'has jumped track'

MADISON — While the proceedings in the Republican state Senate on the election campaign finance reform bill as received from the Democratic Assembly defied ready analysis, most of the accounts tended to show a clear — and unusual — bias for the Democratic point of view on what may be the most important issue in this special term of the legislature.

One of the widely distributed accounts of the happenings in the Senate last week, for example, centered on the fact that the Republican majority there insisted upon cutting back the proposed expenditure authorizations.

One correspondent wrote: "Amendments added by the Senate, generally with strong Republican support, weakened penalty provisions and lowered the spending limits to, in some cases, less than has been spent in recent campaigns."

He continued: "The lower spending limits, observers noted, probably would work to the advantage of Republican candidates this year, since Republicans are expected to have difficulty raising money as a result of Watergate." Is there anybody available who wishes to reserve the bandstand in the park for a speech arguing that $600,000 as a permissible campaign fund for a candidate for governor is niggardly?

Or more relevantly, is there anyone who would volunteer to debate on the affirmative side that a fund of $600,000, as proposed in the Assembly Democratic bill that was sent to the Senate, is required for a statewide candidacy, or that the electorate would support such a huge expenditure, given a chance to express itself?

As far as the record shows, no Wisconsin politician thus far has spent a sum remotely approaching such a total. Until recently, of course, there has been very little interest in the probability that the laws were so loosely written, with so little assurance of enforcement of even a weak and indifferently administered control code, that nobody has had any confidence that the truth about campaign costs was being put on the record.

But for what it is worth, memory does not recall that any candidate thus far in this state has spent half of the amounts now suggested for aspirants for statewide office.

Had anyone been put on the record for such a massive expenditure in any election thus far, the shock waves would have been felt from one border of the state to the other. Yet the impression is given that reservations about such lavish expenditures means resistance to the idea of "campaign finance reform."

A $600,000 spending limit — which will quickly become the assumed requirement in the operation of the political parties — will forever make it impossible for the candidate of modest means or without powerful special interest attachments to aspire to important state office.

Somehow the finance reform movement, one of the encouraging episodes of the times in state politics in spite of the fact that it obviously took its impetus from the politicians' alarm flowing from the Watergate scandals, has jumped the track.

The objective of all persons with a desire to preserve the integrity of representative government should be to protect the right of all qualified persons to run for office by limiting the amount of money that can be invested to corral votes. In short, the goal of reform should be to prevent the purchase of elections by the rich or those who can strike bargains with special interests to fuel their campaign chests.

The first and most important tool for such reform is a foolproof statute on full and timely disclosure of money sources and expenditures. Both political parties as now represented in the legislature appear agreed about that objective as a minimum.

But they are far apart on what is a legitimate limit on the use of money to win votes and in that fact there is an eloquent irony. Ringing in the ears and the plaintive speeches of today's prospering Democrats is that it was Republican money that did them in during their fledgling years.

British fostered opium in China

My column a few weeks ago about racial stereotypes reminded me of the luridly distorted view I had of the Chinese when I was a boy and devouring all those Sax Rohmer books about "the insidious Dr. Fu Manchu."

Dr. Fu was a Master Criminal, with a vast network extending into every Chinatown in the world. His specialty, of course, was "opium dens," and to my febrile adolescent mind every harmless Chinese laundry or carry-out chop suey joint contained in the rear a trap-door leading to an opium den or a delivery depot for "White Slavery."

It was not until many years later, when I began to study history in a serious way, that I learned about the "Opium Wars" that took place in the 1840s and 1850s — and how the Chinese got their unsavory reputation for dealing in this drug and its deadly derivatives.

Actually, it was the British — and this is perhaps the darkest blot on their imperial escutcheon — who were responsible for importing the opium habit into China, near the middle of the last century. Far from those sinister, slant eyed, inscrutable Orientals depraving the West, it was those upright, blue eyed and infinitely greedy Anglo-Saxons who corrupted the East.

In the 1800s, the rulers of China had imposed restrictions on foreign trade, and were especially severe in prohibiting the importation of opium from India and other places in the Far East. Indeed, opium belonging to British merchants was destroyed in the harbor of Canton.

The British East India Company — which was controlled jointly by private capitalists and Parliament — seized on this action as an excuse to attack several coastal cities in China. Revenues were falling, and the East India Company sought in the distribution of opium to open a whole new lucrative field of profit for British entrepreneurs.

Lacking modern arms, the Chinese Imperial government had no chance; within two years China capitulated, and five ports were opened to British trade residence; Hong Kong was ceded to the British, and the Chinese people were saturated with cheap and abundant supplies of opium, which enslaved the natives and enriched the foreign exploiters.

A dozen years later China tried to throw off the yoke, and a second Opium War ensued. This time, with the help of the gallant French, the British captured Tientsin and Peking, burning the imperial summer palace, and opened new "treaty ports" throughout China for their pernicious trade in human suffering and death.

Somehow, Sax Rohmer had failed to tell me any of this; I wonder if it was because he was an Englishman whose real name was Arthur F. Ward?

There's better sites for county landfill

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

In my letter of May 16 to the People's Forum I wrote about the proposed landfill site across from Plamann Park.

On May 19, Eric Rogers wrote a letter attempting to clear up certain implications he thought I had made when I quoted the "Capital Times City News," Madison, April 15.

Mr. Rogers said that it would be impossible to identify a plastic bag after it had been shredded.

In regard to this, I would again like to quote from this same article. City Public Works Director Edwin Duszynski of Madison had this to say, "The plastic doesn't get shredded properly in the machines, and it is also so lightweight it gets blown about quite easily."

In regard to Mr. Rogers' statement that "state law requires a six inch daily cover of soil," I would again like to quote from this article.

"Duszynski vigorously denied that the city ever told area residents the site would be covered with dirt on a daily basis. Besides, we cover daily at the Sycamore site and it still blows around."

I heartily agree with Mr. Rogers that a landfill site can be beneficial to a community if a site is in an area that can be used for nothing else like the Olin Ave. site in Madison was, and when its purpose as a landfill is completed it can be made into something beautiful like a park.

But the proposed site across from Plamann Park is already a beautiful area. Why destroy its beauty for 5, 10, or 15 years? And after this time it would still be a hill made out of trash.

I think there must be better and more suitable sites available in Outagamie County.

Senators earn their fees for speeches

WASHINGTON — U.S. senators earned a total of $1,027,000 last year from fees for magazine articles, advances on forthcoming books and honorariums for speeches and public appearances.

The Senate requires a public accounting of all such moonlighting — although, in its wisdom, it permits secrecy to cloak other outside income from stocks, real estate or similar financial investments.

So the senators dutifully recorded their speaking fees this month, and were predictably criticized for thus supplementing their $42,500 annual salaries. Those who are worried about the practice contend that most of the groups before whom the senators speak have business pending before the Congress, posing possible conflict-of-interest questions.

It is certainly true that senators are generally invited to speak before groups interested in the area of expertise of their committees or sympathetic to their previously stated positions on major issues. Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.), for instance, earned $44,733 by addressing a variety of conservative-oriented groups, while Sen. James Abourezk (D-S.D.), the only senator of Middle East ancestry, made $49,425, mostly by speaking to Arab and Near East groups.

It's honest extra work
But this columnist fails to find anything sinister in the Senate habit of accepting fees for speeches. Other citizens get paid for honest extra work, and there is no sensible reason why politicians shouldn't also.

And making a speech is work. I won't do it for free, and neither will most prominent public figures who are not employed by the government.

Preparing a speech requires considerable thought and effort, even if the final product is created by a ghostwriter. That is time lost from other job-related activities. Then come more lost hours, riding in airplanes and cars, making small talk with strangers, eating rubber banquet food in hotels, and bedding down far from home and family.

The inconvenience and irritation of the whole act are not lessened by the music of applause nor the publicity and added exposure. The senators fully earn those fees.

Speculative rewards
True, an active speech schedule may bring additional rewards in the future. However, that is highly speculative. Campaign contributions may be forthcoming later from audiences favorably impressed. Political support may be pledged by grateful organizations. Good publicity may fuel a budding presidential candidacy.

But those things don't always happen. And senators should not be expected to accept only invitations from large and influential organizations, from whence such goodies most likely flow. Smaller groups should have an equal opportunity to bid for a share of a senator's time.

The danger that a speaking fee might be, in reality, a concealed pay-off for a dishonorable senator's vote does, of course, exist. But there are easier ways to slip forbidden cash into a greedy palm, if the persons are so inclined.

On the whole, earning extra money through speaking fees may be the most straightforward means possible for a senator to ease the financial pressures of maintaining two homes and shuttling back and forth between Washington and his state. Sen. Charles Mathias (R-Md.) defended the practice recently by declaring bluntly that it was the only "above board" way he could afford to be a public servant.

Looking back Temperance good works keep going

100 YEARS AGO
Appleton Post, May 24, 1874.

The temperance segment of this city (Appleton) is only just beginning, to show the pure metal of which it is composed. It is an easy thing to manifest zeal in any cause when stimulated by great excitement, but when this has died away continued efforts in the same direction is the real test of sincerity.

The temperance people in Appleton are just as much in earnest to-day as before election, or at any time since this reform was instituted. On Sunday evening last, a very interesting mass meeting was held in the Congregational Church, which was largely attended. The meeting was first addressed by Rev. Mr. Tilton, who made a forcible and characteristic argument against the nefarious liquor traffic. He was followed by the Rev. Mr. Grassie, who made one of the best speeches on this question that we have heard during the campaign. It was an effective and powerful effort.

A public mass meeting of the Temperance League was also held on Monday evening. This was addressed by W. J. Allen, Dr. Page, C. L. Fay, Mrs. Dr. Steele, Mrs. Dr. Page and others. Several excellent temperance pieces were sung with good effect. The temperance people are as determined as ever to carry on the good work, until a satisfactory conclusion is reached.

25 YEARS AGO
Tuesday, May 24, 1949.

Miss Mary Lochschmidt, Kimberly, was chosen to attend a 5-day course at the Junior Red Cross Training Center at Oconomowoc.

Mrs. William Playman and Mrs. Robert Strassburger were co-chairpersons for the annual program tea of Benefit Circle of King's Daughters.

Edwin F. Zordel was elected president of the Appleton MacDowell Male Chorus. He succeeded Karel Richmond. Other officers were Lloyd Buchanan, vice president; John H. Bandy, recording secretary; Fred Stolzenberg, treasurer; Milton Babino, music secretary; George Hoffer and Kermit Meltz, directors.

10 YEARS AGO

New officers of the Clintonville Jaycettes were Mrs. Harry Owen, president; Mrs. Carl Dehnke, vice president; Mrs. Gary Below, secretary; Mrs. Roman Ritchie, treasurer, and Mrs. Peter Oberhauser, retiring president at state director.

Mrs. Earl Behnke was installed as president of the Brillion Woman's Club. Two science teachers at Freedom High School, Herman Reschke and Albert Glockzin, were awarded grants for further study by the National Science Foundation. Glockzin was head of the chemistry department and Reschke the biology department.

Chaperones pleased at high school dance

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

Last Friday evening, May 17, my husband and I had the opportunity to be chaperones at the dance at AHS-East. On our way home we agreed that we had been pleasantly surprised.

After hearing so many stories about the behavior of the students at the high school dances we had gone expecting... we didn't know what.

Yes, the music was loud. Yes, most of the students wore jeans, but they were clean. There was no smoking, no drinking, no undesirable behavior. It was simply a rather large group of young adults enjoying themselves and each other. They respected our reminder (needed only twice in 3½ hours) to stay in the designated area. The students who knew us greeted us; and many whom we did not know also smiled and spoke to us.

Just sign us as proud to be,

Defeat predicted for Sen. Fulbright

BY TIM WYNGAARD
Special to The Post-Crescent
HOT SPRINGS, Ark. — When Senator J. William Fulbright took a full day off the campaign trail here last week to slide into the hot mineral baths, he revealed a secret about himself most Arkansas voters already know.
He's getting old.

J. William Fulbright

For the 69-year-old chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee isn't able to withstand the rigors of a campaign trail in the Democratic primary contest to be held here today to determine whether he will have a chance to serve a sixth term in the U.S. Senate. The contrast between the shuffling, frail Fulbright and the 48-year-old aggressive, articulate and ambitious Gov. Dale Bumpers is painful to watch. But it underscores the elements of the campaign here as seen by the Arkansas voter. To the seers of the Washington press corps, Fulbright is an unwilling victim of a Watergate syndrome. The pressure to vote the "ins out and the outs in" is overpowering this year, according to some of the aging writers who came to Washington three decades ago with Fulbright. But a week of walking the hills and fields, village squares and streets of Arkansas with both candidates leaves the overpowered impression that the varied changes that defeated Sen. Ernest Gruening of Alaska and Wayne Morse of Oregon in 1968 and Sen. Albert Gore of Tennessee in 1970 may combine to take a fourth victim in Fulbright. Age, and in addition, arrogance of power may defeat one of the most powerful members of the U.S. Senate and change the complexion and direction of that body for a decade to come. Fulbright, clad in checkered shirt and rumpled slacks, frayed sport shirt and hush puppies on the campaign trail, is being accused widely of abandoning the state after his 1968 re-election. "Fulbright's a counterfeit. We never see him," said Virginia Brown, a 38-year-old bookkeeper at a Reynolds Aluminum Company plant in Conway, Ark. recently. "He just comes around in election years. Until then, he's Sen. J. William Fulbright. Then he's plain Bill Fulbright, with the checkered shirt. It's his cheap tricks — like flying (Secretary of State Henry) Kissinger in here to help him. All they do is have a press conference at the Little Rock Airport. Then they fly off. "He'd bring the Arabs in here, if he thought it would help him." "He was born with a silver spoon in his mouth," said a five-time Fulbright voter, now living in a nursing home. The lack of attention during the last six years switched his vote this year. "I just wish I could vote for Dale Bumpers a 1000 times," he said. Bumpers, faced with that kind of support, reflected in public opinion polls that gave him a 2-1 edge within the past four weeks, isn't talking about Fulbright. In fact, he's talking about very little at all. Inflation is bothering the country, says Bumpers. Unemployment is a problem, the energy crisis was uncomfortable. Congress has a lower public image rating than does a damaged president. What is needed, says Bumpers, is new national leadership than can inspire Americans. What Arkansas voters need "is a senator who will listen to you. Fulbright, angered at Bumpers' refusal to debate, sniffs that Bumpers' speeches don't mean anything." Fulbright says that all Bumpers has "is an attractive smile, one speech and a shoeshine." Bumpers, however, is tremendously popular here after more than three years in office as governor. The economy is rising, industry is moving into the state, taxes haven't risen uncontrollably, racial strife has decreased, and schools are being built. And he has sex appeal. "That's Dale Bumpers. He just melts the panty hose off me," said one star-struck woman voter last week after meeting him. Fulbright's history is catching up with him as well. He's being accused by young blacks of handing black ministers money to "buy" black votes this year. He is being attacked by white and black liberals for his typical southern voting record on racial issues. And one of his young aides miscalculated badly two weeks ago by trying to remind white voters of Bumpers' record of calling out the state police to quell white violence against blacks. It is a classic combination of influences which have changed voting patterns of other southern states in recent years. It may have come as well to Arkansas and Fulbright may be its next victim. Two route 2, Hortonville persons were treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital for injuries they sustained in a single-car accident on County Trunk TT in Hortonville early Monday. The driver, Larry D. Young, 20, escaped with a cut lip, while a passenger, Susan R. McNichols, 16, received minor arm cuts and a fractured wrist. Police said Young was westbound on TT when the vehicle apparently went out of control, left the pavement and entered a ditch. SEYMOUR — Two persons were taken to Green Bay St. Mary's Hospital for treatment of injuries they received when their motorcycle skidded out of control on loose gravel and overturned. The accident took place at County Trunk VV and Isaac Road, northeast of the city, about 5 p.m. Monday. Police said the driver, David P. Cichocki, 21, Green Bay, sustained a chin cut, while his passenger, Joanne M. Konkel, 18, Green Bay, received a knee cut.
